BRITISH PLEDGE NOT TO PERMIT GERMANY TO DIE

MacDonald Is Feted on Visit to Berlin.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 27.—Solemn toasts were exchanged tonight between Prime Minister MacDonald and Foreign Secretary Henderson of Great Britain and Chancellor Bruening of Germany, at a banquet in the former palace of Bismarck. This is the first official visit by British statesmen to the German capital since the world war. Mr. MacDonald arrived in Berlin this afternoon and was given one of the most enthusiastic welcomes ever accorded a foreign statesman. Thousands cheered him at the railway station. Mr. Henderson arrived this morning.

Chancellor Bruening at tonight's banquet expressed thanks to the British for their "cooperation in the enactment of the Hoover moratorium plan" and pledged his word "for the cooperation between all nations of Europe, which alone will make possible a thorough cure of all Europe's ills. The foundations for this cooperation were laid in London. May we witness the constructive work together and may it serve the world's peace."

"Germany Cannot Die."

Mr. MacDonald told the German chancellor it is his belief that "your country cannot die," and he assured him that, should Germany be unable to surmount the crisis alone, the nations would help. He strongly urged a Franco-German conference in the near future.

"We have not come to Berlin merely to return your call, but also to assure the world that, despite the difficulties of the present situation, our confidence in Germany continues unabated," Mr. MacDonald said. "We are filled with admiration for Germany and we are firmly convinced that if she continues her efforts, if she uses all her intellectual, moral, and economic powers to get on her feet again, without giving way to despair, other nations will help her and will not suffer her to go under. A free, self-respecting Germany is indispensable."

Stimson Sees Von Hindenburg.

That the war is definitely over between the Anglo-Saxon races and Germany was clearly demonstrated today, when American Secretary of State Stimson paid a friendly call on President von Hindenburg. He was cheered by onlookers in Wilhelmstrasse.

Wearing a top hat and carrying a silver stick, Stimson was saluted by the German White House guards as he walked up the steps of the old palace, now the home of Von Hindenburg. He was closeted with the German president for half an hour. Shortly after this meeting Stimson took an airplane for Amsterdam. He will go to London tomorrow. Before leaving he issued a statement, in which he said:

"The American people have faith in the German people and believe in their future. My faith in Germany has been strengthened by my visit here. I believe the present difficulties are due mostly to temporary lack of confidence and that through courage and renewed confidence Germany's position will be restored."

Hope for Parley with French.

No details have leaked out concerning Mr. Stimson's conversations with the German statesmen, but it is understood that the latter have assured him that all efforts will be made by Germany to establish the same friendly relations with France as with England and America. It is now stated in official circles that the French premier will meet the Germans in Berlin Germany, probably at Baden Baden, around Aug. 20 for a general conference.

Some immediate practical results are expected from the British-German conference than from Stimson's visit. Details of banking agreements must be worked out this week, and for this purpose Col. Oliver Sprague, American adviser to the Bank of England, and Messrs. Wallenberg, Swedish industrialist, who acted as an expert on the Young plan committee, will also be in Berlin tomorrow to take part in a general conference with Luther, Curtius, MacDonald, and Henderson.

The government tonight issued a new decree which provides that all foreigners in Germany, whether German or foreign, must declare their foreign holdings, if they are over $12,000, within ten days. The purpose of the decree is to obtain accurate estimates of the total German foreign indebtedness.

INQUEST JURY CLEARS WIDOW OF "DON JUAN"

Shooting Is Held "Accidental."

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

Six men on a coroner's jury at St. Bernard's hospital yesterday gave "accidental death" as their verdict concerning the shooting on Sunday of Dell F. Harbaugh, middle aged salesman and inventor. Their decision freed his 22 year old widow, Elizabeth, who burst into tears and flung out both arms, wordlessly, in gratitude to the jurors.

While she sobbed hysterically on the shoulder of her father, William H. Lamb, a jeweler from Earlville, Ill., Assistant State's Attorney Nat Ruvell intimated that there was little likelihood that she would be prosecuted. He doubted, he said, that any grand jury would vote a true bill. Later Ruvell announced definitely that he would abide by the inquest verdict, and that unless additional evidence was forthcoming, there would be no grand jury action in the case.

Prosecutor's Doubtful.

The prosecutor's attitude was based on evidence at the inquest that Harbaugh was a cad; a man who paraded his infidelities before strangers and intimates alike, twitted his wife about his conquests, and apparently did not even confine his philanderings to the women of his own race.

Cowering in her chair, where she sat slumped with her father's arm about her shoulders, the small town girl who caught the fancy of this Don Juan so many years her senior, sat unmoved through the sordid story being revealed from the witness stand. Only once did her emotion get the best of her. When Mrs. Norman Edwards, her landlady, and girlhood friend, told of hearing Harbaugh boast that he had a wife and child in another city, she broke down and sobbed convulsively.

Wife Tells Her Story.

Later, on the advice of her attorney, Emmet Byrne, she took the stand and of her own volition related to the jurors the events that led up to her struggle with her husband for the revolver which was discharged as he wrested it from her hand, the bullet striking him in the abdomen. The fatal shooting occurred at 70th and Halsted streets, to which place Harbaugh's wife had followed him after he left their home at 7132 South Peoria street on Sunday afternoon after she had become suspicious that he was going to meet another woman.

Mrs. Harbaugh's voice was dry and shaking, and she swallowed painfully at intervals, but there were no more tears as she went through the recital at the inquest yesterday.

Sags Over the Desk.

Unconsciously dramatic, she sagged listlessly over the desk where the coroner's deputy, James Gleason, was shuffling the documents in the case, as she gave the details of that sudden battle for possession of the revolver with which, she testified, she meant to take her own life.

"I had it in my pocket," she recited, in a low voice. "I flipped back the lapel and showed him the gun, and I said: 'If you really mean you aren't going to keep those promises you made to me Wednesday night I'm going to end it all right here and now.' Then he snatched for it and we wrestled around there. My pocket was torn. I was trying to get my finger on the trigger when I felt it slipping. I knew he had it, and I got frightened. I turned to run away, and just as I started I heard the gun go off. I'm not sure, but I think it was just as I turned away that I heard the shot."

Coat is Evidence of Struggle.

Sergt. Anthony Scheid of the Englewood police stepped from behind her chair and held up a white wool coat, a gay little summer wrap with white patch pockets. The one on the right side, ripped loose, hung by a few threads, giving evidence of the pull that had torn it.

"Why did you run, if you were intending to commit suicide?" asked the assistant state's attorney.

"I didn't know what he might be going to do, and I was so shocked and frightened," she said.

"Have you anything else to say?" put in the deputy coroner.

"I have only this to say," she replied, rubbing one hand across her face, speaking as though only half awake. "That it was my intention to do away with myself, so that he wouldn't be bothered with me any more. I don't know exactly how he came to get shot."

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Edwards, with whom the Harbaughs had made

Hoover Asks Steel Wages Be Maintained

Washington, D. C., July 27.—[Special.]—The meeting of the directors of the United States Steel corporation in New York tomorrow will be watched by the administration as a possible test of President Hoover's stand against downward revision of wage scales.

On the strength of reports that the steel corporation is under pressure to reduce wages, the administration has appealed to leaders of this key industry to exhaust every expedient before considering such a step.

Only 12 to 15 per cent of the industries reporting to the labor department thus far have reduced wages. It is estimated, as against reductions by 92 per cent of these industries in 1921, and the administration fears that a cut now by the steel corporation might let down the bars throughout the country.

Forerunner of Cut?

James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel corporation, has been regarded as one of the stanchest backers of the President's effort to maintain wage scales. His recommendation is expected to point the way in tomorrow's meeting of his board of directors. High administration officials understand that a move to reduce dividends is expected tomorrow and they fear that this might be the forerunner of a wage cut.

While the administration concedes that it is better for an industry to reduce wages than to go to the wall, the President is represented to have resisted consistently all suggestions of lower wages in the key industries, such as the steel business, the railroads, and the public utilities, which form the backbone of American industrial life and which, he believes, have the resources to hold up the wage lines and the American standard of living.

Lamont Letter Given Out.

A letter to Representative Francis B. Condon, Democrat of Rhode Island, made public today with White House approval, Robert P. Lamont, secretary of commerce, declared that every industry represented in the President's emergency conferences of 1929 had maintained the wage rates that were in effect two years ago.

It was pointed out collaterally that a cut in the steel industry would be the first significant departure and undoubtedly would lead to others and possibly to consumer demoralization and ultimately perhaps to industrial disturbances.

Secretary Lamont's letter was regarded as of importance as the first instance of the administration being put on record as conceding a necessity of "temporary wage reductions," though only where the alternative was to close down. The letter was in reply to a protest to President Hoover from Representative Condon that the textile industry in Rhode Island was reducing wages and thereby violating the "agreement" made at the White House in the fall of 1929 between capital and labor whereby the former volunteered not to cut wages during the economic emergency and labor leaders pledged organized labor to avoid strikes and industrial disputes.

In the case of Rhode Island reductions mentioned, Secretary Lamont declared the government could not interfere, and that, if it would, the interference probably would be ineffective. Moreover, he pointed out that the textile industry was not represented in the White House conference of 1929.

Denied by Doak and Klein.

Secretary of Labor William Doak and Dr. Julius Klein, assistant secretary of commerce, joined in the assertion that there had been no change in the administration's policy regarding the maintenance of wage levels.

"I do not think there should be a reduction in wages under any circumstances," said Dr. Klein. "There are other ways of curtailing expenditures such as dividend cuts and reductions in salaries, rather than to resort to wage cutting."

Lindberghs May Start to Japan Today

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 27.—[Special.]—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh's 7,100 mile air trip to Siberia and the orient is to be a "visit." Col. Lindbergh was insistent about that tonight as he and Mrs. Lindbergh sat in the office of Acting Secretary of State William R. Castle Jr., following their arrival here a few minutes past 5 o'clock.

Having left North Beach, L. I., at 2 minutes past three, it took just two hours for the Lockheed-Sirius plane in which the visiting will be done to fly the 225 miles to the capital and settle its newly fitted pontoons on the water at the naval air station.

The start of the Lindberghs' trip will probably be from Washington and it may be tomorrow or possibly the day after.

Plan to Skip New York.

There will be no stop in New York provided they can get away from here shortly after noon. And the day will depend on how speedily last minute duties can be accomplished. At any rate, the start will not be "official." On that point the colonel was insistent. He and Mrs. Lindbergh, he explained, are touring as private citizens, and they dropped in at the state department not because it was the state department, but because their friend Mr. Castle's office happened to be there.

Their purpose in coming to Wash-

Moscow Goal of One Plane; One for Turkey

FLOYD BENNETT AIRPORT, New York, July 28.—(AP)—Russell Boardman and John Polando, Boston flyers, hopped off at 5 a. m. [Chicago daylight saving time], in their Bellanca monoplane "Cape Cod" on an intended nonstop flight to Istanbul, Turkey. Eighteen minutes later Hugh Herndon and Clyde Pangborn took off in their second attempt for a nonstop flight to Moscow.

Boardman and Bennett rolled down the 4,100 foot runway at 100 miles an hour, bumped twice and went into the air at an altitude of 50 feet. They could rise no higher because of their weight and lack of wind, and were forced to continue southwest over Jamaica Bay towards the ocean, although their intended course was northeast, towards Newfoundland.

Crowd Watches Takeoff.

More than 300 spectators, including Dr. James S. Kimball, government meteorologist and starter for most trans-Atlantic flyers, watched the takeoff of the Boston men. To fly to their intended destination it was said they would have to fly over the field again and head north. Aviators said it would be difficult for the plane to gain altitude unless a wind came up, or by dumping some of their gasoline.

Herndon and Pangborn's monoplane, which almost crashed in the gully at Roosevelt field in the previous takeoff, went into the air like a bird. It rolled down the runway, gained speed, went over the bay at 500 feet, circled back over the airport and continued north. It was lost to gaze in a moment.

Seek to Break Record.

Herndon and Pangborn plan to fly around the world in hope of breaking the record set by Wiley Post and Harold Gatty.

This was also the second attempt of Boardman and Polando to take off on their flight for Turkey. On July 24 they narrowly escaped a crash when their heavily loaded plane failed to rise and rolled out into Jamaica Bay. They prevented a disaster by dumping several hundred gallons of gasoline.

WOMAN ENDS LIFE IN RIVER; SECOND FOILED IN EFFORT

Mrs. Stella Sommer, 35 years old, of 2956 Emerald avenue committed suicide early this morning by leaping into the south branch of the river from the Halsted street bridge. Almost at the same time another woman was foiled in two attempts to jump from the Michigan avenue bridge.

Mrs. Sommer was identified by papers found in her purse which she had left on the bridge with her shoes. At the Emerald avenue address was found Thomas Kozlowski. He said he and the woman had been engaged, but he had learned she had a husband in an insane asylum, and broke with her.

The woman frustrated on the link bridge said she was Mrs. C. L. Yancey and that she lived at 1431 Lunt avenue. She is 21 years old. She was prevented from jumping into the river by Tom Burke, 4920 Kentucky avenue, an engraver, and Frank Teall, 1650 Superior street, the bridge tender. As the men walked away Mrs. Yancey climbed half over the railing again and was once more seized. She was held for police.

ONE KILLED AND TWO BURNED BY OIL WELL BLAST

Kilgore, Tex., July 27.—(AP)—One man was killed and two others were seriously burned by flames which tonight enveloped the Butts oil well, only two blocks from the main business section of this mushroom boom town.

Thousands of spectators gathered at the scene as cries for help came from inside the blaze. The dead man was Claude Erskin, 35 years old. At first it was reported that an entire crew was trapped and five men burned to death.

A volunteer rescue party was directed by B. F. Delong, professional oil fire fighter, who approached the conflagration attired in an asbestos suit.

U. S. DRY TRAPS HELD ILLEGAL BY APPEALS COURT

Flays Agents as It Frees Five Cops.

Government operation of a speakeasy to create and entrap dry law offenders was severely censured by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday in an opinion reversing the conviction of five Indianapolis policemen.

JUDGE EVANS.
[Moffett Photo.]

The opinion, written by Judge Evan A. Evans, characterized the entrapment methods of the prohibition agents as "a shock to the court's sense of justice," and observed that there is "an ever increasing frequency of similar cases." The pronouncement of the court, said by lawyers to be the most vehement ever handed down in this circuit in a prohibition case, is expected to be applied widely as a rebuff to the practice of creating criminals.

Open Government Speakeasy.

The policemen, Martin O'Brien, Claude Ridenbaugh, Ralph Lambert, David J. Curran, and Thomas Gray, were convicted by a jury before Federal District Judge Robert C. Baltzell last year, charged with conspiracy to protect a speakeasy.

"That there was a conspiracy to violate the prohibition law, there can be no doubt," said the Appellate court's opinion. "The conspiracy was conceived by the three prohibition agents, who enlisted the services of a decoy, Lyle, to more effectually accomplish their object." Horace Lyle, who managed the government operated speakeasy, is a notorious colored dry spy who has been indicted for bribery and arrested several times for drunkenness.

The prohibition agents were Herman P. Kroencke, Hugh T. McGrath, and Smith Wilson, the last named being colored. The opinion of the court recited the evidence, showing how these dry agents set up the speakeasy in a pool hall and installed Lyle as manager. Liquor was transported to the place and drinks were dispensed to the policemen, who were later appealed to for protection, the opinion stated. Eighteen persons were indicted on charges of conspiracy, but only the five policemen were ever to trial.

Define Uses of Decoys.

In commenting on the government's operation of the speakeasy, the Appellate court's opinion, concurred in by Presiding Judge Samuel Alschuler and Judge Will M. Sparks, said:

"We think there is a vast difference between the use of decoys for the purpose of detecting crimes and apprehending criminals and the use of decoys to induce others to join an unlawful conspiracy originated by the government for the purpose of securing the violation of laws by others.

"It is unnecessary to the due administration of the criminal laws and it shocks the court's sense of justice to permit a prosecution to proceed where the evidence shows the offender was innocent of wrong doing and free of evil intent prior to his acquaintance with the government or state representatives, who, in the professed cause of law enforcement, proceed, first to corrupt the accused's mind by possibilities of profit and gain through violation of the statutes, and then, surrounded by accomplices as witnesses, await the downfall and ignominy of the victim."

Condemned by Court.

The contention of the prohibition authorities generally in defending such practices as the court yesterday denounced has been that the end justifies the means. This argument was answered by the court in the following language:

"Although it [the government] be a sovereign, it should not be permitted to adopt means which are condemned by the courts when practiced by its citizens."

"Such a situation," said the opinion in another part, "is not dissimilar to the case where one arranges through a third party for a robbery to be committed upon himself with a view of receiving a reward, or a case of burglary, where the entry was made through the assent of those who were in the occupancy or control of the building burglarized."

The methods of the dry agents in attempting to obtain evidence against Indianapolis policemen were denounced on the floor of the house of representatives last January by Sen-

Clothing Buying Power of the Dollar Best in Years

Were you one of the boys who came back from the war in 1919? Do you remember how much you had to lay out for your new civies? Do you realize that the kind of suit they charged you around $50 for can be bought today for less than half of that?

Between 1912 and the end of the war clothing prices soared 216 per cent. During this period woolens and wages and everything else that went into clothing moved up to new high levels. Clothing stores and tailors had to pay more for materials, and so they had to charge the customer more.

The peak was reached in 1919-'20. Since then the curve has been steadily downward. The break in prices has been most pronounced in recent months. According to the government, a dollar now has the purchasing power at the clothing store that $2.49 had in 1919. According to the same government calculators, clothing prices this year are 12 per cent lower than they were a year ago. Since the stock market break in 1929 some men haven't bought as much as a new buttonhole. Meanwhile clothing has been wearing out. Replacements will have to be made. Right now is a good time to do it!

Chicago Tribune
THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

gressman Linthicum of Maryland, an anti-prohibitionist. Linthicum said he had received many letters attacking the dry tactics, and one of those read into the record was from Russell B. Harrison, son of the former President.

In response to the congressman's charges, Prohibition Director Amos W. W. Woodcock wrote:

"The records do show the allowance of a small sum of money for the rental of this particular room, which payment, I am advised, is entirely lawful. A place for making such contacts is apparently necessary in the development of these cases of conspiracy between public officials and those who violate the law."

Lyle and his methods were rebuked by the late Federal Judge Adam C. Cliffe on June 26, 1927. Lyle, then a prohibition agent working in Chicago, entrapped Bernard Walters, 9235 Evans avenue, a world war veteran and father of five children, offering him "easy money" to transport five gallons of alcohol.

Informer Indicted Here.

In 1928 Lyle was indicted with eight other prohibition agents and a gang of hoodlums headed by Henry Finkelstein on charges of conspiracy, extortion and bribery. His frequent difficulties with the law on charges of drunken driving and shaking down saloonkeepers led to his dismissal and he became a paid snooper for Attorney General James Ogden of Indiana, who lent the informer to the government agents at Indianapolis.

Policemen O'Brien and Ridenbaugh received sentences of four months each, Lambert of ninety days, and Gray and Curran sixty days. In pronouncing sentence, Judge Baltzell expressed regret at the task and scored the tactics of the dry agents as "outrageous." The opinion of the Appeal court declared that the trial judge should have allowed a motion for a directed verdict for the defendants.

Since the judgment is reversed and the case is not remanded for a new trial, the Circuit court's action probably will be the end of the prosecution. If the government should bring the defendants to trial again, the district judge would be impelled to direct a verdict of not guilty.

Many Trap Charges Here.

Charges of entrapment are made almost daily by defense attorneys in the federal courts here, and the dry agents from time to time are censured, but never have they been assailed in such bristling terms as the Appellate court employed yesterday.

Methods almost identical with the Indianapolis case were attempted by prohibition agents in South Chicago a year ago. A paid snooper posed as a bootlegger and dickered for the renting of a saloon, always inquiring whether the local police could "be taken care of."

OLD CITY HALL "PROSPERITY DRIVE" FLOPS

Holders of the last city administration's "prosperity drive" coupons, who have been waiting for the awarding of prizes, will have to continue to wait, Louis E. Golan, who was chairman of the drive committee, said yesterday. Advertisements had announced that $1,000,000 in prizes would be distributed on July 4.

Golan handed out a printed statement, signed by the former mayor, saying that the awarding of prizes "will be postponed until such time as the opposition has been withdrawn and this drive may be the success that it was planned to be."

"That's all there is to it," Golan commented.

Asked what holders of the coupons should do with them, he said: "Hold them."

"As a matter of fact," Golan added, "only about $25,000 was taken in during the drive. Much more than that was spent, so nobody made any money out of it. There was not sufficient cooperation."

Golan said he did not know when opposition to the drive was expected to be withdrawn and prizes awarded.

Globe Flyers in Milwaukee After Two Day Visit Here

After spending two days in Chicago as the star attractions at an aviation meet sponsored by Aviation Post 561, American Legion, Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, round the world champions, flew their ship, the Winnie Mae, to Milwaukee yesterday from Curtiss airport. They will continue on their tour of the country for the next month, going to Toledo from Milwaukee.

HEARINGS START TODAY ON 40,000 TAX OBJECTIONS

Board of Review Tackles Impossible Task.

The board of review starts hearings today on the 40,000 objections filed against valuations of buildings and improvements in the 1930 assessment roll. As they prepared for the hearing officials of the board admitted the impossibility of giving such a number of objections full legal hearings.

ANDREW W. GATENBY.

Allotting only five minutes to an individual hearing, the most complaints the reviewers can hear, sitting as a board, is 100 a day. At that rate it would take 400 days to hear the 40,000 complaints on buildings alone. In addition the board has 294 complaints on land valuations, involving more than 20,000 individual land descriptions, and more than 6,000 complaints on 1930 personal property assessments.

Have Only Two Months.

Andrew W. Gatenby, chief clerk of the board, and its members are striving, they said, to work out some system whereby the complaints can be heard. The legislature has fixed Jan. 1, 1932 as the date upon which 1930 taxes become delinquent in Cook county. Three months work is required for the closing of assessment books and the preparation of tax bills after the board of review closes its hearings.

That means that if taxpayers are to have even a few days between the time they receive their tax bills and the delinquency date on which penalties begin to accrue on the taxes, the reviewers must finish their hearings by Oct. 1, two months hence.

It is probable that the board of review will be forced to follow the same procedure it did last year, when it denied hearings to the majority of tax protestants. Out of some 40,000 complaints filed against the 1929 assessments, only 3,400 were given hearings.

Entered Blanket Order.

Then the reviewers entered a blanket order, validating all of the valuations of the board of assessors. Many of those taxpayers who were denied hearings have filed objections in the County court, but County Judge Jarecki already has ruled, in the case of 1928 taxes, that unless the taxpayers instituted mandamus proceedings to force the board of review to hear their complaints, they did not exhaust all legal remedies before going into the County court, and therefore can expect no relief there.

This situation as regards 1930 assessments is further complicated by the fact that in its rush to complete the assessments, the board of assessors made no changes on the books in response to the thousands of complaints which it received.

By the time the complaints were received, the assessment books already were being footed. Investigations were made on the complaints, and where the assessors considered that complaints were justified, recommendations were sent to the board of review that it make the changes on complaints filed before it by the same property owners.

Gatenby Makes Suggestion.

The complaints to be heard today by the reviewers are from the towns of Barrington and Berwyn. Chief Clerk Gatenby suggested that if each of the three members of the board sits separately in hearing complaints, and that if sessions be prolonged from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. daily, it might be possible to handle 800 complaints daily, instead of the estimated 100. Even that system, however, would not make it possible to finish the hearings in time to render tax bills before the delinquency date.

Yesterday was the legal date for starting the sale of delinquent properties for non-payment of 1929 taxes, but Edward J. McCabe, secretary to the county treasurer, announced that taxpayers would be given a final chance to redeem their properties by delaying the bulk of sales until Aug. 10. Until that time, the law will be fulfilled by the sale of three or four properties daily.

DEBT HOLIDAY IS NOT ENOUGH FOR DR. BUTLER

New York, July 27.—[Special.]—In a copyrighted dispatch to the New York Times, sent from the steamship Majestic upon which he is returning from Europe, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, discusses the Hoover debt moratorium and its effects.

While praising the Hoover plan, he described it as only a beginning.

"Public opinion must now press governments forward to take the next necessary steps," he said. "The end to be gained may best be described as that of an intellectural and moral disarmament. It is of vital importance that governments be made to stop thinking in terms of past and future wars and to form the fixed habit of thinking in terms of future international coöperation.

"Unless the postponement of post-war international obligations now in effect is quickly followed by progressive and constructive policies which have in view a reconsideration of the whole present disastrous situation, conditions will be even worse in June, 1932, than they were in June, 1931. There is no time to be lost.

"Had the government of the United States accepted the proposal made by the late Lord Balfour on Aug. 1, 1922, to wipe out these post-war international obligations every nation would have been far richer than it is today and the economic crisis through which the world is passing would have been infinitely less severe.

"The people of the United States have, through their losses of business, their declining prices, their disheartened agriculture, their loss of railway traffic, their huge fall in security values, and their widespread unemployment, themselves paid the whole amount of these post-war international obligations several times over.

"It is high time that the American people were relieved of this intolerable burden. Only a constructive policy of international coöperation can do this."

Zep in Far North

ZEP OVER FRANZ JOSEF LAND ON ARCTIC FLIGHT

BULLETIN.

BERLIN, July 28.—(Tuesday.)—(AP)—A radio dispatch made public here today said the Graf Zeppelin successfully landed early last night near the ice breaker Maligin in the vicinity of Franz Josef Land, exchanged mail, and continued her flight.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, July 27.—The Graf Zeppelin is speeding over the arctic ice toward its rendezvous with the Russian ice breaker Maligin, and at 1 p. m. today [7 a. m. Chicago time] was only 250 miles from Cape Flora, Franz Joseph Land, where the ship is anchored, according to a wireless message received by the Zeppelin works.

The message gave the position of the aerial polar exploration party as 75 degrees 50 minutes north and 43 degrees 20 minutes east, which is a little less than 100 miles northwest of Black Point, Luetke Land, Novaya Zemlya.

Meanwhile, according to messages from Russia, the ice breaker was preparing to meet the Zeppelin, which is expected to make a landing on the water for the contact. Mail will be transferred between the airship and the ice breaker.

Plan Six Day Flight.

The Graf Zeppelin, carrying German, Russian, and American scientists, left Friedrichshafen Friday for a trip into the arctic. It stopped at Berlin and Leningrad on the way north, taking off from Leningrad early Sunday. The explorers plan a six day flight over the ice, and expect to reach 82 degrees north.

The big ship carries twelve scientists, a photographer, two journalists, and a Russian wireless operator, besides the regular crew of thirty. Americans on board are Lieut. Com. Edward H. Smith of the United States coast guard and Lincoln Ellsworth, sportsman and explorer.

To Test Upper Air.

No attempt will be made to reach the pole, but the scientists will make weather observations and other scientific studies, including a study of the arctic air currents. Small stratosphere balloons will be released, carrying high into the air apparatus which will make tests of the air and communicate the findings to the Zeppelin by "robot" radio.

U. S. DRY AGENT AND NEGRO DIE IN PISTOL DUEL

Fort Worth, Tex., July 27.—(AP)—Raymond L. Ezzell, 30, federal prohibition agent, and an unidentified Negro were killed tonight in a pistol fight.

Ezzell, with J. W. Boyd, companion agent, halted the Negro as he drove an automobile into an alley with a load of alleged liquor.

The Negro began firing, Boyd said, and wounded Ezzell in the hand. Ezzell and the Negro then fired fatal bullets simultaneously, according to B...

France Calls Truce in Raids on Bank of England's Gold

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, July 27.—Rumors that the Bank of France and the Bank of England had definitely patched up their quarrel, and that the former is at the point of granting the Bank of England a $100,000,000 credit, today cut the French withdrawals of gold from England to below $10,000,000, of which only about $2,000,000 went directly to the Bank of France. All this helped keep the pound at a level above the gold shipping point. The pound is now one hare centime, or a twenty-fifth of a cent, above the profitable rate under which speculators are able to buy pounds in London and ship them to Paris.

Since the present movement started, on July 13, no less than $187,090,000 in gold has been taken out of England on foreign accounts. The amount taken in was $23,890,000, so the net loss figures up to $163,200,000 in a two weeks' period.

Today's gold shipments were merely to fulfill contracts made last week. At the same time, it is believed that the British crisis is by no means over and that only drastic measures can prevent a renewal of the run on the Bank of England.

French Scoff at "Gold War."

In unbiased banking circles here, talk of a "gold war" is taken with a grain of salt. In the past it has frequently seemed that France has accumulated gold for what could be only political ends, and particularly, there was strong evidence indicating that the first onslaught on the pound a couple of weeks ago was encouraged, if not instigated by the government.

But last week the situation became so serious that the Bank of France actually went to the rescue of the pound, and competent observers here cannot imagine what political advantage France could gain to recompense her for the heavy financial loss a continuation of the English gold loss would have caused. For one thing, France has a billion dollars invested in sterling, to say nothing of hundreds of millions of dollars in short term credits, most of which were withdrawn by private French institutions. It is significant that the Bank of France did not withdraw a single credit from England during the flurry.

Arrange to Collaborate.

It appears that the Bank of France expressed hostility toward the policies of Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, only by failing to heed the British request for assistance, and took no active part in the raid on British gold. Then at last the situation became so menacing that the bank was obliged to step in to save its own holdings.

Sir Robert Kinderaley, a member of the board of the Bank of England, was sent to Paris and had a long conference with Gov. Moret of the Bank of France, at which a plan for a limited degree of collaboration between the two rival banks was worked out. Since then the Bank of France has actively been supporting the pound, and its firmness is largely traceable to large French buying orders.

French Lack Confidence.

The present agreement between the two banks is regarded as only in the nature of a truce. There is a growing lack of confidence in Great Britain's soundness over here. It is felt that Great Britain like Germany, is living beyond its income and there is, perhaps, an exaggerated idea of the importance of the British investments in central Europe.

It was suggested in financial quarters today that the only way for Britain to regain international confidence is to fund her external debt in a single huge long term loan. The French have indicated that they would be willing, in principle, to participate in such a loan, but the question of political concessions in return for financial assistance would probably be raised, as in the case of Germany.

SHOOTS SELF IN HEAD THREE TIMES.

Charles Terdy, 64 years old, 6101 South Maplewood avenue, committed suicide last night by shooting himself three times in the head with a .22 caliber pistol. He had been ill.

WAY IS FOUND TO NEARLY END CHILD BIRTH PAIN

New York, July 27. —[Special.]—A new method of reducing pain during childbirth which is almost without pain for the mother and without danger to either mother or child has been worked out by obstetricians at Sloane hospital for women and is now being used in a majority of cases there, it was learned today.

This method, which was first introduced in Germany, involves the use of a drug called pernocton. After a series of prolonged and careful experiments at Sloane hospital, doctors there have found it so successful they believe it will become universal.

With the use of pernocton, the mother feels some pain, but does not remember it afterward. The drug is said to be absolutely safe for the mother and without any of the possible ill effects on the baby that have caused other methods to be abandoned, among them the much publicized twilight sleep.

Bids on County Hospital Nurses' Dormitory Opened

Bids for the construction of the eighteen story dormitory for nurses at the county hospital, to be built on Polk and Lincoln streets, were opened yesterday by the county board. The low bids, totaling $1,998,796, were referred to the engineers' advisory committee headed by Joshua D'Esposito, for recommendations. The low bidders were Jacobson brothers, general contract, $1,550,000; E. J. Young, plumbing, $169,800; Economy Plumbing and Heating company, steam fitting and ventilating, $144,000; Electric Service Engineering company, electrical installations, $93,760.

Hay Fever Victims Can Now Stay Home

Expensive Trips Unnecessary Due to Doctor's Discovery

Indianapolis—Thousands who formerly found it necessary to take expensive trips to escape from their Hay Fever will spend this summer at home in peace and comfort. This is borne out by the records of an institution which has for years been in touch with Hay Fever victims all over America.

Many who had Hay Fever twenty to thirty years, have had no touch of the disease for several seasons. Their present comfort is due to the discovery of the basic cause of Hay Fever and Asthma by the celebrated Dr. W. I. Fugate, who developed a treatment which has brought relief to thousands. There are beneficiaries of his discovery in every part of the country.

An important booklet on Dr. Fugate's discovery of the true cause of Hay Fever and Asthma will be sent free by The Fugate Co., Dept. 7878, 126 So. Meridian St., Indianapolis, Ind.

Every Hay Fever sufferer should write for this free booklet.

DELAY ACTION ON $3,620,065 SCHOOL SAVING

Trustees Hear Employes Oppose Pay Cuts.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The school board delayed action yesterday on its proposed $3,620,065 economy program because its attorney, Thomas V. Sullivan, questioned the regularity of calling the meeting and consequently the validity of any action which might be taken.

P. L. McFETRIDGE. (Tribune photo.)

The board will meet again this afternoon to vote upon the proposed expense cut.

For more than three hours yesterday the trustees listened to the views of school employés on the subject. An interesting statement of the elements of speech making came from Peter L. McFetridge, representative of the janitors' union.

Raises Janitors' Conditions.

"We janitors, the lowest paid, which means that we make the greatest sacrifice, will accept the wage cut on two conditions," he said. "We and other employés to take the same decision, and we object to being penalized twice. By that last condition we mean that we do not want the two members of school property discharged.

"Let me add for Joseph Spain of the engineers' union, who is at home sick, that the engineers will go along with economy program on the same conditions. He does not want 45 engineers laid off."

For the Chicago Teachers federation Miss Margaret Haley asked that no action be taken until the board knew from the teachers, many of whom are now out of the city.

James A. Meade, representing 1,500 members of the Men Teachers' union, urged that there be no cut in salaries and expressed the hope that when necessary legislation is obtained "the standard of living of the teachers can be raised."

Opposes Wage Reductions.

James Clobesy of the Elementary Teachers' union said that "it is unfair to cut the teachers' salaries 2½ per cent by asking them to teach a month without pay." She quoted Mayor Cermak as opposing a cut in the teachers' pay, which, it is said, is now adequate.

J. A. Wilson of the Principal's club and the National Educational association as "condemning ill considered acts." He said that the elimination, proposed, of 47 administrative assistants "will seriously cripple the public schools."

Dudley Weil emphasized that same point concerning the administrative assistants, and the speakers for community centers urged the retention of their assistants, even if an adjustment of compensation becomes necessary.

From the comments of the trustees, it was expected that a majority of the board would vote for some reductions in expenditures at the session this afternoon. The consensus seemed to be that the cut will be between $2,000,000 and $3,400,000, although the attitude of the janitors and engineers may cause a still larger reduction.

Brings Up Auto Vote.

Trustee Hemingway yesterday suggested that the board at a recent meeting had not voted to abolish free autos, with chauffeurs, for the trustees, but instead had merely voted to add that subject to the list of economies to be considered with the others.

"No need of wasting time on that," agreed Trustee Carr. "We voted to abolish the autos."

The record was read and tended to confirm Mr. Carr's view.

Most of the speakers at yesterday's session discussed subjects related to the economy program, as well as their attitude on the recommended cuts. Mr. McFetridge read a speech made by City Controller M. S. Szymczak, over the radio, in which he represented that he expected enough taxes to be collected to pay off all tax anticipation warrants outstanding.

"If that is true," asked Mr. McFetridge, "why all this crusade for economy?"

Urges a Tax Cleanup.

Miss Clobesy read a statement showing that Chicago is 57th on the list of cities in tax rate, and then added: "What is most needed is a cleanup of the tax machinery. It is no secret that the banks will not loan money until we get a fair assessment."

"The banks have a better loan to Chicago schools than to Germany," said Mr. Meade. "In the present situation, the scandal is in the inefficiency and fraud in the tax assessments, and until we get taxes with honesty and certainty, we will remain in trouble."

Attorney Sullivan caused some excitement when, in answer to a question by Miss Haley, he said that the board could deduct from the teachers' salaries without their consent.

Immediately following that Trustee McJunkin read the state law to the effect that the board has the power to fix and change the salaries of its employés.

Attacks Schools' Critics.

Victor Olander, secretary of the Illinois Federation of Labor, attacked recent criticisms of the school board, adding: "I have the fullest confidence in the president of the board and think the board has one of the best superintendents in the United States."

He said he opposed certain proposed economies.

Trustees Hemingway said he was opposed to laying off employés under the present business conditions, and Trustee English commented:

"I'll not vote to impair the efficiency of the schools. In this hysteria of economy, I suppose some will lose their jobs. In my opinion it is not decent or moral to take jobs away from employés who haven't been paid for three months. If we let out any, we should at least give them a month's notice."

Mayor Cermak announced yesterday that all police captains must go on the "work list." The mayor criticized the view of Ald. John S. Clark that a 15 per cent cut in the corporate expenses is impossible without cutting the service substantially.

TEACHERS' SALARY ORDER IS REJECTED FOR TAX PAYMENT

A new form of scrip appeared yesterday. Miss Martha Treankler, principal of the Midlothian school of eleven rooms, went to County Treasurer McDonough's office to pay her taxes.

She tendered in payment a $150 salary order of her school board to Fred Goebel, school treasurer. On its face the order was the equivalent of a city of Chicago tax warrant. But on the back of the order the school treasurer had printed: "Not paid for lack of money."

The treasurer's office declined to accept the order in payment of the teacher's taxes.

"I do not understand why it should not be taken in payment for taxes, since tax anticipation warrants are acceptable," she said. "I have received no cash for my work since last January."

The Midlothian school is not in the Chicago school system.

The Chicago board of education has issued $1,566,500 in participation certificates in a trust of tax anticipation warrants, it was announced yesterday. A summary statement of the scrip issued by the board is as follows:

Fund.	Salaries.	Bills.
School teachers	$180,875	.....
Educational, other	892,400	$432,800
Building	177,300	140,300
Playgrounds	22,525	20,000
Totals	$982,100	$584,400

Applications from contractors erecting new schools and additions to old ones yesterday indicate that $400,000 more in scrip will be issued today.

Hot Again Today

Yesterday was another warm day over the whole of the central states and no relief is in sight for today, according to Forecaster W. P. Day. The maximum thermometer reading was 91 degrees, reached at 3 p. m. However, the forecaster predicted that showers would occur late tomorrow with cooling effect.

The forecast for today indicates generally fair skies, southwest winds and temperatures about like yesterday's.

Burns Are Fatal to Helen Walsh.

New York, July 27.—[Special.]—Helen Walsh, Follies show girl, died tonight of burns sustained yesterday when the yacht of Harry Richman, actor, flured in an explosion at Greenport, L. I.

Miss Walsh was in the cabin when the gas tank exploded. Mark Hellinger, newspaper columnist, dashed in and found her, clothing ablaze, pinioned under a flaming mattress. Richman took the girl in his arms and plunged overboard to quench the flames, and with Hellinger's help lifted her on the pier.

Hellinger and Richman commandeered an automobile and rushed Miss Walsh to a hospital.

During the day Miss Walsh was conscious at times, and expressed the hope that her face would not be marred.

Gladys Glad, Follies beauty and the wife of Hellinger, escaped without injury. Virginia Biddle, another Follies girl; Samuel Whitt, master of the boat, and Robert Levy, Richman's chauffeur, were the others slightly burned.

FORMER HOTEL HEAD HELD ON FRAUD CHARGE

Henry J. Popperfuss, 44 years old, former president of the Pearson Hotel company, 190 East Pearson street, was arrested last night in his apartment in the Maryland hotel, 900 Rush street, on a charge of obtaining credit money on false statements.

The charge was made by Walter G. Nicholson, cashier of the National bank of Aurora. Eighteen months ago Popperfuss obtained $1,500 in credit from the bank. He used the money to open eighteen small golf courses in Aurora.

At the detective bureau, Popperfuss told Sergts. John Joyce and Rudolph Freemuth, who arrested him, that he was worth $400,000 two years ago, but had lost his fortune in the market collapse. In April, 1929, Popperfuss was taken to the Psychopathic hospital for observation at the request of his mother. At that time he was reputed to be worth several million dollars.

HEAT KILLS 63 IN WEST; ROASTS CALIFORNIA CHICKS ON THEIR FEET

Los Angeles, Cal., July 27.—[Special.]—A heat wave of unprecedented deadliness—third sustained hot spell of the summer—smothered southern California, Nevada and Arizona today. A total of 63 deaths was credited to the four days of intense heat. Most of the heat deaths occurred in the San Joaquin and Imperial valley sections.

Six fatalities accured at Needles, Cal., known as the hottest town in the country. The temperature there today was 116. Rabbits, chickens and turkeys dropped dead by the hundreds on ranches. The official temperature reading for Los Angeles was 92; readings at other places in the Los Angeles are as follows:

Riverside	105
San Bernardino	112
Pasadena	100
Santa Barbara	90

At Las Vegas, Nev., the heat reached 110, and at Boulder dam site, 40 miles over the desert from Las Vegas, it was 130 yesterday.

Bootlegger Pardoned by President Is In Again

Detroit, Mich., July 27.—[Special.]—Max Kropidlowski, a bootlegger, who on May 10 received a presidential pardon on a prohibition charge so he might care for his motherless son, was arrested today on a charge of having a still in his home. The father had three weeks of a 4 month term to serve when Henry found his mother dead in bed. The boys' grief attracted attention of officials and his plight was brought to the attention of President Hoover, who wired the pardon.

Third President in Two Days Now Sits in Chile's Palace

BY JOHN LIVINGSTONE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, July 27.—Acting President Pedro Opazo, a relative of former President Ibanez' wife, was forced to resign his post late this afternoon when he was accused by an irate public of having assisted the fallen dictator to escape into Argentina.

The disclosure of Ibanez' flight from the country turned the masses, jubilant over the dictator's overthrow, into a shouting mob of angry citizenry. "Down with Opazo!" thousands of paraders cried as they gathered in front of the parliament building this noon and demanded his resignation.

Montero Popular Figure.

The protest reached such formidable proportions that Opazo, the last person to talk to Ibanez before his precipitate departure, relinquished the vice presidency to Esteben Montero, the pew premier. Under the Chilean constitution the vice president automatically becomes acting president when the post of chief executive is vacant.

Montero is 55 years old and one of the leading lawyers of Chile. He has a large number of followers and is vice president of the radical wing of the Liberal party.

"Yesterday I accepted the command of the nation because I thought it was my duty to do so," Opazo said in his resignation. "I faced great difficulties at once. I believe my duty today is to transmit the power to Señor Montero. I have never felt the seductions of power, nor have I had any ambitions along this line."

The capital received the news of Opazo's retirement with elation.

Dashes to Argentina.

Old military friends assisted the escape of Ibanez, who fled after the chamber of deputies had refused his plea to leave the country for one year. Upon hearing that mobs were hunting to lynch him, he decided on his dash across the border.

Just before 4 a. m. former President Ibanez, muffled in an overcoat which reached to his feet, and accompanied by his wife, a general and two majors, stepped into a closed automobile. The car sped out of the palace gates, followed by three other automobiles filled with his faithful carabineers. The motor cavalcade dashed swiftly out of the city. At Los Andes he boarded a special train for Argentina, carrying with him only a few personal belongings and documents in a brief case.

Although he is liable to extradition to face trial in Chile for alleged misdeeds while in office, which he assumed July 21, 1927, it is considered extremely unlikely that any attempt will be made to force his return.

Chile tonight hailed the announcement that Pedro Blanquier, one of the most popular men in Chile, had agreed to accept the post of finance minister with approbation. His "bread and water" policy during his eight-day term as premier has been accepted by most Chileans as a great step to rid the nation of its economic distress.

Treasury Almost Drained.

There is little money left in the treasury and the government is expected to continue its moratorium on foreign debts indefinitely. The seriousness of the situation is illustrated by the order of congress for a four-day bank moratorium commencing today.

The appearance of communistic propaganda in the present crisis has aroused the new government and tonight it announced that it would use military force to maintain order. The newspaper La Nacion, owned and edited by the old Ibanez government, was today ordered to cease publication at once.

Heads for Buenos Aires.

BUENOS AIRES, July 27.—(AP)—Former President Ibanez of Chile arrived at Mendoza, Argentina, 200 miles from Chile's capital, at 10:20 o'clock tonight. He is continuing his journey here, it is reported.

ENDS LIFE WITH BULLET.

Harry Olson, 64 years old, 5002 West Ohio street, shot himself in the head in a vacant lot at Kilpatrick avenue and Erie street yesterday. He died in St. Anne's hospital.

INQUEST JURY CLEARS WIDOW OF "DON JUAN"

Verdict Calls Shooting "Accidental."

Not only did he acknowledge, the couple told the inquest jury, that he had a common law wife and a child by that wife, now a boy of fourteen, but he brought home with him photographs of the women with whom he became acquainted on his numerous trips out of Chicago. These he had exhibited on occasion both to his wife and to the Edwards, with risque comments on the appearance of the subjects.

Four pictures from his collection were displayed in court. One, the witness related, he had identified as that of a waitress in Quincy, Ill., who was "a dreamy dancer." Another, he asserted, was an octoroon woman, and still another was an actress.

"What have these pictures to do with the case?" demanded Gleason.

"Simply that they show what type of man this was. They are the concrete evidence of his conquests," retorted Attorney Byrne.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwards said that Harbaugh had told his wife in their presence that he would kill her, "if it wouldn't make such a mess." For months he had given her no support, twice deserting her, it was testified.

Pact Signed by Each.

As witness to the attempts the wife had made to win him back there was the solemn [at least to her] pact into which they had entered when they were reconciled last April. It set forth the strict code of conduct both would observe in their married life and was signed by each. Three days after it was made, Elizabeth Harbaugh related yesterday, he brought home another photo and, brandishing it in front of her, inquired:

"What do you think of my girl?"

"At first I tried to pretend I didn't care," she confessed, shamefacedly. "But then I got angry and we had another argument."

There were no eye-witnesses to the shooting on Sunday or to the scuffle that preceded it. Elmer Huttelmeier of 5641 Princeton avenue and Gordon McAlpin of 5611 South Wells street, passing in a car, saw Harbaugh lying on the sidewalk with his right hand, still loosely grasping the pistol, beneath his head. They investigated and, finding him shot, took him to St. Bernard's hospital, but he died on the way. Both testified that he was alone when they noticed him, but that Mrs. Harbaugh came running from a doorway where she had taken shelter a moment before.

"Oh, he did it. He did it. He said he would," she cried as she fell to her knees beside him, they declared.

Father Comforts Widow.

Nervous, but trying to conceal his own anxiety in comforting his daughter, Mr. Lamb led Mrs. Harbaugh outside while the jury retired to discuss the case. He had wept, too, when she broke down during Mrs. Edwards' testimony, and he had sat far forward in his chair as his daughter took the stand. As the verdict was announced he burst into a hysterical laugh and threw his arms around her.

"What now?" a reporter asked.

She shook her head.

"Back to Earlville, I guess," the hopeless voice returned. "But I don't know why. There's nothing left for me any more."

"You're still crazy about him," some one remarked. Her head fell.

"I simply can't help it," she acknowledged. "I wish I could. But I still wish I'd got it instead of him. I guess I'll always be crazy about him."

Mrs. Harbaugh and her father arrived at the Lamb home at Earlville early this morning. There she said an effort is being made to find relatives of her husband. She also said that arrangements are being made to bury Harbaugh in Earlville. It is expected that she will return to Chicago today.

U. S. WILL SEIZE 1,800 BOTTLES OF TILTON MEDICINE

At request of the pure food and drugs administration in Washington, Federal Judge John P. Barnes issued a libel yesterday empowering the United States marshal to confiscate 1,800 bottles of Les Tilton's cancer medicine, which has been stored in the Felician convent, 3800 Peterson avenue, since Tilton closed his cancer clinic there last February.

Murder and Suicide Verdict

Man Blamed

Houston, Tex., July 27.—(AP)—Justice Campbell Overstreet returned a coroner's verdict today that the death of Miss Hazel Glover, 19, was murder, due to a poison dose given her by Dan P. Stratton, and that Stratton's death was suicidal.

The couple, both students at Rice institute, died early Saturday after being found mortally ill from the poison, in a rented car parked on a residential street here.

Shortly before his death Stratton told a relative here he and Miss Glover were secretly married June 22, although records were found which showed he obtained a marriage license March 1 at Columbus, Tex., and was married March 3 to a young girl at Sugarland.

GUNMEN HOLD UP JUDGE FRIEND ON WISCONSIN LINKS

Friends learned yesterday that Judge Hugo M. Friend and three companions, including former Ald. U. S. Schwartz, were robbed of $450.15 by two men while golfing Sunday at Eagle River, Wis. The three nickels were taken from Judge Friend, the two bandits neglecting to search a watch pocket in his knickers which contained currency and a valuable timepiece.

HUGO M. FRIEND. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Judge Friend and Mr. Schwartz were playing the Eagle River Country club course with Sidney J. Greenebaum, 529 Stratford place, leather goods manufacturer, and Charles Shanhouse, Rockford business man. They had progressed to the seventh hole, about a quarter of a mile from the clubhouse, when two men came up. One drew a pistol, commanded "hands up," and lined the foursome in a row while his confederate searched them.

Mr. Greenebaum lost $300, he said last night; Mr. Schwartz, $60 and a watch, and Mr. Shanhouse, $90. The men ran from the course at the conclusion of the robbery and drove off in a battered auto.

THRONGS AT BIG WEST SIDE FIRE BLOCK TRAFFIC

Traffic was tied up for several blocks around Madison and Elizabeth streets last night as 15,000 spectators gathered to watch firemen fight a 5-11 blaze. The fire was in a three story brick building on the rear of the lots from 1309 to 1313 West Madison street.

The building had formerly been occupied by manufacturers of radio cabinets, and the floors, soaked with paint and oils, burned with a thick smoke which cast a pall over the whole neighborhood. Street car traffic in Madison street was halted for more than an hour, and fire apparatus and crowds of spectators stopped motor traffic on Washington boulevard.

Residents of a rooming house at 1318-19 West Madison street escaped without incident when the fire started. That building and a row of shops on the front part of the lots on which the factory building was located were damaged by smoke and water. Firemen succeeded in preventing flames from spreading to a store of chemicals in the plant of the Thermo Chemical company, located below the lodging house. Fire Marshal Corrigan estimated the damage at $25,000.

Five Railroads Accept School Scrip for Fares

Chicago school teachers may use the scrip given them by the school board to pay for railroad fares, it was announced yesterday by five railroads, the Santa Fé, Burlington, Milwaukee, Rock Island, and Soo lines. Beginning tomorrow.

LOSES HIS FIGHT TO USE CHURCH AS RESIDENCE

The long fight of Clarence Spiering to retain the Hickory Corners Methodist Episcopal church as a home, ended yesterday when Judge Ralph J. Dady of the Circuit court at Waukegan, issued a writ of restitution compelling Spiering and his family to vacate the premises. Spiering will move out today, his attorney, Charles E. Jack, announced last night.

Since last January when Spiering moved into the church, which is three miles east of Antioch, he has been the principal of numerous court actions. Spiering made the church his home after his own house burned. He claimed the property on two premises. One was that the church had been abandoned. The other was that in its abandonment, the church and grounds reverted in title to his mother who originally owned part of the land.

Two weeks ago Judge Dady ordered him to move out. Yesterday when his time limit for an appeal expired, the writ was issued. Spiering, Attorney Jack said, will sue the trustees for the title of the church and land. He has already sued three of the trustees for $10,000, charging malicious prosecution.

POLICE ON TRAIL OF TINY MYSTERY CHILD'S PARENTS

Two policemen of the East Chicago avenue station yesterday started an assignment to seek out the parents of the small girl now sheltered at the Chicago Home for the Friendless and known as Betty Florence Louise Fuller.

The child, found at Rockford last week in the care of an Indian woman, Mrs. Martha Thompson, was left on the near north side by a man and woman known as Frank and Florence Fuller, thought to be her unmarried parents. Mrs. Thompson was released last night from the jail at Rockford. She said she would come to Chicago and start proceedings to adopt the child.

Yesterday Betty displayed the first sign of recognition of any person when she clambered into the lap of Frank Rack, found by police in Washington square, where he spends much time. Rack told police he had lived with the Indian woman when the couple left their baby with her, and that she had treated the child well.

BLUEBEARD TRIAL TO START TODAY IN EAGLE RIVER

Eagle River, Wis., July 27.—[Special.]—Selection of a jury to try George W. E. Perry, "marrying brakeman" of Milwaukee, charged with the murder of Mrs. Cora Belle Hackett, his bride whom he wedded bigamously a year ago, is to start here tomorrow, and the taking of testimony is scheduled to begin Wednesday.

Perry met Mrs. Hackett through a newspaper advertisement and they were married in Chicago in June, 1930, going to the Lac du Flambeau Indian reservation in northern Wisconsin on their honeymoon. Mrs. Hackett disapeared on July 4, 1930, and her body was found by an Indian three months later.

The state charges that Perry shot her to death with a borrowed rifle and then fled in her automobile. Perry is known to have married four other women between the time of Mrs. Hackett's disappearance and his capture. In addition he has two other "wives" whom he married before he met Mrs. Hackett. His first wife has three young children.

Lloyd George Ill Abed; Complete Rest Ordered

LONDON, July 27.—(AP)—David Lloyd George, veteran Liberal leader, was confined to his bed today by an attack of haematuria. Hematuria is a hemorrhage from the mucous membranes of the urinary passages, which necessitates a complete rest. The former premier is at his London home.

IMPOSE "GAG" RULE ON NEWS OF PRISON RIOTS

Warden Henry C. Hill of the Joliet and Stateville penitentiaries said yesterday he had received orders that no more information was to be allowed to reach the public concerning prison riots. It was understood the orders were given by Rodney Brandon, head of the state department of public welfare, following criticism of the state administration by the Wickersham commission on prisons' which found many faults in the Illinois penal institutions.

Last week an outbreak was frustrated at Stateville when Warden Hill ordered the convicts locked in their cells for at least ten days. Subsequently gasoline bombs were found in the cells.

CHARLES BUTLER OF BUTLER BROS. KILLED BY TRAIN

Runs on N. W. Tracks at Hubbard Woods.

Charles E. Butler, 53 years old, a director of Butler Brothers, the wholesale mail order merchandising and retail store concern, was instantly killed yesterday when he was struck by a south bound Chicago and North Western railroad train in Winnetka. Mr. Butler, who went three months ago to St. Louis to act as supervisor of the St. Louis branch of the firm, was formerly merchandise manager of the Chicago branch.

Starts Running for Platform.

Dr. Wales had attempted to dissuade him from going because Mr. Butler had been suffering from a nervous disorder for more than a year. Mr. Butler pleaded a business conference with an attorney and departed for the village street station of the railroad in Hubbard Woods.

As he neared the station, Mr. Butler began running for the platform. Dr. Wales said he believed Butler ran in the belief that the express was the train he intended to take and fainted as the tracks from overexertion. George Case, gate keeper, said Butler was in front of the train. He was struck 50 feet from the station and fell clear of the tracks.

Nephew of Edward Butler.

The body was taken to the undertaking rooms at 944 Linden avenue, where an inquest is to be held this morning.

Mr. Butler was a nephew of Edward Burgess Butler, co-founder of the mail order house. He was a graduate of Amherst college. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Charlotte Butler, and two sons, Sterling Butler, a New York attorney, and Edward Butler, a student at Williams college. Mrs. Butler is visiting in Boston.

U. S. Agents Raid Without Warrant; Woman Is Freed

Martha Turner, 1944 West Austin avenue, was discharged by United States Commissioner Walker yesterday when prohibition agents admitted they entered her place without a search warrant. They testified that they entered in the belief that she sold liquor, on the say-so of a purported customer. They seized one gallon of wine.

FACTOR WILL BE RELEASED TODAY ON $50,000 BAIL

John [Jake the Barber] Factor will be admitted to bail of $50,000 when he is arraigned today before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker, it was learned yesterday at the federal building. Factor is charged with defrauding English investors of more than $7,000,000 and Great Britain is seeking his extradition.

"JAKE" FACTOR.

Factor has been in technical custody of two deputy United States marshals ever since he surrended two months ago, but he has not been in jail. He will be given complete freedom when he presents $50,000 in Liberty bonds as bail today.

Commissioner Walker is also expected to set a date today for a hearing on the evidence in the case. Hundreds of depositions have been submitted by counsel for the British government and a ruling is expected as to whether they are admissible as evidence.

UNION MOTIVE IS SOUGHT IN KILLING OF ORR

Police Question Four in Official's Death.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Dominick De Palma and Albert Woodrick, conspiracy, sentenced to 1 to 5 years each in the penitentiary by Judge Philip Finnegan.

Joe Anderson, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Charles A. Williams.

Possible motives for the murder of Ely H. Orr, secretary-treasurer of the newspaper wagon drivers' union, were being sought yesterday in the affairs of the union. Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Mueller, head of the racket bureau, who made it possible for Orr to be elected to the union office, said he was convinced internal troubles in the union were back of the shooting to death of Orr on Sunday morning as he was driving to his home in his automobile.

The police had in custody John Barry, racketeer who forced his way into the union and who was ousted a few months ago when Prosecutor Mueller furnished protection for a union election which resulted in Orr's victory. Daniel Fiore, business agent of the union; his son, William, a driver for a morning newspaper, and Herbert Phelps, another business agent, were also being held for questioning.

Makes Charge of Friction.

"I have learned that Orr and Daniel Fiore were not in harmony," Mr. Mueller said. "Fiore had worked with Barry when Barry was boss of the union and he supported Barry for re-election as secretary treasurer. The sum of $600 was charged to Fiore, and I understand Fiore used it in paying dues of members so they could vote for Barry—it being necessary to be fully paid up in order to vote. Orr had demanded the return of the $600, but Fiore claimed he lost it."

At 3 o'clock Sunday morning Orr and others of the union had a conference with a circulation manager relative to drivers discontinuing the practice of putting newspapers in bags tied to electric light poles. Orr, Fiore and others then went to a restaurant where they talked a while.

Fiore surrendered to the police yesterday and said he drove to Benton Harbor after leaving Orr. It was reported he had convinced the authorities he had no personal enmity for Orr and had nothing to gain by Orr's death.

Barry told Assistant State's Attorney Harry S. Ditchburne he had been manager of a 5 and 10 cent store on Madison street near Homan avenue since he was deposed as secretary treasurer of the union. He said he was out of all rackets and had no desire to reengage in union affairs and consequently had no reason for wishing the death of Orr.

FOREST FIRES RAGE IN IDAHO, MONTANA; FEAR LOSS OF LIFE

Spokane, Wash., July 27.—(AP)—Fanned by high winds, the Deer Creek fire in the Pend Oreille and Kootenai forests of Idaho and Montana had swept over 16,000 acres today, destroying many buildings, a band of sheep, and possibly had claimed human life.

A. C. Rockrall, asistant supervisor of the Pend Oreille forest, said he had an unconfirmed report that 11 persons were near the sheep camp and that only a woman had been brought out.

The fire was whipped from 160 acres last night, Cockrall said, to 16,000 acres early this afternoon and was out of control. More than 500 men were fighting it.

The fire was started Sunday morning, Cockrall was advised, by a careless camper or a smoker.

Freighter from Belgium Will Arrive Here Today

The Swedish freighter Anna is due to tie up at the Montgomery Ward & Co. dock, Chicago avenue and the river, this morning, bringing the first cargo of general merchandise sailed from Europe to Chicago. The Anna left Antwerp, Belgium, on June 25, crossing the Atlantic and proceeding down the St. Lawrence river and through the Welland canal to the great lakes. It has a cargo of 1,550 tons of merchandise, principally farm fencing wire and agricultural implements. The Anna will come through the Michigan bridge about 10 a. m.

Wife of Pastor Found Drowned in Cistern

Mrs. Anna Rathmann, 59 years old, wife of the Rev. William F. Rathmann, pastor of the Immanuel Evangelical church of Bartlett, 5 miles southeast of Elgin, was found drowned last evening in eight feet of water in the cistern in the rear of her home. The cistern is fifteen feet deep. Mrs. Rathmann recently suffered a nervous breakdown, and police said they believed she committed suicide. Her body was found by John Baxman, her son-in-law.

INDICT POLICE CHIEF FOR USING CLUB ON DOCTOR

First True Bill Is Voted in Speed Trap Inquiry.

BY HAL FOUST.

The grand jury investigating speed traps voted its first indictment yesterday. Named in the true bill, according to reports, is A. A. Tarry, chief of police of Midlothian, a village in the southern part of Cook county. He is charged with having blackjacked Dr. C. E. Steckbauer of the Illinois Eye and Ear hospital after the surgeon failed to stop his car at a stop sign at 147th street and Crawford avenue on the night of July 4.

Dr. Steckbauer and his wife, Dr. Preva Steckbauer, who live at 6125 Kenwood avenue, before testifying before the grand jury yesterday afternoon, related their experience to Joseph Braun, general counsel for the Chicago Motor club, and Assistant State's Attorney Henry Syfarth.

Tells Story of Incident.

"We had been playing golf and were en route home about 3:30 o'clock," the surgeon said. "In the dim light, I didn't see the stop sign at Crawford avenue in time to halt my car. I continued on my way.

"A minute later, a small car, without any marks to identify it as a police machine, drew up beside mine and crowded me to a halt. A tall man, whom I later learned was Chief Tarry, jumped out of the machine. He hit me on the head with a blackjack and with his stepson, Hank Jobins, a grown lad, pulled me into their car. The boy punched me.

"I was taken to the Blue Island police station and charged with failing to stop at a state highway intersection. I suggested that I wanted to file an assault charge against Hank. At this, Chief Tarry grabbed me by the neck with both hands and threw me over a bench. A Blue Island policeman pulled him off of me. I was asked to post $1,000 bond, but, they finally accepted $15 cash bail.

Other Charges Against Police.

Other charges of abusive treatment received from police were also heard by the grand jury. Mrs. Lillian Gaddis of Park Ridge said that she was held in a Chicago police station over night and refused the privilege of using a telephone, after she was arrested in Chicago on Jan. 23, 1930, for failure to stop at a stop sign. She said Motorcycle Policeman Stanley L. Robosky, who made the arrest, repeatedly asked her before taking her to the station, if she had any money with her.

The statute of limitations precludes any criminal prosecution now on Mrs. Gaddis' charges, but the grand jury addressed letters to the city civil service commission and to the commissioner of police requesting an investigation.

Miss Jean Rider, 18 years old, 918 Elm street, a student at Northwestern university, told the grand jury of her trial before Justice of the Peace Falk in Morton Grove on a charge of speeding. She was arrested for driving forty-five miles an hour on Dempster street near the Waukegan road, where the pavement is forty feet wide and the road, while in an incorporated area, is virtually in open country. She said the justice refused to hear her defense that she was driving with due regard for safety and with the normal speed of traffic generally. The grand jury indicated that it would investigate further.

$628,269 Inheritance Tax Paid on Scoville Estate

Attorney General Oscar E. Carlstrom announced yesterday the completion of inheritance tax proceedings in the estate of the late Charles B. Scoville of Oak Park, and the payment to the county treasurer of a tax of $628,269. Mr. Scoville, who died on Dec. 4, 1930, at the age of 73, was a pioneer resident of Oak Park and the owner of the Medical Arts building and other large real estate holdings.

STATE ROAD BIDS ARE ASKED UNDER NEW WAGE LAW

Legislation Will Cause Construction Delay.

The state highway department yesterday issued its first advertisement for bids under the rules of the minimum prevailing wage law passed by the recent session of legislature. The bids, to be opened Aug. 18, are for contracts that include several important projects in the metropolitan area.

H. H. CLEAVELAND. [Eckman Photo.]

The advertisement is being published after a month's delay in the heart of construction season while Director Cleaveland of the department of public works obtained an opinion from Attorney General Carlstrom on the meaning of the minimum wage act. The new law provides that contractors on public construction must pay wages not lower than the rates prevailing in the neighborhood of the job.

If the usual routine is followed with this batch of bids, the contracts will not be awarded until about Sept. 1. This will leave only six weeks for paving. Oct. 15 is generally recognized as the end of the season when concrete can be poured on roads without danger from frost damage.

The metropolitan area projects on the Aug. 18 letting include the following paving jobs:

Northwest highway, from Baldwin road to Barrington, 2.92 miles.

Sheridan road, 1.47 miles in Lake county.

Wages Are Listed.

In the advertisements for the bids the state listed the minimum wage scale for Cook and Lake counties as follows: Common labor, 97½ cents; teamsters, $1; truck drivers, $1; concrete finishers and form setters, $1.62½; carpenters, $1.62½; and skilled mechanics and machine operators, $1.62½.

Other scales were used for contracts in other parts of the state. For example, in Kane county the rates were given as follows: Common labor, 65 cents; teamsters, 77½ cents; truck drivers, 77 cents; concrete finishers and form setters, $1.50; carpenters, $1.25; and skilled mechanics and machine operators, $1.37½.

CHURCH ORGANIST PLAYS ALL DAY; IT PAINS SEXTON

John Csinoss of 2455 Seminary avenue is the organist at St. Mary's Hungarian-German church, 2425 North Washtenaw avenue. Alex Koves of 2445 North Washtenaw avenue is the sexton.

About 10 o'clock yesterday morning Csinoss entered the church. He wanted to rehearse on the organ, he announced. Despite objections by the sexton, he proceeded. At noon he was still rehearsing. Also at 2 o'clock, and likewise at 5. In between times he refreshed himself, it is charged, with swigs from a bottle.

At 7 o'clock Mr. Koves had enough of the rehearsal. He grabbed a chair, walked up to Csinoss, and brought it down on his head. Sergt. Drury Rohan of the Shakespeare avenue station separated the pair shortly afterward and locked them up.

Poses as Telephone Man; Robs Housewife of Gems

A thief, gaining entrance by posing as a telephone repair man, ransacked the apartment of Mrs. Louis Arotlin, 1737 Pratt boulevard, and escaped with jewelry valued at $400 yesterday.

POLICEMAN SHOT WHEN HE RESISTS PAIR OF ROBBERS

Policeman George Barker, 32 years old, attached to the East Chicago avenue station, was shot twice early this morning when he resisted a robbery attempted by two men in front of his home at 2818 Arthington street. One bullet pierced his right wrist. Another struck him in the left forearm. He was taken to the Garfield Park hospital.

Barker was sitting in his automobile with his brother-in-law, William Sennot, when the bandits stepped up to him. One ordered him and Sennot to put up their arms. Instead the policeman pulled out his flashlight and turned it on the men. The nearest gunman fired two shots and ran. Barker, despite his wounds, chased them and fired several shots.

WOMAN KILLED BY AUTO AS SHE CROSSES STREET

Publisher, Struck by Car, Dies of Injuries.

Mrs. Anna Wichowski, 34, 748 Temple street, was fatally injured yesterday when she was struck by an automobile while crossing Milwaukee avenue at Ogden avenue. She was taken to St. Mary's hospital where she died four hours later.

The driver, John Hammerabach, 1240 North Clark street, an investigator for the state's attorney's office, was held for the inquest and exonerated by the coroner's jury. He testified that he did not see the woman until she stepped in front of his car. He immediately stopped and took her to the hospital.

Two Deaths in County.

This death with one other raised the 1931 toll for Cook county to 642. The other victim:

Walter J. Donovan, 64, a retired police sergeant and publisher of the Chicago Eagle, a political newspaper with offices at 179 West Washington street, died at St. Luke's hospital from injuries received July 20. He was struck by an automobile at Wabash avenue and 13th street. Theodore Grabnik, 1221 South Lawndale avenue, driver of the car, was arrested that night, charged with manslaughter. He will be arraigned in Felony court tomorrow. Donovan was a publisher and lived at 1250 South Michigan avenue.

Donovan was the son of the late Col. Henry Donovan, for many years editor of the Eagle.

Chicagoan Dies of Injuries.

John Pasconrek, 32, a Chicago coal and ice dealer, was fatally injured when his automobile collided with a truck on the highway near Bloomingdale, Mich., Sunday. He died yesterday at Allegan, where he was bound to visit his 4 year old daughter, Dorothy.

Two youths were killed at Aurora yesterday. Gilbert Wagner, 16, was fatally hurt when his motorcycle crashed into a motor car which was being backed into the street. John Cusik, 20, was crushed when his automobile ran off the road and overturned.

Two Girls Hurt in Crash.

Two automobiles collided and overturned last night at Willow avenue and Washington street, Wheaton. In the crash two girls of high school age, Selma Widman and Ruth Olander, both of Glen Ellyn, suffered serious injuries. Miss Widman's skull was fractured and Miss Olander was cut and bruised on the head and face.

Mrs. E. H. Johnson, 623 East Willow avenue, Wheaton, and an 18 month old baby were in one of the cars, but neither was injured. The second car, driven by E. Olander, 270 Forest avenue, Glen Ellyn, had six passengers. Ages of all but the two girls were given.

STATES SHOW FIELDS BARED BY GRASSHOPPERS

Des Moines, Ia., July 27.—(AP)—Acres upon acres of fields, cut down as if by a fiery blast, tonight bore testimony in three states to a scourge of grasshoppers. In Iowa, Nebraska, and South Dakota there were fields denuded of every green blade as the result of the plague.

In Nebraska 63 of the 93 counties have been infested. In South Dakota half of 2,000 acres Iowa state entomologists found not enough remaining to feed a single animal. In Iowa an appropriation of $50,000 is sought to fight the pests whose battle lines are moving eastward.

Prayers and poison have both been resorted to in South Dakota. Farmers knelt on the spot where sixty years ago their fathers had knelt, to ask relief from the scourge.

Used as Fish Bait.

Norfolk, Neb., July 27.—[Special.]—Farmers of north Nebraska, infested by grasshoppers, are jubilant. Wisconsin state fish hatcheries are buying grasshoppers at twenty cents a pound. Hundreds of pounds are being shipped now.

Huron, S. D., July 27.—(AP)—Reading that Montana farmers had successfully combated grasshoppers by turning turkeys into infested fields, Mike Reuter boarded his turkey flock into a sugar ridden cornfield. In the evening Mike claims, the turkeys returned to their roosts minus feathers.

DIES AS RESULT OF INJURY.

Mrs. Catherine Tybus, 42 years old, 2210 West Wilcox street, died in St. Elizabeth hospital yesterday of infection which developed after she was injured in a fall at her home a few days ago.

ECONOMICAL AND EASY TO MAKE JAMS AND JELLIES

Don't let summer go by without putting up some preserves, jellies and jams. Your family will thank you and with every glass and jar you open next winter, you'll save real money. Sugar is being sold everywhere at a price that is unusually low, and bargains in fruit may be expected throughout the season.

There is a place in every meal for some fruit of some sort. You can make economical desserts and salads with them that are wholesome and delicious. Jellies also make a tasteful dessert when served with cream cheese and crackers. And when you have rice pudding, top each serving with a spoonful of jam.

Remember, too, that sweet relishes made of vegetables are delicious with meat and fish. Watch your fruit and vegetable market so you can take advantage of the bargain-day prices. Preserve with refined cane sugar. The Sugar Institute.

STOPS BULLET

MILDRED PECHMAN.

Caught in a gun battle between police of the Lawndale district and hoodlums fleeing arrest, Mildred Pechman, 10 years old, 1933 South Kedzie avenue, was slightly wounded in the left hand yesterday. Policemen Baranick and Lalla halted an automobile on 22d street. The two occupants drew guns and opened fire as they speeded west. At St. Louis avenue they turned south as the little girl was crossing the street and one of the bandits' shots struck her. The robbers escaped.

Train on Time, Although Engineer Had Died in Cab

Duke of Gloucester Has Cold; Blame Ride in Plane

MELTON MOWBRAY, England, July 27.—(AP)—The duke of Gloucester, third son of King George, caught a chill while flying from Aintree Friday and will have to stay indoors for a few days, it was disclosed today.

BOMB WRECKS MEAT MARKET ON WEST SIDE

Hundreds of residents in the vicinity of Paulina and Taylor streets were shaken shortly before 5 o'clock this morning when a large bomb was exploded in the entrance of the meat market of Joseph Feinberg at 1005 South Paulina street. Damage was estimated by police at $1,500. The front of the store was smashed and all the windows in the two story building were shattered. Windows in stores and homes within a radius of a block were also broken. No one was injured.

Half an hour before the blast Anton Yuske, 1543 Roosevelt road, night watchman, saw a mysterious package at the door and notified the police. When Policemen William Tourek and Thomas De Peano arrived the package was gone. They watched the place for some time but were called away. They had been gone but a few minutes when the bomb that wrecked the place was thrown. A young man and a woman in a gray touring car who passed the shop several times are sought by the police. It was the second time within a few months that the place was bombed.

Transcontinental Buses Use Rail Station Here

Utilization of the Chicago and North Western railroad station by the Chicago and North Western Stages, bus operating subsidiary of the railroad, was begun yesterday. Transcontinental buses operating through Omaha and points west and northwest met at the station. The arrivals and departures marked the first time buses have used a railroad terminal in a major city. The arrangement was made to afford travelers a better exchange between rail and bus service.

The Secret ... of making men like SALADS

YESTERDAY FOR THE FIRST TIME I MADE A SALAD WITH HELLMANN'S MAYONNAISE. IT WAS THE FIRST SALAD THAT CHARLIE HAS EATEN IN A MONTH!"

YOU will be amazed at the flavor appeal that Hellmann's Mayonnaise has for men. Indeed, it offers a sure way to induce almost any husband to eat the salads that he needs.

The reason for its unique flavor? Carefully chosen ingredients, first of all. Breakfast eggs, special salad oils, thrice strained vinegar, a unique blend of Far East Spices. All mixed to the exact proportions of its famous old French recipe.

And then double whipping ... a special, scientific blending process that mixes the ingredients to a harmony of perfection.

Try Hellmann's Mayonnaise on the next salad you serve your husband. If either of you feels that it does not measure up to every promise we make, please take back the jar and get your money.

Get a pint or half-pint jar today. Hellmann's is the mayonnaise that always has been identified by the Blue Ribbon on the label. It is sold by your grocer.

"AT LAST RUTH HAS FOUND A MAYONNAISE I LIKE. IT REALLY MADE THAT SALAD SHE SERVED YESTERDAY TASTE GOOD. IT HAD SUCH A FINE FLAVOR."

About Half of Convicted Escape Prison.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 27.—[Special.]—Further evidence of a disposition on the part of congress to overhaul the system of national bank supervision to determine whether it is responsible for the increasing number of bank failures was forthcoming today.

DUNCAN FLETCHER [Fotofreams.]

Senator Duncan U. Fletcher [Dem., Fla.], ranking minority member of the senate committee on banking and currency, has written a letter to the controller protesting, it is learned, against the large number of sentences of convicted offenders against the national banking laws which were suspended. Mr. Fletcher says that he will call the attention of the senate when congress meets in December to this and other aspects of the failure of the government vigorously to enforce the laws for the protection of depositors.

A committee of the senate, of which Senator Carter Glass [Dem., Va.] is chairman, is already investigating the defects of the federal reserve act and the shortcomings of the federal reserve board.

Almost Half Escape Prison.

Senator Fletcher in his letter to John W. Pole, controller of the currency, cites the fact that in the year ending Oct. 1, last, 134 persons were convicted of violation of the banking laws and 62 of them were granted probation or suspension of sentence.

"This question," says the Fletcher letter, "suggests itself—what is the use of prosecuting these violators of the national banking laws, including such offenses as embezzlement, when the convicted persons receive no punishment?

"This suggests another question—whether it would not be well to take away from the courts the power to suspend sentence or place these offenders on probation?

"The record does not show, but it may be that a number of these convictions were based on pleas of guilty and that at the time of the entering of such pleas there was some understanding with the prosecuting attorney that the defendant would go free of imprisonment.

"Our laws should be made more drastic and strengthened in this respect and the punishment should be made certain."

In response to the senator, Controller Pole wrote that he was referring the letter to the attorney general "since the prosecution of these cases falls under his jurisdiction."

Senator Fletcher is of the opinion that too many banks are allowed to s.t up business on a shoestring.

"Since 1920," he said today, "there have been about 6,000 bank failures. Of these 1,000 were national bank failures and the other 5,000 failures of state banks. We now have about 7,500 national banks in operation.

"More than 60 per cent of the banks that failed were institutions of $25,000 capital or less; more than 70 per cent had less than $50,000; and more than 90 per cent had less than $100,000 capital. The capital of a national bank must be $25,000 or more. Many of the states have granted charters in which the required capital is as low as $10,000.

For Higher Minimum Capital.

"It would seem to me that it is a mistake to charter banks with such small capital. I think Melvin Traylor, the head of a big institution in Chicago, is right in recommending that there be required a minimum capital of $100,000 for any institution doing a banking business.

"My information is that in the last 10 years between one and two billions of dollars has been involved in deposits in the banks over whose doors have been hung the sign 'bank closed.'

"The closing of the doors of banks since 1920 have tied up the funds entrusted to them by 7,300,000 depositors.

"In making these observations I do not want to appear as being harsh with bank officials in any way except as to those who go wrong. But there has been a large number of cases of bank officials tried and sentenced but given suspensions of sentences or too short sentences compared with the grave character of the offense committed. A bank criminal should be treated with the same measure of punishment as any other criminal."

49 MILLION IN NEW CONTRACTS LET IN 1 WEEK

Washington, D. C., July 27.—[Special.]—Public and semi-public works contract awards totaling $49,247,328 were reported to the President's emergency committee for employment last week, it was announced today. This brought the total of contract awards reported since Dec. 1, 1930, to more than $2,055,000,000.

The work in Illinois amounted to more than $1,238,000 and included Cumberland county, $41,074; Du Page county, $69,970; Effington county, $56,578; Rockford, $66,830; Cicero, $165,000; Freeport, $175,000; Iroquois county, $90,000; Kankakee county, $63,000; Lake Forest, $80,000; Oak Park, $325,000; Quincy, $25,000, and Springfield, $90,000.

LINDBERGH AND WIFE MAY HOP FOR TOKIO TODAY

ington is to meet the department's experts on far eastern affairs, to obtain a Japanese visa, to have one or two instruments checked by aeronautic officials and to complete certain tests of the plane's radio apparatus.

The meeting with the departmental experts was accomplished tonight at a dinner at Mr. Castle's home, where the Lindberghs will be guests during their Washington stay. Tomorrow will be devoted to getting the other things done."

If they're done in time, then the first stop on the trip will be North Haven, Me., where Senator and Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, Mrs. Lindbergh's parents, have a summer home.

Still looking very much like a slim, slightly tousled college boy, Col. Lindbergh answered questions in Mr. Castle's office. But no direct quotations was his rule. Mrs. Lindbergh, in pinkish sports blouse, and with sky blue stockings showing between the and the tops of low cut moccasins, sat on a couch and chatted with her host.

Yes, they would fly back, Col. Lindbergh said, but they had honestly made no plans about their route home. They would spend at least one night at each stopping point on the way and perhaps more, depending on circumstances. They had no set schedule. Their fuel arrangements had all been satisfactorily made.

Plan Leisurely Trip.

The normal cruising speed of the plane, he explained, was 135 miles an hour, but for the sake of gasoline economy they would travel at the more efficient rate of 105 miles an hour.

It was all very matter of fact, this business of starting off on a visit to what has been described as "some of the wildest and least visited inhabited portions of the globe."

From North Haven, they will go to Ottawa, thence up to the Hudson bay region to Moose Factory, Churchill, and Baker lake. Then will begin the wildest stretch of country to be traversed on the flight, as they head for Aklavik, near the mouth of the McKenzie river. The next stop will be Point Barrow, northernmost bit of United States territory.

Then to Nome, Alaska, and from there, in the longest hop, to Khabarovsk, Siberia. Then on to Karaginskil island, Petropaviovsk, Nemuro on the Japanese island of Hokkaido, and Tokio.

VICTOR SEARLES IS ACCUSED IN MANN ACT CASE

West Palm Beach, Fla., July 27.—(AP)—An amended bill of complaint charging violation of the Mann act was filed here today against Victor Searles, wealthy sportsman of Palm Beach, New York, and Atlantic City, by his wife, Mrs. Mabel Margaret Searles, who is seeking separate maintenance.

Mrs. Searles accuses her husband of lavishing thousands of dollars upon other women and willing his property to them, while failing to provide for her and their 5 year old daughter, Betty.

Mrs. Searles' bill charged that the body of her husband's first wife, Charlotte Irene Searles, is held unburied by a local undertaking firm, and the body of one of the women with whom the complainant charges Searles was intimate" is held in cold storage" in a northern city.

ELECTROLUX is the refrigerator that works on a basically new principle—it makes cold and freezes ice cubes without noise or vibration.

Automatic without moving parts. Just a tiny gas flame and a tiny flow of water. That's all. Lowest operating cost of all refrigerators—about five cents a day.

Refrigerant hermetically sealed in a rigid steel unit; needs no renewal. Gas flame completely protected by an automatic shut-off. No alternate stopping and starting. Chilling action goes on continuously. Gas and water connections through concealed flexible copper tubing.

This sounds as though Electrolux should cost more than other makes, but it doesn't. Used in more than 175,000 homes all over the nation. Eleven different household models, ranging in size from 3 cu. ft. to 20 cu. ft. capacity.

Service? Very little needed. And should your Electrolux ever need adjustment, your gas company supplies the service. This refrigerator on display at all gas company showrooms. Why not see it today? Or write or phone us for complete information. Phone Wabash 6000.

BUCK DISCUSSES REFUSAL TO TAKE COLLECTOR'S JOB

Denies Guzik Affair Had Bearing on Case.

BY PARKE BROWN.

At his home in Monmouth yesterday, Clarence F. Buck, former state senator, talked freely about an incident described by a St. Louis newspaper as the cause of his failure to take office as collector of internal revenue to Chicago.

CLARENCE F. BUCK.

This event was his request early last winter that District Judge Woodward continue the income tax case against Jack Guzik, Capone lieutenant, who some time later was convicted and sentenced to serve five years and a day and compelled to pay a fine of $17,500, one of the heaviest penalties ever imposed in a case of this sort.

White House Intervention Alleged.

It has been alleged that this attempt at intercession for the defendant was brought to the attention of the White House and prevented the issuance of Buck's commission, although his appointment had been announced by President Hoover.

The former state senator, however, denied the event over the long distance telephone as one of an inconsequential nature which had no real bearings on his federal appointment. He has told friends ever since last April that he did not seek the collector's office and was not inclined to accept it. Senator Otis F. Glenn presented his name after a round robin urging his appointment had been circulated by Illinois members of Congress, nearly all of whom signed it.

Former Senator Buck said at the close of his interview that he did not consider his request for a court continuance for Guzik "wrong" in any way.

Tells of Guzik Case.

"A man I had known for a long time in Chicago," he said, "came to me and said that in a few days he had the Guzik case coming up before Judge Woodward and that he wanted a continuance for a few days in which to prepare his case. He said the government had been working several months on its side of the case and that he should be allowed a few weeks. He asked me if I'd ask Judge Woodward for a continuance.

"At first I refused to do it, but it was suggested to me that if the continuance could be obtained we might be able to obtain information about the kidnaping of Yokum, the Galva banker. Later events proved this unnecessary as Yokum showed up.

"This man presented what seemed to me to be a reasonable request and I finally agreed that as I was going to see Judge Woodward that day I would bring up the subject. I did so and Judge Woodward replied that if the district was ready to try the case he would go ahead with it at once. That settled the matter."

The defense attorneys in the Guzik case were William F. Waugh and George N. Murdock. Attorney Waugh said last night that neither he nor Attorney Murdock had either directly or indirectly sought to influence Judge Woodward to grant a continuance and that neither had asked Buck or anybody else to make such an effort.

Decided to Wait.

The continuance was not granted. Guzik was convicted and on Dec. 30 was sentenced. The announcement that Buck was to be appointed collector at Chicago was made on April 4. At that time Senator Glenn was en route to Europe and Buck said he was not ready to accept the appointment and would wait until after Glenn's return before announcing his decision.

Although Senator Glenn refused yesterday to discuss the case he has known for some time that Buck was out of the picture and is now considering another recommendation for the appointment. One of the names presented to him by members of the Harding group is that of Gregory T. Van Meter.

FIND TUNNEL HANDY IN THEIR CELL, SO TWO JAILBIRDS CRAWL OUT

A rapist and a robber escaped from the Bridewell, the city's old prison at 26th street and California avenue, Sunday night by crawling through a tunnel which they entered by breaking a manhole located in their own cell.

Breaking through steel bars in the tunnel, the pair emerged through a second manhole into the Bridewell's inner yard. There they made a crude ladder of lumber from the carpenter shop and scaled the wall into the outer yard. They broke into a deserted watch tower that led to the top of the outer wall, from which they dropped to the street.

The fugitives are Max Leitz, 24 years old, an ex-convict, who was sentenced to a year in the house of correction for carrying a gun which he used in a stickup, and Louis Belli, 22 years old, found guilty of contributing to the delinquency of a 16 year old girl whom he held prisoner in a flat at 39 South Aberdeen street. A charge of rape against him is still to be tried.

Before they left Leitz and Belli rolled blankets into human shape to deceive the guards in the cell corridors. There were no guards on the walls during the night, and the escape of the pair was not discovered until yesterday morning.

FACTS COMPILED ON WHICH CAPONE WILL GO TO CELL

Government Prepares for Sentence Thursday.

Federal prosecutors yesterday were preparing their evidence against Al Capone, a summary of which will be presented to the court by government agents when the chief of gang chiefs comes up for sentence before Judge James H. Wilkerson on Thursday.

Guilty on Two Charges.

Capone has pleaded guilty to indictments charging violations of the income tax laws and conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws. His confessed offenses included attempts to dodge payment of $215,080 in taxes on an income of $1,939,854 for the years 1925 to 1929, inclusive, and conspiracy with sixty-eight of his henchmen to operate a wholesale beer business for ten years.

The government will be prepared to give the court a full showing of its evidence by the testimony of the principal federal agents in each case. No other witnesses are expected to be called. The summary of the evidence, it is reported, will include a computation of Capone's income and tax due, and in a general way the sources of his income, which included bootlegging, gambling and traffic in vice.

Plea May Lighten Sentence.

Capone is liable to a possible maximum of two years in the penitentiary and a fine of $10,000 on the beer conspiracy charge and thirty-two years and a fine of $30,000 on eight income tax counts. However, the highest sentence on record in a plea of guilty in an income tax case of record is two years. Since Capone is pleading guilty it is considered unlikely that he will receive a sentence of more than three years and a substantial fine.

The hearing is not expected to require more than one day, and if Judge Wilkerson sentences Capone immediately the gangster probably will be taken to Leavenworth on Friday with a regular consignment of convicts.

BANKRUPT 'CLERK' OWES 44 MILLIONS; ASSETS ONLY $100

New York, July 27.—[Special.]—Jeremiah F. Donovan, a young man describing himself as a clerk and living in a modest furnished room in Brooklyn, amazed federal authorities in Brooklyn today with a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in which he declared his liabilities were $44,543,357 and his assets only $100.

The debts appeared from the records to revolve about real estate operations, and it is set forth that all but $44,443 are secured by mortgages on Manhattan real estate.

PAY LESS FOR FINE-CAR OWNERSHIP . . . . . WITH OAKLAND EIGHT

YOU REALLY MUST DRIVE AN OAKLAND TO LEARN WHAT IT WILL DO . . . .

No matter how able it looks—or what owners say for it—you'll never really appreciate Oakland's performance until you take the wheel yourself. . . .

Head for some hill with a second-gear reputation. Never mind the flying start. Gather your speed on the way up. Then look back and wonder where the problem was!

Shift your way through thick traffic. See if that's any trouble, with Syncro-Mesh transmission quietly slipping from gear to gear at a light touch. Always in gear—no danger.

Out beyond the city limits, try and find Oakland's speed limit—if your nerve allows it!

And then—parking, turning, jockeying for position—write a new definition of easy handling in a man's-size car.

Perhaps the best thing about it all is this: The longer you drive Oakland the more you'll realize that its unusual performance is built in to stay.

And so, with these qualities at such a moderate price, you'll see why we say pay less for fine-car ownership, with Oakland Eight.

PLAN FOR CANAL AT NICARAGUA IS FACING A BATTLE

Inland Waterways Have Prior Necessity.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 27.—[Special.]—When congress meets in December among the matters that will be laid before it will be the question of constructing a canal across Nicaragua to supplement the Panama canal.

LIEUT. COL. DAN SULTAN. [A. P. Photo.]

Lieut. Col. Dan I. Sultan of the army engineering corps, just returned from surveying the canal route, explained today that his report would be ready in time to pass through the hands of the secretary of war and the President and thence proceed to congress by Dec. 7.

With the project of constructing a Nicaraguan canal up for congressional discussion the issue between representatives of the inland states and the seaboards promises again to become acute.

Central States Seek Priority.

Feasible though the Nicaraguan route may be, as Lieut. Col. Sultan reports that it is, the indications are that until the inland waterway system is completed and the central states given access to the sea by a water route, such as the St. Lawrence seaway, senators and congress will strenuously object to authorizing the expenditure of 750 millions for a channel of transportation between the Atlantic and Pacific coasts, even shorter and cheaper than the Panama canal.

Based on an interest bearing indebtedness of 535 millions, the revenue of the Panama canal in 1930 was equivalent to a return of 3¾ per cent. In his last annual report Col. Harry urgess, governor of the canal, pointed out that the canal was not earning the current borrowing rate of the United States treasury.

President Hoover, when secretary of commerce, recognized the handicap placed on midwestern industry and agriculture when he said the opening of the Panama canal had brought about changes which have placed the midwest in a "new and disadvantageous situation with respect to the rest of the country and the world's markets as a whole."

Added Handicap to Interior.

The projected Nicaraguan canal, it is argued, would not only cost more than the Panama canal, but because it would cut approximately 900 miles off the present route from coast to coast through the Panama canal, would only serve to enhance the already existing differential in transportation costs which now operates to the disadvantage of the midwest.

Lieut. Col. Sultan declared today that from an engineering point of view a Nicaraguan canal was entirely feasible. From a military point of view he believed it would be advantageous to have an alternate route. To build such a canal, he declared, would take approximately ten years.

According to the route charted out by Lieut. Col. Sultan, the canal would be 173 miles long, including 70 across Lake Nicaragua, and would for a considerable portion of its length follow the valley of the San Juan river.

Edge and Pershing at French Colonial Show

PARIS, July 27.—(AP)—"American week" at the French exposition began tonight with a concert at the reproduction of Mount Vernon on the exposition grounds. French officialdom and a large crowd of French and Americans attended the concert. Ambassador Walter E. Edge and Gen. Pershing paid a visit to the building, after which the Republican guard band began an American musical program.

OFFER FUNDS IN BID FOR PARTY CONVENTIONS

A bid to cover the underwriting expenses if Chicago is picked as the scene for the Republican and Democratic national conventions next year will be submitted to the two national committees, probably in December, according to a letter sent yesterday by Edward N. Hurley to the committeemen of both parties. As chairman of the citizens' committee appointed by the Chicago Association of Commerce to bring the two political gatherings here, Mr. Hurley conveys definite assurance that prominent Chicagoans stand ready to subscribe a large convention fund.

"Our citizens' committee," says the letter, "is preparing to make definite proposals at the proper time to cover the expenses of the convention. You may be certain that they will be generous in doing so.

"Central location, minimum expense, superior hotel accommodations and unexcelled convention hall facilities are the four basic factors to be considered in selecting a meeting place. These advantages are in Chicago's favor.

"Our location guarantees maximum attendance. We are at the center of the country's important political area, where, aside from the solution of political problems, we are in a strategic location for the consideration of the farm board question, the inland waterways and other vitally important problems confronting the nation today."

Wins 'Round Italy Air Race in 35 Hours; 3 Killed

ROME, July 27.—(AP)—Ambroggio Colombo won the "Round-Italy" airplane race, landing at Littorio field today. His flying time was 35 hours 36 minutes. Twenty of the 28 starters finished. Three flyers were killed and one injured during the race. Capt. Broad of England was winner in the competition for large planes. His time was 37 hours 42 minutes.

MURRAY'S ARMY OPENS BATTLE ON NEW FRONT

Oklahoma City, July 27.—(AP)—The martial lines of Oklahoma's commander in chief, first used to keep motorists from paying their way over the Durant-Denison toll bridge, were flung today across the parallel free span he is determined to keep open.

Scenting a rumored attempt to again close the free structure, Gov. William H. Murray, in direct command of his National Guard, ordered militiamen to establish a second martial law zone from the Texas side of the Red river free bridge to a point 1.7 miles north of the Oklahoma bank.

The guardsmen will remain in position before the toll bridge, although Murray has instructed them to let anybody cross it who wants to pay the 75 cents levy. So far every motorist has preferred to cross the free span.

Three sentry posts were established this afternoon by the Oklahoma guardsmen on the free bridge while Gov. Murray continued criticism of a federal court order signed at Muskogee Saturday restraining interference with toll bridge travel. If the court action is upheld, he said, it may mean abolishment of state governments and the setting up of "centralized despotism."

Gov. Murray has taken sole responsibility for any defiance of the courts.

Submarine Nautilus Plans to Start for Pole Today

PLYMOUTH, England, July 27.—(AP)—The polar submarine Nautilus moved out of the basin here into the river today preparatory to the probable resumption tomorrow of its voyage to the north pole. Repairs on machinery which broke down during the Atlantic crossing had been under way for more than a month in the Devonport dockyard.

$240,000 BANK FUNDS MISSING; NAB 2 TELLERS

New Rochelle, N. Y., July 27.—[Special.]—Thomas J. Burke and Max Rosenthal, tellers in the North Avenue Bank and Trust company, were arrested here today, following an announcement of the discovery last week of a shortage of $240,000 in the assets of the bank and the resultant merger of the institution with the New Rochelle Trust company, of which it is now a branch.

Burke, who was chief paying teller and had been employed by the bank for ten years, was held without bail on a charge of forgery. He is 29 years old and married. Lester Albertson, assistant district attorney, said the charge against Rosenthal, who has been in the employ of the bank seven years, would be grand larceny. He is 26 years old and single.

An office romance nearly broken, ..was the cause 'B.O.'? (Body Odor)

A PRETTY TYPIST. An attractive junior clerk. Work threw them together—and Cupid did the rest!

But their romance wasn't all plain sailing. Much as she liked him, he had one fault she couldn't overlook. It wasn't until he finally discovered the easy way to end "B.O."—body odor—that she finally said "Yes." Now they're joyfully planning a wonderful future together. Thanks to Lifebuoy's sure protection "B.O." no longer bars the way to their happiness.

Danger days for "B.O."

These hot days when we perspire more freely demand extra care not to let "B.O." offend. Remember, our sense of smell seldom warns us when we're guilty because we quickly get used to an ever-present odor. But others instantly notice "B.O." in us—just as we do in them!

Play safe—always. Wash and bathe with Lifebuoy. This delightful toilet soap gives quantities of rich, creamy, purifying lather—even in cold or hard water. This searching lather penetrates pores—purifies—removes all odor—leaves you glowing with freshness and new vigor. Lifebuoy's pleasant, extra-clean scent—that vanishes as you rinse—tells you you're safe from offending.

Great for the complexion

No need to buy costly "complexion" soaps. Lifebuoy will do all they can. Its bland, deep-cleansing lather gently loosens and removes clogged impurities—lets the pores "breathe"—brings fresh healthy radiance to dull sallow skins.

Try Lifebuoy Free

If you don't use Lifebuoy and want to try it, send a clipping of this offer with your name and address to Lever Brothers Co., Dept. L60, Cambridge, Mass. Two full-sized cakes will be sent you without cost.

IGOE PAYING OWN WAY IN EUROPE, FRIENDS ASSERT

Spike Criticism Aimed to Hurt Candidacy.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

When the expense accounts come home to roost, is stirring some political perturbation among friends of the Illinois lawmakers now in London with members of their families on the commission which is making a $25,000 investigation of foreign prisons. In Democratic circles yesterday supporters of Michael L. Igoe, national committeeman and minority floor leader at Springfield, who is boomed as a Democratic candidate for governor, announced that Mr. Igoe was paying his own expenses on the trip.

MICHAEL L. IGOE. [Wallinger photo.]

It followed criticism in part of the downstate press that although Mr. Igoe was making headway in downstate counties, the European research trip, in view of the tax situation, was not likely to help any candidate in getting votes. Howard L. Doyle of Decatur, a state representative, issued a reply to this at headquarters.

Planned to Pay Own Way.

"Mr. Igoe," he said, "accepted appointment to the prison committee on the understanding that he would pay his own expenses and not a cent from the state for the trip. He had been planning for months to go to Europe on a vacation trip, and when he took the appointment he told me and others personally of his intention to pay his own way.

"Downstate in central Illinois the Igoe candidacy for the nomination for governor on the Democratic ticket already is getting a lot of response.

"In the counties in my district—DeWitt, Logan, and Macon—he is the fellow the Democrats are talking about at present. Some of the old timers, too, want Bruce Campbell of East St. Louis."

Friends Boom Dieterich.

Other downstate Democrats are looking around here casually in the interests of William H. Dieterich of Beardstown, congressman at large, for whom a boom was launched during the Democratic mineral bath conclave at Hot Springs, Ark., last November.

Francis X. Busch, former corporation counsel and head of the Chicago Bar association, is one of the Chicago possibilities whom downstaters are regarding as a formidable entry if he becomes a candidate.

Lieut. Gov. Fred E. Sterling, who is expected to run for renomination in the Republican primaries, is official head of the prison tour. Downstate Republicans, who say he will have a race this time, argue the European pilgrimage may slow him down a bit when the swallows homeward fly, as it were.

A boom for George F. Harding for the Republican nomination for governor was sprung yesterday. Circulars were sent out, pointing out that as county treasurer Mr. Harding effected a saving of $4,000,000 to the taxpayers during his four year term, and that he be "drafted for governor."

Evangelist Here

DR. TOYOHIKO KAGAWA. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Dr. Toyohiko Kagawa, Japanese evangelist, arrived in Chicago yesterday for a brief visit. He is in this country to raise funds for the Christian Labor mission of Japan of which he is president. His energetic sermons have gained for Dr. Kagawa the title of Japan's Billy Sunday.

TRUCK FARMERS WIN BATTLE FOR MARKET RIGHTS

BY PAUL POTTER.

Randolph street, west of the North Western railway station, is again to become strictly a market for home grown fruits and vegetables, according to a move launched by City Controller M. S. Szymczak and representatives of the 1,900 farmers in Cook and Du Page counties who truck their surplus produce into Chicago.

AUGUST GEWECKE.

The market established by city ordinance some forty years ago was set aside for farmers, in contrast with the old South Water market, which was for fruits and vegetables shipped in by rail. In recent years, the truck gardeners maintain, hucksters have been usurping the farmers' market by keeping wagons or trucks in favored positions and attempting to sell leftover products from other markets as home grown.

Get Controller's Assistance.

"We went to the city controller last week and secured his assistance in enforcement of the market ordinance," declared August Gewecke, president of the Cook County Truck Gardeners' association yesterday. "Last week the Randolph market master, Joseph J. Gordon, issued word that the scalpers must leave the market, but this morning they were back again."

Controller Szymczak stated yesterday the city administration was taking immediate steps to investigate the situation, and that Inspector Fitzpatrick of his staff had been assigned to make a thorough study.

"When this report is received, we intend to adopt a definite program to do away with those who have been selling goods bought elsewhere, in competition with farmers, to those who come to Randolph street expecting to obtain locally grown produce," declared Szymczak.

Will Close Evening Market.

The city ordinance calls for an open farmers' market on Randolph street between 4 a. m. and 5 p. m. In recent years, however, an evening marketing session has developed between 7 and 10 o'clock. City officials declared they would be obliged to discontinue this practice, and that the truck gardeners had given approval.

"We realize that closing the evening market may work a hardship on some farmers who have been driving in with produce in the evening," stated Gewecke. "But buyers have indicated a preference for the early morning market, and to enforce the existing ordinance, it will be discontinued."

LADY ASTOR ASKS SOVIET OFFICIALS TO AID U. S. WIFE

MOSCOW, July 27.—(AP)—Lady Astor today placed informally before soviet officials the cabled request of Prof. Dmitri Krynine of Yale university to her and George Bernard Shaw asking them to interest themselves in the case of his wife, who, he said, had been refused permission to leave Russia.

Lady Astor wrote a letter to an official of the soviet literary and educational organization, which is acting as host to the British tourists. It was not feasible for her to take action through official channels, she said, inasmuch as she is in Russia only as a visiting foreigner. She sent the letter just before she and the rest of the party left for a two day visit to a collective farm near Tombov.

Shaw himself has taken no active part in the case, leaving the initiative to Lady Astor. The latter has not had a chance to visit Mrs. Krynine, who is living here in one room, but has expressed the intention of doing so before the party leaves Russia.

TEDDY NEWBERRY SURRENDERS ON RUM TRUE BILL

Teddy Newberry, who holds the beer and booze concession from Al Capone on the north side, surrendered yesterday to Deputy United States Marshal Joseph Spizzirri on a removal warrant. He is under indictment at Peoria, charged with conspiracy to violate the dry laws, in connection with a huge alcohol still in Rock Island county.

Newberry's bond was fixed at $5,000, which was posted in Liberty bonds, by United States Commissioner Walker, pending a hearing on Aug. 6. The gangster denied that he was in the booze racket and declared that the Peoria grand jury had indicted some one using his name.

After his arraignment before the commissioner, Newberry was arrested on a vagrancy warrant issued by Judge John H. Lyle and taken to the felony court, where he was released on a $10,000 bond, pending arraignment today.

TWO LITTLE GIRL STOWAWAYS GET TWO TRAIN RIDES

Confident that the life of a stowaway has its dull moments especially when grown-ups interfere, two little girls climbed sorrowfully off the Rocky Mountain limited of the Rock Island railroad yesterday.

The pair, Stephanie Skrzypek, 7 years old, of 4434 Thomas street, and Della Vercsh, 10 years old, who lives across the street, slipped on board the Apache train out of Chicago at 8 p. m. Sunday and stowed themselves away in a Pullman coach so successfully that they were not discovered until the train neared Rock Island. Conductor Wickett placed them in a private home during the night with directions to return them to Chicago on the next train back.

"Why did you go away?" asked Stephanie's sister Anna, 17, who with Mary Vercsh, 16, was at the La Salle street station to take the children home.

"We were just going to the school playground and saw the street car and went for a ride on our six cents," Stephanie replied. "We got down town and decided to get off and maybe take a train ride, too. We didn't have any trouble getting on the train."

Neither little girl seemed much impressed by the large delegation awaiting them including a representative of the Travelers' Aid, and a corps of reporters and photographers.

WHEN SMOKING JADES YOUR TASTE-BUDS

TRY THIS

IF your smokes, your food suddenly lack zest — don't blame your favorite brand of tobacco—or the cook.

The fault probably lies with your papillae — the thousands of tiny, sensitive taste-buds clustered on your tongue.

Your papillae, when working properly, give keenest enjoyment to your smokes and food.

But when they're overtaxed, everything tastes flat.

Care for your taste-buds, your papillae. Care for them by avoiding dry mouth, a condition of recognized prevalence.

If you enjoy smoking a lot—and who doesn't!—chew Wrigley's frequently. Wrigley's between smokes, by stimulating a free flow of saliva, keeps the taste-buds moist and fresh and definitely relieves dry mouth. Thus, scientists say, the sensation of taste is intensified.

If you'd like more enjoyment of your smoking and your food, keener appetite and better digestion, chew Wrigley's regularly between smokes and between meals.

At the cigar stand, take your change in Wrigley's.

* All statements in this advertisement are based on scientific research conducted by a nationally known biochemist connected with the medical faculty of a great American university.

Wrigley's DOUBLE MINT—buy it at the cigar counter when you get your favorite smoke! In Wrigley's Double Mint you get the cool, refreshing flavor that choice Michigan peppermint, the finest in the world, double distilled, alone can give. (Do not confuse Wrigley's Double Mint with Wrigley's Spearmint, an equally delightful but distinctly different spearmint flavor)

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

GOV. RITCHIE COUNTS HIMSELF OUT.

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland has been regarded as one of the likely candidates for the Democratic nomination for President, but in a speech the other night he committed himself to Wilsonian internationalism. He said our era of isolation was over and regardless of our traditions we were in the maelstrom of world economics with no chance of making a distinction between economics and politics.

America never had an era of isolation. Gov. Ritchie and other Wilsonians talk as if the United States were behind a mountain barricade in a valley and never came out of it. The country always has felt the effect of world conditions, sometimes favorably and sometimes unfavorably. The infant republic began by fighting to make Mediterranean trade routes safe to its commerce from African piracy and by competing with the British marine for the far east trade. It stepped into world complications in its first pair of breeches and has been in them ever since.

Wilsonian internationalism which Gov. Ritchie as a candidate adopts does not break into a monastic cell to call America into the world, because no such cell exists. The Wilson doctrine insists that the United States shall commit itself in advance of events to certain courses of action without knowledge of what the events will be or where its interests will lie and do so by joining certain European organizations and signing a number of compacts. Americans who object to this surrender of independent judgment are not isolationists nor are they confounded every time a European condition requires American attention. The United States has always had to take into account the effect events elsewhere might have on its own conditions.

Mr. Wilson thought it advisable or necessary for the United States to join a world political organization and sign away independence of action. Most of his fellow countrymen did not think so. There is no evidence that they have or should change their minds. Although this country is not isolated it has a detachment, socially, politically and geographically, which is to its advantage. The first President recognized it and urged Americans to keep it in mind. The advantage has lost none of its value.

Gov. Ritchie has several sound items in his program for the United States. He is opposed to the federalization revealed in the eighteenth amendment and other centralizing policies. He supports the integrity of the states and the rights of the individual, but the soundness of his domestic ideas is vitiated by the sentimentality of his foreign policy. It is probable that the Democratic party has had enough of the repudiated internationalism in spite of the Wilsonian elements in the party. It is certain that the country at large will not support this theory of American entry into European federations.

The Maryland governor has made it improbable that he will go far in the national convention of his own party and impossible that he should go at all as a candidate for election.

THE INDIVIDUAL UNDER VOLSTEAD.

A bootlegger trapped by enforcement officers near Fort Wayne tried to shoot himself out of the trap, killed two officers and wounded two others. Later he was taken by Fort Wayne police. About the same time custom guards in the Detroit river, pursuing a rum runner, shot into the passenger steamer St. Claire and wounded one of the passengers. The runner had put the pleasure boat between himself and the customs boat. That did not stop the firing. The Detroit authorities are endeavoring to hold the two guards accountable to the Court of Common Pleas on warrants charging felonious assault. They'll have no success if the federal government proceeds by its usual rule. The accused men will be taken out of state jurisdiction by the federal courts.

It will be contended that the Fort Wayne case illustrates the hazards met in prohibition enforcement and justifies the conduct of officers when they disregard civilian rights and put innocent people in jeopardy. The innocent have been maimed and killed because insufficient consideration was given them in the enforcement of Volstead, but there is no justification for it.

It is a pity any lives are lost in a conflict of dogma which should not arise in the domain of law. Americans are shedding blood over a doctrinal issue. It is a controversy, not a law. No proper criminal law could come out of such a diversity of opinion. There are political majorities in the greatest American states which hold that the use of alcoholic beverages is not criminal and cannot by any statutory prohibition be made a criminal act. There are majorities in other states willing to vote that it is a crime. It is a quibble to say that the use is not legally described as a crime, but only the purveying. The use is the target aimed at. A true criminal law cannot rest upon varying election returns. Such conditions indicate personal opinions, dogma, prejudices, habits, etc., but not the elements of criminal law.

Indiscriminate bloodshed is the concomitant of prohibition enforcement, and because the law is so largely composed of dogma, opinion and prejudice the injuries done the innocent are written off as unavoidable incidents in a worthy cause. The society of civilized people does not incorporate or encourage such ideas. These tendencies are recognized as of the lower order and they are suppressed. A safe democracy is careful of the rights of the individual because it realizes that its power is so largely depersonalized. An individual autocrat is susceptible to the personal appeal. The incorporeal authority of democratic masses may be invulnerable to the appeal of the individual case. That is why it must be so considerate of the individual and why it is so dangerous to regard as negligible wanton injuries which may be done him in the operations of government.

A YEAR OF THE LONDON TREATY.

The London naval treaty is a year old. It was ratified last July. A report on navy conditions indicates that during the first year of the treaty the United States did not proceed under any particular of the agreement. Congress has not authorized a single ship of the type provided for in the agreement. The appropriations made were for destroyers authorized years ago. The American government did not adequately exercise its rights under the Washington treaty. It has done nothing under the London treaty. It sends commissioners to conferences and the nation is fortunate if they do not barter away naval strength, but even that proves to be merely academic.

After a conference has placed limitations upon the American navy the government merely uses the treaty as a starting point for further reductions. Nevertheless, conferences continue to be regarded as essential to the restriction of American sea power. What an illusion! A naval agreement stipulates what other sea nations will do in building ships but what the United States will not.

THE STATE AS SLAVE OWNER.

Lady Astor's appeal, or her knees, to Commissar Litvinoff to permit Mme. Krynin to join her husband and son in America was dramatic, but it is doubtful if the communists will accede to it. If they do it will be only because compliance will be politic and not at all because their attention has been called to a gross disregard of human rights.

To a communist the citizen, or rather subject, belongs to the state at all times. He is, in effect, the slave of the state. Prof. Krynin managed to come to America, but, as he is a valuable property, steps must be taken to assure his return. Accordingly, Mme. Krynin is held as a hostage. That is why she has not been permitted to join her husband.

In our world we adopt a somewhat similar attitude in time of war, but only in time of war. Soviet apologists attempt to justify their preference for serfdom by pretending that Russia today is in war. It is a strange war, indeed, without an enemy in the field, without a frontier violated, without a restriction on the import or export of contraband. To justify such cruelties as have been visited upon the Krynins by describing them as war measures is the merest sophistry.

The great discovery made by our revolution was that the state belongs to the citizens and each citizen belongs to himself. That is what was meant in the resounding declaration about the pursuit of happiness. We have had to compromise with the doctrine from time to time, but we have never surrendered it as it has been surrendered in Russia and Italy and wherever else dictatorships and absolutisms exist. To us the fate of Mme. Krynin or such a struggle as that being waged in Italy today for the proprietorship of youth is a nightmare out of the past. To us a man owes certain duties to the state and may undertake certain obligations toward his church, but that either power should have a perpetual and enforceable claim upon his body or his soul is as abhorrent as chattel slavery.

Editorial of the Day

[The Evening Sun, Baltimore.]

An organization in Chicago called the American Business Men's Prohibition Foundation has attacked Augustus Busch's statement that legalizing beer would help to restore prosperity. The foundation quotes eleven economists, all but one of whom disagree with Mr. Busch. The one exception, J. E. Madden of New York university, evaded the issue. He merely said, "There is nothing wrong or harmful in four per cent beer," which has nothing to do with the question.

It would be interesting to know the records of the other ten, but five of them are not listed in "Who's Who in America." The five who are listed include William H. Spencer of the University of Chicago, C. E. Griffin of the University of Michigan, and three doctors of divinity, the Rev. George B. Cutten, D. D.; the Rev. William Judson Boone, D. D., and the Rev. Donaly J. Cowling, D. D.

Obviously these gentlemen cannot have devoted all their time and attention to economics. They must have given some of it to theology or they would never have won their doctorates. Perhaps this division of interest is responsible for their having overlooked apparently certain indisputable facts.

Among these facts are the following: By reason of the Hoover moratorium we shall not receive next year the $231,683,450 we should otherwise have received from foreign nations as war debt payments.

We are already facing, however, a deficit of a billion dollars this year; consequently the war debt money will have to be made up out of the pockets of American taxpayers.

If beer were legalized and the fifteen states which never adopted prohibition of their own accord made only as much as they made on the average in the years between 1910 and 1914, they would consume 28,308,221 barrels of light and 9,402,740 barrels of heavy beer.

If we raised the tax on this beer from the old rates of $3 and $6 a barrel to new rates of $5 and $10 a barrel we should collect from this source a total of $235,068,400, or a little more than enough to make up for the loss of war debts.

These figures, as far as we know, have never been successfully challenged. Yet, if they stand, there is no manner of doubt that a tax of this kind on beer would render it unnecessary to levy any other tax to fill the hole left by the vanished war debts payments. And the only business which would seem to be menaced by it would be the business of such gentry as Al Capone, if he does, as is reported, control the beer running business in Chicago.

THE DISADVANTAGES OF COOKING.

SUCH disadvantages of cooking as there are relate principally to expense and inconvenience and the loss of vitamins and minerals. In some of the cooking processes the minerals are leached out of the foods. This is true of boiling of meats and most of the processes for canning meats. It is especially true of all methods of cooking vegetables in which any considerable amount of water is added and in which the juices and liquors are discarded. Some minerals are leached out by fats, if there is much dripping of grease during the cooking process.

There are several methods for correcting these faults. The liquors and gravies should be saved and added to the article of which they are leachings; or else they can be served separately, to be used as a dressing for bread, potatoes, and other vegetables. The pot liquors can be eaten with breads, or they can be incorporated with soups. The liquor from meats cooked for canning can be put in the can with the meat or in separate cans of sauce stocks. In the case of potatoes, apples, and such the peel can be baked on the vegetable or fruit.

As a rule the vitamins are heat stable. Cooking neither destroys nor removes them. The instable vitamin is that which prevents scurvy. Even this one withstands certain kinds of cooking. For instance, milk that is quickly evaporated contains most of its antiscorbutic vitamin. On the other hand, cooking for a long time, or in the presence of cooking soda, or where there is much air is highly destructive to this vitamin. If one must get his antiscorbutic vitamin from cooked vegetables he should see to it that they are not cooked with soda nor cooked overlong.

There are a few situations in which the inconvenience and expense of cooking on the spot are disadvantageous. Serving hot lunches in schools is a good illustration. The expense and inconvenience of the school kitchen and school dining room is an unjustifiable load on the taxpayer. It diverts money from education. It has made it impossible for pupils in many schools to get a school lunch. Schools that could easily afford a cold lunch cannot measure up to the requirements of the modern school lunch.

In certain fields the inconvenience and expense of home cooking is being economically met by centralized cooking. Instances are the baking of breads, the canning industries, the making of soups, and the pasteurization of milk.

The dangers due to exposure of the completed product are overcome by the use of sealed cans and bottles and by the use of wrapping.

The customary requirement that food should be carried from the stove to the table was based on a sound hygienic principle. However, it has served to build up certain practices that have some disadvantages. For one thing, it has accustomed us to serve most foods when they are too hot.

IT WILL DO NO HARM.

L. A. L. writes: If T. M. C. and others who, I have noticed, have asked in your column for cure of blisters and itching between the toes, will place a small piece of cotton between toes, they will find relief in a day.

REPLY.

It is never wise to generalize from one case, and yet that is what most people do. The simple procedure doubtless cured you of something. It will harm no one. But it will only go a short distance in curing anything.

AN ONION A DAY.

C. C. writes:

1. Before going to bed I eat onions every night. Will they make my blood rich and strong?

2. Are onions good for strength of body?

REPLY.

1. No.

2. Onion is a good food, but with no special virtues. Does eating onions at bedtime lead to domestic felicity?

CIVIL PROCEEDINGS NECESSARY.

Chicago, July 21.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Mr. "E" is employed by Mr. "H," head of a charitable institution. Under the terms of their contract Mr. "H" is responsible for the operating expenses incurred by Mr. "E." If demand for immediate reimbursement of many months of expenses paid out by "E" are made and "H" should say there is no money with which to pay them [because "H" has appropriated it]—[1] is Mr. "H" liable to prosecution on a charge of embezzlement? 2. Hasn't "H" by withholding expense money made himself liable for that part of "E's" salary which he might reasonably otherwise have raised? 3. If "H" should deliberately make appeals for funds [by mail] to complete a specific cash quota is "H" liable to prosecution for raising money under false pretenses and using the mails to defraud? J. E.

1. No. We would consider it a case for civil proceedings.

2. It seems possible. We cannot advise to advantage without having the wording of the contract before us.

3. Yes, on the exact facts that you state, but it seems probable that the facts would not be so clear cut.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

TRAMP HAVEN.

Chicago, July 14. — [Friend of the People.]—There is a vacant lot in the 5000 block in Armitage avenue which is being used as a dumping ground for garbage. Next to this lot is a dilapidated building which has been on fire twice within the last month, and which is used for a meeting place by tramps. Can't something be done to correct this condition? H. R. W.

Owner of dilapidated building has been notified to put building in good safe condition or wreck. JOHN E. ERICSSON, Commissioner of Buildings.

MUST BE FIFTEEN.

Chicago, July 21.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Would you kindly advise me if a boy fifteen years old can drive his parents' car alone? If not, under what conditions can he drive it? W. K.

Section 31 of the motor vehicle law is as follows: "No person shall operate or drive a motor vehicle who is under fifteen years of age, unless such person is accompanied by a duly licensed chauffeur or the owner of the motor vehicle being operated." This state law supersedes city ordinances on the same subject matter.

PICTURES OF GOV. ROOSEVELT and Al Smith photographed standing jovially side by side and the superfluous hint that one of them will probably be the standard bearer of the Unterrified Democracy next year brings back a brand new thought. Why not have 'em both on the ticket—one for President and the other for Vice President? But which one should be the head of the ticket and which one the tail we would rather not say. We have trouble enough as it is.

WE'RE ALL MIXED UP AGAIN! We used to think that the happiest thing that could happen to the farmer was a bumper crop, but after reading the farm board's appeals to cut the crops down all they can and then some, we believe that this subject ought to be debated by those weird people who still think something is gained by presenting both sides of the question. On your mark! "Resolved, That practically no crop at all is better for the farmer than a bumper crop." There you are. Go to it!

THE HIGH SCHOOL BOARD of Franklin, Pa., has given the gate to A Socialized History of the United States, by Vannest & Smith, because—oh, look—"President John Adams always drank a large tankard of cider every morning before breakfast—nearly all the colonists drank strong liquor." We expect to read today that the Statue of Liberty refused that long needed bath she was about to take and said all she wanted to do was to jump into the Atlantic ocean and walk east till her hat floated.

THE NIGHT IS OURS.

All the long day within the busy mart
You give yourself to others—
But the night is ours;
The night is ours for beauty—
Heart to heart.

The day may claim you; but when day is done,
We close the door and leave the world outside—
Its service, strife and conquest, and its pride;
The cares they bring.
The day is pillaged by the world, but night
Is ours—my king.

O long, sweet silences—when darkness drifts
About us both; when we are loth
To share the glory of the hour
Of this communion.
When you whisper low and sweet
(It seems more thought than sound)
That life was barren—incomplete—
Until you found
My heart, my arms to fold you round,
I know life has no more to give;
It is replete.

So, let who may,
Take what they must of your dear life
From day to day.
You cannot give me all your days;
Save vagrant hours here and there,
They go their ways.
But when you leave the haggard mart
With its gaunt towers,
The drifting shadows bring you back—
The night is ours!

O, day may claim you in the busy mart,
But night is ours, for beauty—
Heart to heart.

What's the use! If they capture fifty genuine, bona fide, A1, label blown in the bottle, certified, acid proof missing links and exhibit them in every hamlet and town in Arkansas, Tennessee, and Mississippi, and a good many in Illinois as well, what of it? THE YORKTOWN sesqui-centennial committee that decided to omit the pageant of the surrender of Lord Cornwallis to our George Washington because the state department was afraid it might hurt the feelings of the British are going to meet tomorrow and discuss the thing all over again. We have already suggested one way of having the pageant of the surrender so that the British wouldn't get sore, but our idea didn't seem to go over very well. All right, here's another way to do it. Have Charlie Chaplin represent Cornwallis, and instead of surrendering his sword to Washington, which would be making the British remember something they've been a hundred and fifty years trying to forget, reach down towards his belt as if to take hold of his sword. When George says, "Cornwallis, gimme that sword and make it snappy," then Charlie as Cornwallis steps back and smacks him with the custard pie. That would give everybody a good laugh, and while the British would protest that Cornwallis never ate custard pie and wouldn't have carried one around in his pocket, still the comedy element would have taken the sting out of the incident and everybody would be happy. Especially the state department.

YESTERDAY'S NEWSPAPERS told of a housewife in New York being arrested by the police for having three quarts of wine in her home. If any public buildings were dedicated yesterday we hope that item was carefully torn out of the newspapers laid in the corner stones. Talk about your most embarrassing moment! Gosh!

RIGHT IN THEIR MITT, BUT—

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JULY 28, 1915.

CHICAGO.—Half a dozen indictments of persons concerned in the ownership, operation, and inspection of the Eastland will be voted by the Cook county grand jury, perhaps by 6 o'clock tonight. This announcement is by authority of State's Attorney Hoyne, who made the statement at midnight following a shirt sleeve session of the coroner's jury in the county building. The indictments, it was said, will charge either manslaughter or conspiracy to overload the boat, the lesser charge being the more probable. At midnight Walter K. Greenebaum, general manager of the Indiana Transportation company, which chartered the Eastland, had been taken into custody. George W. Munger, purser of the Eastland, who has been missing, also was taken, in company with Martin Flatow, general agent of the St. Joseph-Chicago Steamship company, which owns the Eastland. Capt. Harry Pedersen of the Eastland and Joseph M. Erickson, chief engineer, were warned by State's Attorney Hoyne and Coroner Hoffman before the coroner's jury that their testimony might jeopardize their liberty.

CHICAGO.—The relief fund for sufferers from the Eastland disaster grew yesterday to $217,402, which amount is exclusive of the $100,000 fund provided by the Western Electric company. The list of identified dead now numbers 824; unidentified dead, 5, and the Western Electric company's revised list of missing is numbered at 507, a total of 1,336. Three bodies were found yesterday.

JULY 28, 1901.

NEW YORK.—President Shaffer and Secretary Williams of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin workers arrived in this city and went into conference on the steel strike situation with J. Pierpont Morgan, President Schwab of the United States Steel corporation, and Judge E. H. Gary, chairman of the executive committee of the trust. At the conclusion of the conference an official of one of the steel companies said: "Unless something of an unexpected nature crops out it is reasonably certain that the differences now existing between mill owners and strikers will be adjusted before the end of the month."

CHICAGO.—Woe may be in store for the housewives of Chicago when they return from the gayety of the summer resorts. In the interiors of "closed" houses there is going on the insidious amalgamation of servant girls into "union help." The officers of the Working Women of America have been elected and 300 members have been recruited. It is expected the union will be in full operation within a month. Its scale of wages, as announced yesterday, is as follows: Cooks and housekeepers, $5 to $7 a week; general and second girls, $4 to $5 a week; young and inexperienced girls, $3 to $4 a week.

JULY 28, 1881.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The examinations made by the President's physicians during the last four days seem to have convinced them that the ball did not penetrate the liver, that it is not located in the anterior wall of the abdomen, and that it did not pass through the abdominal cavity, but went downward after it struck the rib and is now located in the right iliac fossa, the cavity between the point of the hip bone and the ribs, which contain the smaller intestines. The President passed a quiet day and there has been no change in his condition. Pulse, 94; temperature, 98.4; respiration, 18.

CHICAGO.—The assessed valuation of Cook county is $23,891,615, being an increase of nearly $1,400,000, as compared with the valuation of last year. The assessment of the South Town is $15,861,360 this year, against $14,783,583 last year. There has been a slight increase in the valuation of the West Town, and a falling off in the valuation of the North Town.

SAN FRANCISCO.—Ex-Gov. Bagley of Michigan died here yesterday, whither he came for the benefit of his health some time ago.

THE SUPPRESSION OF A NEWSPAPER.

Clintonville, Wis., July 22.—Your editorial, "Free Press in Buenos Aires," and the editorial of the day, "Argentina's Crime," published in your issue of July 21, were astounding to me because they denoted a profound ignorance of the character of the paper they were defending and of the government they were decrying. I will venture that neither the author of your article, nor the author of the one in Editor and Publisher ever saw a copy of Critica, and if they did, they could not read it and, therefore, are in no position to constitute themselves as judges.

Critica is a paper that caters to the anarchistic and other radical elements in Argentina; of its alleged 350,000 circulation probably 200,000 is among the above classes and the balance is among people who buy it to see what wild statements it is making. To say that such a paper was of prime influence in placing Gen. Uriburu in the presidential chair is nothing short of ridiculous. Critica is the worst enemy the U. S. A. has in the Argentine press. To read the vituperations it pours out against the Americans, especially on the anniversary of the Sacco-Vanzetti affair, is enough to make any one sick. I am inclined to believe that Uriburu closed it up on account of inciting to revolution and anarchism. I have asked a friend in Buenos Aires to send me some copies of the issues just prior to Uriburu's action and I will be glad to send them to you that you may have them translated and judge for yourself.

To class Argentina as one of those "revoluntionary S. A. republics" is not fair either. Previous to the 6th of last September their last revolution was in 1890. To call the "movement" of last September a revolution is a misnomer. It was a spontaneous uprising of the nation headed by the army [which is composed of conscripts and not professional soldiers and is, therefore, practically civilian] against the most corrupt government in the history of the republic. The Uriburu government found the treasury empty, the country's credit shaky, a deficit of over 400,000,000 pesos and tens of thousands of unnecessary public employés, exchange falling and the world depression in full swing.

Three weeks after his assuming the presidency, Uriburu asked the banks of Buenos Aires for a short time loan of 40,000,000 pesos. Seventeen foreign banks, among them two American ones, offered him 100,000,000 pesos. When a $50,000,000 loan became due in October, 1930, the New York bankers gave him the lowest rate of interest that Argentina had had in sixteen years. If Uriburu's government had been what Editor and Publisher insinuates, this would hardly have occurred.

Only a few weeks ago I was informed by a high official of one of the biggest banks in this country that he had reliable information that the Argentine budget would soon be balanced. In your own newspaper I read a few days ago that the Argentine ambassador had informed Washington that his country had not asked for a moratorium, did not want one and would not accept one if offered; that Argentina was in a position to and would, service as usual their international obligations. This is what Gen. José Francisco Uriburu and his cabinet, a body of men any country could be proud of, did in ten months' time. It is hardly the logical result of a "corrupt" and incompetent government, especially in times like these.

THOUGHTS ON SPECULATION.

Chicago, July 24.—Why is President Hoover so anxious to stop speculation, and what causes him to think short selling is the cause of low prices on wheat? When he was food administrator he was satisfied that speculation was the cause of high prices and fixed a price on foodstuffs. We were then feeding Europe our good food and eating poor substitutes? Does he think it a crime if the unemployed get cheap food now?

Why is he so interested in the farmer, and not at all interested in the city dweller? Did the farmer buy more Liberty bonds until it hurt, and later have to sell them at $35 to get the necessities of life? Who pays the greatest amount into the treasury through taxation?

J. W. FULLER.

ALIENS WITH JOBS.

Chicago, July 23.—Now that we, as a nation, are about to enter the third winter of industrial depression, with its increasing unemployment, investigations should be made into every industry by government officials and employers of labor to ascertain how many employés are American citizens, and those who are not should be discharged and replaced by those who are citizens. All aliens who have been in this country over five years should be deported back to the country of their origin.

UNEMPLOYED CITIZEN.

SCHOOL ECONOMY.

Chicago, July 13.—May an ordinary citizen and tax payer make some suggestions in regard to economy in school management? Why not close the schools during one of the summer months and so save the salary paid to the engineer, assistant engineer, and janitors? Why not have these civil service employés take that month's vacation without pay the same as the members of the faculty? Why should buildings be kept open at such an expense? Surely the cleaning could be done in one month.

German Author Writes About Guns of Kaiser

In Terms of Men Who Were in Artillery.

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

ANOTHER German war book is just off the presses. It is "Higher Command," by Edlef Koeppen [Cape and Smith], and is the story of the experience of a young artilleryman on the western and eastern fronts. Germany already has shown much interest in the book and it is being published in this country for the first time.

Mr. Koeppen employs a unique method of narration. First he gives a picture or series of pictures in terse, staccato, utterly unemotional prose, in the first person, the young gunner being the speaker. Then, with apparently no reason, he gives an excerpt from a German government dispatch, from a statement made by the kaiser, or from an article printed in a German paper. These samples of actual documents, military documents, etc., lighten the realistic atmosphere of the book, make it seem, whether it is or not, absolutely authentic. While they have nothing to do with the characters in the story, while they do not forward the plot in any way, they nevertheless fulfill a purpose.

Sometimes they are used to increase the irony of a situation, as when, for instance, young Reisiger, the chief character, listens to the admonition of a fellow comrade whose philosophy is never to slap Providence in the face. "Now, believe what I say. We all do as we're ordered, but we don't volunteer for anything. We do nothing that we are not told to do. That's the best policy."

Then is inserted one sentence from the German military code, section 1: "Zealous of his noble calling, to defend the Throne and Fatherland, the officer must always display the utmost zeal in the fulfillment of his duty." Of course, the reader's reaction is a wry smile.

Young Adolf Reisiger was a volunteer. He entered the war when he was a schoolboy and served first with the 1st battery of the 96th field artillery regiment and then was made second lieutenant of the 253d reserve field artillery regiment. Quiet, rather shy, extremely modest, with a sensitive, poetic nature, he is akin to the German boy who went through such horrors in Remarque's books, but his end seems more horrible because it lacked the final healing touch of death.

The book follows the war from 1914 to July of 1918 and gives page after page of photographically vivid pictures of the fighting as it progressed in horror from stage to stage, reaching a climax with the advent of poison gas, armored tanks, and the huge clusters of airplanes dropping their death dealing bombs. Then there is the view of Germany behind the lines, where food supplies grew scarcer and scarcer, when weekly rations were cut and cut to the population in the following quantities:

"Two pound of potatoes, 210 grams of sugar, 160 grams of butter, 100 grams of dripping or lard, 80 grams of margarine or synthetic fat, 125 grams of peas, beans or pearl barley, ½ litre of milk, 25 grams of toilet soap, 125 grams of other soap. Fresh meat will be rationed according to its supplies available."

There are scenes in the hospital, where young Reisiger was wounded. One, in particular, stands out. He found himself among Bavarians and when they found he was a Prussian, a strong was their dislike for those with Germans that they refused to speak with him or have anything to do with him. He found himself completely ostracized.

Toward the end of the story you see the gradual collapse of the German morale. Against such terrific odds the weary soldiers stagger, fall, and stagger again. The entrance of the Americans in the war is the beginning of the end for their cause. You see them, in small groups growing mutinous, sick to death of the eternal slaughter, the endless hardships and suffering. Their rest periods grow fewer and fewer; they are harassed on every side by the enemy, on the ground, in the air.

There is one ghastly scene where Reisiger comes on an entire company killed just as the men were about to go over the top in an attack. Each man is found in action and it is not until he sees their stony immobility that he realizes they are all dead. There on the parapet, with one knee on the storming ladder, a white faced Germany was lying; another beside him; a third, a fourth, a fifth, to a hundred; as far as the eye could reach, rows of them side by side. All their heads slightly raised and their hands gripping their rifles. All with their left knees on the last step of the rickety storming ladders. And many of them with a little hole under the helmet, between the eyes, or on the cheek, or near the ear, or in the neck.

"Higher Command" is a powerful book because it is so simple, so unpretentious and so sincere. It will, I think, be classed as one of the most important of contemporary war narratives.

Lake Front Band Concerts Will Begin on Monday, Aug. 10

Public concerts of the Chicago Concert band are to begin Monday, Aug. 10. This was announced yesterday by Arthur Russell, president of the band association, after a meeting held in the Tavern club.

The band has been rehearsing twice a week for the last six weeks at the Auditorium hotel. Prior to the opening in Grant park the band is to have its final rehearsal broadcast. Rosa-linda Morini, coloratura soprano, is to be soloist for the opening concert. The project is being supported by voluntary contributions.

The full band is made up of 72 men and Conductor Victor J. Grabel.

Britain Grabs Indian Editor for Editorial

He Mixed in Politics of Buffer State.

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SIMLA, India, July 27.—The trials and tribulations of newspaper editors in a land where the freedom of the press is unknown were emphasized in Lahore where the editor of a weekly newspaper was brought before the court charged with violating the latest press ordinance.

NADIR SHAH.

This ordinance, promulgated by Lord Irwin just before he relinquished his viceroyalty in April, makes it an offense for a journal to publish anything which might adversely affect the friendly relations between India and neighboring nations.

What Lord Irwin really meant to do by his high handed action was to prevent Mohammedan newspapers in India from conducting propaganda which might lead to the dethronement of the present Afghan king, Nadir Shah, who is Britain's friend, and the enthronement once more of Amanullah, who is not.

So one Murta Ahmad Khan, editor of "Afghanistan," a weekly published in Persian, is on trial for having written an editorial headed: "Why does not the present government in Afghanistan resign?"

Probably many have shared the editor's wonder, but by putting it in writing he brought down upon himself the strong arm of the law, which in this country with its medieval outlook on life has little respect for the press liberties.

The government prosecutor on behalf of the King-Emperor, away off there in London, solemnly alleged that the editorial in question affected the friendly relations between Great Britain and Afghanistan.

The court procedure in India with a case of this kind is strange and perhaps worth recounting.

The accused was called on to file a list of defense witnesses. That he did. He cited among others leading government officials including the foreign secretary, the Afghan consul general, the director of public information, and so on.

Counsel for the editor submitted that these witnesses were very important, because they were in the best position to state how far the friendly relations between Great Britain and Afghanistan had been affected by the editorial asking the Kabul government to resign.

But the magistrate held that these high personages could have no connection with the case and ordered the accused to file a new list of witnesses. The accused wished to move a revision of this decision in the high court and there the matter stood today.

It is practically certain that the editor will get a jail sentence, joining many of his colleagues behind the bars.

To what extent the British government is banking on King Nadir to keep his throne in Kabul is shown by information reaching your correspondent to the effect that a fleet of forty 2-ton trucks left Peshawar, on the British end of the Khyber pass, for Kabul on May 30 with French rifles and ammunition for the king's troops. The guns are French, but they were bought by British money.

Your correspondent is reliably informed that 22,000 rifles and ammunition for a year have been transported through British India in the last seven months to Afghanistan.

The British are backing the new Afghan king with a vengeance. In the meantime the Russians, who dislike Nadir and prefer Amanullah, are biding their time.

Autoists Are Sought to Transport 5,000 Orphans, Aged to Park

A call was issued yesterday by the Orphans' Automobile Day association for volunteers to transport 5,000 orphans and inmates of old people's homes to Lincoln park on Aug. 19 for the annual picnic, and for help in supplying the refreshments, entertainment and toys which each year are the high spots of the festival.

"We have been staging the picnic for twenty-seven years, and this is the first year we have encountered a lack of cars," Arthur Jones, president of the association, said. "We must have at least 1,000 automobiles to transport our guests to the park or some of them are going to be disappointed."

Contributions to provide the entertainment should be sent to the association in care of Charles E. Gregory, 2257 South Michigan avenue. Those wishing to contribute cars should call State 4852. The sponsoring organizations are the Chicago Automobile Trade association, the Chicago Motor club, the Automobile Club of Illinois, the Chicago Motor Liverymen's association, and the Woodlawn Business Men's association.

17th Infantry Veterans Lay Wreath for McKinley

Columbus, O., July 27.—(AP)—A wreath was placed on the monument of the late President William McKinley in the statehouse yard today by veterans of the 17th United States infantry, who opened their annual convention here. The regiment acted as escort for McKinley at his inauguration and had been picked by the late President as one of the best of the regular army at that time.

BRITON URGES YANKEE CHILDREN TO TAKE COSMIC VIEW EARLY

Denver, Colo., July 27.—(AP)—Education of the young in international relations as a means of promoting world peace was stressed today at the opening of the fourth biennial conference of the World Federation of Education associations.

H. N. Penlington of Hemsworth, Yorkshire, England, chairman of the primary schools section, said opinion on the advisability of promoting world peace by beginning instruction in that line in the grammar schools was "keenly divided" in England.

"On the one hand," Mr. Penlington said, "the protagonists of league of nations teaching assert that as we are all anxious to bring about world peace, there can be no surer way of doing so than to actually teach peace and talk peace daily to children of impressionable age.

"On the other hand, another school of thought is equally certain that we shall never bring about the desired end in this way—that league of nations teaching is only one part of history and that to stress any one side is to destroy the perfect balance of the whole—that history as it is taught today on broad, modern, world-wide lines, is bound to do all that league of nations teaching could do, and more."

Siam Royalty Sees New York from the Air

View City from U. S. Navy Dirigible Balloon.

Lakehurst, N. J., July 27.—[Special.]—King Prajadhipok of Siam had "the best time" he "ever had" today.

That was the king's enthusiastic comment when he and Queen Rambaibarni alighted from the navy dirigible Los Angeles at 5:45 p. m., after a seven hour flight in the huge ship over New York and the Atlantic seaboard.

The queen, the first woman to board the Los Angeles as a passenger, was thrilled by the experience and expressed herself in superlatives.

SIAM'S QUEEN.

"It was a wonderful trip," she said. "I shall always remember it."

Both the king and the queen, for whom the navy department shattered its inviolable rule against women as passengers, beamed with gratitude as they climbed down the ladder, their wish for a flight in the ship fulfilled.

Leaving at 10:27 a. m., the Los Angeles was headed straight for New York, circling the city so that the royal pair could get a good view of the metropolis. Then the ship went up the Hudson, swung across to the coast and down the seaboard to Atlantic City and Longport.

By their ascent into the clouds the Siamese rulers did not escape the heat, however.

"It was very warm in the air," the king said, "but the splendor of the sights and the enthusiasm of our party overweighed that."

Their enthusiasm was shared by the eight members of the royal party, which included Mme. Chayant, lady in waiting to the queen, and Mrs. William R. Sayles, wife of Capt. Sayles, naval attaché and the first American woman passenger on the Los Angeles.

"WE HAVE MET THE ENEMY AND THEY ARE OURS"—PERRY

Put-in-Bay, O., July 27.—(AP)—Final plans are being made here for the dedication Friday of a 350-foot marble column memorializing one of the most important victories in the annals of the American navy—the famous combat of Commodore Oliver Hazard Perry's "home-made" fleet against the British on Lake Erie in the war of 1812.

By contrast to the original event, news of which took many weeks to reach the American people, the memorial ceremonies will reach millions Friday by a nation-wide radio broadcast, scheduled to begin at 4:45 p. m.

The dedication is belated for the memorial was completed 15 years ago. Visible for many miles over Lake Erie, it is one of the landmarks of the Ohio shore.

Senator James Hamilton Lewis of Illinois and Gov. George White of Ohio, will speak.

Band and Drummers Trousered the Same, Which Offsets Contest

Clothes may make the man but in this case trousers make the band—and also drum corps.

It's this way. Father John Collins, superintendent of the St. Mary's Training school, Des Plaines, Ill., who is entering both the school drum corps and band in the second Chicagoland Music festival, asks that the two contests be held at different times in order that both units may participate. The band is garbed in white trousers and blue coats; the drum corps in white trousers and white coats—like sailors. Five of the boys in the band are also in the drum corps and there is only one set of trousers. In order to accommodate the two groups the band will be asked to appear first in that contest to be held in Soldiers' field at 10 o'clock Saturday morning, Aug. 22, and the drum corps later in the drum corps contest which is called at the same time in Grant park near the Art institute.

Father Vincent Cook is prefect of the school and Andrew V. Scott, musical director. The band took second place in the juvenile division of the first festival contest. The drum corps was organized last January.

Tom Sawyer Does His Bit for Ice Fund

Austin Kids Make 'Adults Youngsters Again.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

When Mark Twain created his immortal character, Tom Sawyer, he did not dream of the influence that young man would project into succeeding generations. Yesterday came word that Tom Sawyer was responsible for raising money for THE TRIBUNE'S free ice fund.

Out in Austin the other day six children put on a show. They invited the neighborhood parents, who witnessed an enlightening interpretation of the juvenile psychology of Tom Sawyer. The show was a decided success, the children wrote, because they made $2.25 for the ice fund. The letter accompanying the gift included a promise to send more money later. Those taking part were Margaret and Lois Jane Schulz, Suzanne and Harriet Brown, and Adele and Eugene Charpier.

Other children were busy during the last few days earning money for the free ice fund. At 5871 Washington boulevard, wrote Francine Wein, a group of children gave a show which netted the fund $11.30. From the children of Delano school, room 304, came $3.50 for the ice fund.

The hot weather is returning, according to the weather man, and that warning will necessarily have to pass unheeded by tenement families. There isn't much one can do to alleviate suffering when there is no ice nor the chance of getting any. Ice is needed all summer long but never is its need more acute than during the torrid waves when the oppressive heat makes babies sick. A gift to the free ice fund may save a life, for ice secured in time may make a sick baby well by keeping milk fresh and sweet.

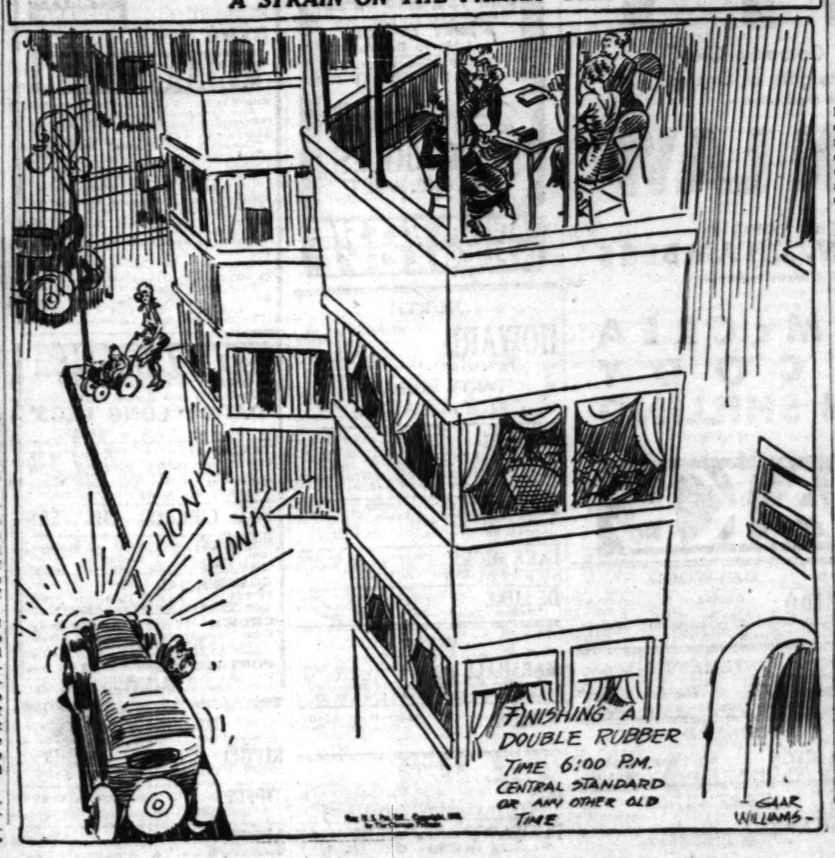
A STRAIN ON THE FAMILY TIE



THE STAGE

A. H. WOODS, known among the player folks of two continents is "Al," for the last thirty years one of the foremost theatrical producers of the United States, "went broke" yesterday, so far as legal records are concerned. A New York judge, after rendering judgment against Mr. Woods for a note in the amount of $5,134, appointed a receiver for his affairs. Gilbert Miller, also internationally known as an impresario, brought the suit.

Mr. Woods was not on hand to defend himself. Mr. Miller's attorney informed the court that Mr. Woods was in Europe; that judgments against him were accumulating, and that he had little money. So the blow fell upon Mr. Woods' unprotected chin, but his Broadway friends believe that he will come up smiling.

"Al" Woods' career as an impresario began back in the era of billboard melodramas. He popularized plays that have become bywords, such as "The Queen of the White Slaves," "Bertha the Sewing Machine Girl," and "Nellie the Beautiful Cloak Model." Then he turned his attention to higher forms of theatrical entertainment. Since 1907 he has been one of the most active play producers in the country—a leader among the Broadway showmen. He has staged a long list of hits, among which the "Potash and Perlmutter" comedies, "Within the Law," "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath," "The Green Hat," "The Shanghai Gesture," and "The Trial of Mary Dugan" may be mentioned.

He has also been a builder and operator of theaters. The Eltinge in New York was his headquarters for many years. He built the Woods in Chicago, and for a number of years has held the lease of the Adelphi. He contributed "Five Star Final," one of the outstanding successes of the year, to Broadway history last winter. This play has been scheduled for an engagement at the Adelphi in the fall.

Alice Brady plans to take a New York theater for the entire season and stage a series of plays there, according to an announcement from her father, the veteran manager, William A. Brady. "Manhattan Nocturne," which she tried out last week, will be rewritten for her use. She is also considering a comedy by St. John Ervine, and a drama called "Lone Valley," by Sophie Treadwell.

Ethel Barrymore began her tour in "The School for Scandal" in Denver last night. She will carry this classic comedy to the Pacific coast and then head eastward, with an engagement in Chicago and a New York run in mind.

"Love's Out of Fashion," first play of the Shuberts' new season, will receive its trial performance in Atlantic City next week. A Broadway premiere is expected in the week of Aug. 17. Walter Woolf will have the leading role, and others in the cast are Verree Teasdale, Leslie Austen and Rudolf Badaloni.

Volpi's $1,000 Price for Night's Singing Rejected in Italy

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, July 27. — Reform of the lyric theater to eliminate from grand opera the kind of showmanship which makes idols of opera singers has been demanded here. It follows an incident between the tenor Lauri Volpi and the Italian Consortium of Lyric Opera.

Volpi will not sing in Italy this year, as the consortium controls all the big opera houses in this country. The row started over a contract the consortium asked Volpi to submit this year. He asked $1,000 nightly, and special billing for each of his performances. Furthermore, he wanted to have control of the list of artists to appear with him. He also demanded that newspapers should carry, at least weekly, special photographs, mentioning him as the greatest living tenor, that he should be exempt from every form of taxation, not be required to appear at rehearsals in stage costume.

The management gave copies of Volpi's tentative contract to the press, which ridiculed it.

This step brought an indignant letter of protest from Volpi today, in which he protested against such publication and declared his terms were not exorbitant. He pointed out that Chaliapin sometimes gets $2,000 nightly for his performances.

Western Reserve College Adds Chicagoan to Staff

Oxford, O., July 27.—(AP)—Three new members were added to the faculty of the Western College for Women at Oxford today, Dr. Ralph K. Hickok, president, announced. They included J. Elliot Janney, University of New York, who becomes assistant professor of philosophy and psychology, and Miss Clara St. John Bliss, University of Chicago, who becomes assistant professor of English.

Muscle Basis of Brain Power, Scientist Says

Blames Neglect of Fact for Nerve Disease.

CANBERRA, Australia, July 27.—(AP)—A young woman who lived "when human beings were still attempting to walk erect and talk articulately" was described by Sir Colin MacKenzie in a lecture to the Australian institute of anatomy today.

Sir Colin, giving the results of scientists' examination of the Jervois skull found near the Jervois range in central Australia, said it was the most primitive and complete human skull ever discovered.

"The Jervois skull," he declared, "bears out the belief that the muscular system by means of which man maintains an erect posture dominates his intellectual system. It shows that all intellectual development has a muscular basis.

"Erect posture is a recent human acquisition and is still in the experimental stage. The Jervois skull teaches the world that we must pay more attention to the factors on which our erect posture depends.

"We mistakenly have neglected the muscular while forcing the intellectual development, with the result that physical and mental illness is increasing all over the world. As soon as one disease, for instance typhoid, is conquered, another, for instance an epidemic of meningitis, springs up.

"The human race appears to be bending under the modern strain. The Jervois skull warns us from the past that we must conserve the muscular system on which intellectual fitness depends."

The Jervois skull consists of a cranium minus the facial portion and lower jaw. Its length is 173 millimeters, or about 6 4-5 inches; its breadth 5 inches, and the width of the forehead 84 millimeters, or about 3 2-5 inches. The back of the skull resembles that of an anthropoid ape.

Dispatches from Melbourne in June said the Jervois skull had been found lying exposed in drifting sand near the Jervois ranges in central Australia. The skull came into the possession of Prof. MacKenzie, director of the Australian Institute of Anatomy.

The skull's brain had a volume half that of the modern European. The chief interest of it lay in this feature and in the thickness of the bones. It was said the specimen was expected to become as famous as the Java and Peking skulls. Sir Colin at the time said the Jervois skull exhibited features similar to those of the famous Peking skull.

He's More Than Doubtful.

LONDON, July 27.—(AP)—George Elliot Smith, professor of anatomy at London university, said tonight he was "more than skeptical" of the correctness of the deductions credited to Sir Colin MacKenzie on the subject of the "Jervois skull," made at the Australian institute of anatomy.

"No anatomist would dare to make such deductions from a single skull," Prof. Smith said.

He said he believed the "Jervois skull" was merely that of an Australian native with primitive characteristics.

Doctors Meet in Mexico.

MEXICO CITY, July 27. — (AP) — Close international cooperation to prevent the spread of yellow fever and to contribute toward eventually stamping it out was urged today by Hugh S. Cumming, surgeon general of the United States public health department, in a paper read before the third congress of the Pan-American Medical association.

The paper was read by Dr. Bolivar J. Lloyd, who acted as representative for Surgeon General Cumming at the congress.

With new means of communication, the surgeon general said, yellow fever is likely to appear in places where it was not before known and it is necessary for every nation to keep a close watch for outbreaks and to report them immediately to other nations.

Dr. Charles Mayo of Rochester, Minn., speaking on international medical relations, recommended a greater exchange of information between doctors of divers countries in order to develop "a cosmopolitan medical system, embodying the best points of the present individual system."

Prefers Radium for Cancer.

PARIS, July 27.—(AP)—Prof. Gosta Forsell of Stockholm, speaking before the third international congress on radiology at the Sorbonne today, declared that "the knife can cure only ten per cent of cancer victims."

Ninety per cent of cancer sufferers need other treatment, he said, and in some of these cases, which would otherwise be without hope, permanent cures are obtained by radiology. Those permanent cures may be effective in about ten per cent of cases, he said, while in another fifteen or twenty per cent complete disappearance of symptoms indicating at least a retarding of the disease, is obtainable and in fifty per cent of all cancer cases radiology is found helpful.

An operation, he said, still is the favorite method in twelve per cent of cancer cases, but he predicted a decreasing use of the knife. He admitted, however, that radiology is not useful in many cases of internal tumors.

Prof. Forsell advocated intensive propaganda among doctors, dentists, and nurses working with local clinics, but less effort to instruct the general public.

Widow Seeking Man's Friendship Wants No Binding Marital Ties

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Will you tell me if you have ever heard of a mere friendship between a widow and a widower that did not end in marriage being successful?

"I am a widow, forty years old. I had a very devoted husband and do not wish to remarry, but I like shows, dancing, bridge, golf, etc., and due to depending upon my husband's companionship for 22 years I am hesitant about going out alone. So, I would like the widower's companionship without having marriage enter into the calculations. M. C."

It probably can be done, and it is done. But isn't there usually the shadow of another woman in the background? The woman who is angling for the widower? If they are desirable companions, these widowers are being tracked as the most desirable of mature matrimonial game. So, that's one pressure working against the platonic ideal.

Then, there's the usual difference between the ability of a widow in funds to get along without a man and the disinclination of the average widower to live alone.

Also, there is the most important element of all in the fact that devotion of the holding variety involves more than platonic relationships offer. That is, where the case evolves around a man and a woman. Here, you are running into an entirely different set of emotions than is experienced in other kind of friendship.

Two people of opposite sex, thrown together constantly in the pursuit of the same diversions, the same interests, the same community group, have to be a rare pair, indeed, to escape the conventional marriage knot eventually.

I haven't a doubt that many widows, whose earlier love life was happy, are content to let marriage experience rest with the one venture. Probably that is why some of them take on youths of the gigolo variety—just to avoid marriage complications.

But I think the truth is that to the end of one's days, one has to pay in one way or another for the pleasures one gets out of life.

Even the widow finds that she must bow to the conventions, so to speak, in return for the steady, devoted companionship of a male. Unless, of course, she finds a widower who also is willing to ride along single-handed for the rest of his life.

Brown and White Are Featured for Evening

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS. — [Special.] — Brown and white have worked their way from sports styles to evening clothes this summer. At the Château de Madrid, Armenonville, the Ritz, Ciro's, and everywhere in Paris brown and white dine and dance in fashionable society. Never does one see brown alone, but always with white. They're inseparable, and together they're stunning. It looks like this combination would be a serious rival to the black and white that has been every woman's short cut to chic this long time.

Brown with white, and white with brown, look on occasion, girlish, which is something that black and white can never achieve, and there are a lot of ladies in the hectic and colorful society of Paris who are going in for being girlish this summer.

Brown and white also suit the fashionable idea of being discreetly dressed for public pleasures. Many a woman, with a reputation for international chic to keep up, may be seen in public places wearing a brown, or a brown and white printed chiffon frock and a tiny jacket, or long silk coat of white silk or velvet. The effect, girls, is ravishing, for the brown is chosen under electric light, and is usually a warm golden brown or a dark, winy brown. With it is worn a white wrap that is made of a chalky, opaque fabric. The rule seems to be transparency for brown and non-transparency for white.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Doubly Offensive.

"Dear Miss Blake: The fellow I love took me to a party, but as he was drinking all evening he didn't take me home. Does he love me?

"WONDERING."

From his actions I would say no. He is guilty of two serious offenses.

U. of Illinois Opens Way for Specialists in Law

Urbana, Ill., July 27.—[Special.]—Law school students at the University of Illinois may specialize as well as take general law courses, Dean Albert J. Harno has announced.

"In the new program, a student either may qualify for general practice or specialization," the dean said.

"Law schools," he added, "are meeting problems similar to those which the medical schools faced years ago.

"Many can remember the time when the general medical practitioner performed various functions from pulling teeth to testing eyes."

Summer Is Easiest Time to Keep That Silhouette in Trim

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

How's the silhouette behaving these days? Plumping—or lean-ing?

In the lazy days, it does one thing or the other, as a rule. You either loaf on a few extras or you use the crisp salad days to whittle down the rough edges.

If there are parts to be whittled down, you are missing the best season of the year for said whittling. Fat comes off more easily in the hot weather than in the cool. Chiefly because you do not go in heavily for the rich, high caloried meals of cold weather consumption.

Reducing women are a specia all their own. An acquaintance of mine talks reducing — as what acquaintance doesn't—but this one of mine has gone to a doctor to have him tell her what to do. He's a good doctor, so must have set her right. But she confesses to a terrific after-swimming appetite for hot dogs, ice cream and bonbons. And she swims in the morning and afternoon. She abides by the doctor's rules only at the table. Comical, that! It's not the way to a lean and hungry stylish look!

Now, the good doctors are telling us that 10 per cent over our normal weight is hitting the danger line. They're talking from the health angle. From the beauty angle, the average woman feels herself completely enmeshed in the danger zone with five pounds extra. Five pounds, unless it is carefully distributed over the body, can add a pretty plump tire around the middle.

The usual standard chart in which height, age, and weight are given is, as a rule, a generous chart. Your normal weight, as it is chart registered, doesn't give you the starving Armenian lack of curve. It gives you a nice girlish curve. So that if you go 10 per cent over that your girlishness is like to be lost in a web of middle-aged evidence.

You might do a little looking into this 10 per cent overweight for your health's sake and, I should say, a less han 5 per cent mark for your beauty's sake. In fact, any weight over your normal standard is not necessary. If you are over, use the balance of the same season now for getting back in shape.

FARM AND GARDEN

BY PAUL POTTER.

SEED LAWNS IN FALL.

More certain will be the growth of a new lawn if it is started and seeded early this fall at about the beginning of the usual fall rains. Grasses make their best growth in cool weather and early fall permits them to develop a deep root growth and be ready to withstand the winter.

This advice comes from S. W. Decker of the floricultural division of the college of agriculture, University of Illinois. It answers the questions of many amateur home gardeners who wonder at what time of year it would be best to start lawn making. He sets Oct. 10 as the limit for Illinois as a whole, after which seeding is not recommended.

In discussing grass-seed Prof. Decker recommends blue grass for at least 50 per cent of the seed mixture. Although fescue grass has been widely used in recent years in developing portions of the lawn that are handicapped by shade, he suggests rough stalked meadow grass, as it is similar in blade and color to blue grass, whereas fescue is somewhat yellowish green and is tufted.

Fancy redtop grows well in most moist soils and often comprises 10 per cent of the seed mixture. For enabling a quick start to the lawn, English rye or Italian rye grass is recommended as a "nurse" crop, as bluegrass does not make a good lawn before the second or third year.

White clover can be used. Yet this is sometimes objectionable because it is blamed for the grass stains on clothes and shoes. Seeding rates vary but Decker says that one pound of grass seed mixture should be seeded to 50 square feet of lawn. Rolling and then raking lightly before seeding and then rolling again to press the seeds into contact with the soil are good practices. When seeding it is suggested that half of the seed be broadcast one way and the other half sown by broadcasting at right angles to the first.

Extra Care Must Be Taken with Baby's Food When Traveling

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Suggestions issued by the Children's Bureau for traveling with the baby were given yesterday in this column. There was not space for the advice on foods, which follows today and which concerns the bottle-fed baby.

"Boil all milk used for the baby.

"Remember that the baby's bottle must be boiled before it is filled. Either boil and stopper enough empty bottles at home to last the whole journey, or else make arrangements with the porter or steward to have the bottles boiled daily in the dining car or steamer kitchen.

"Use dried or evaporated milk for a long trip. Just before each feeding time mix the dried or evaporated milk with boiling water, and then bring the mixture to a boil again. Carry a traveling stove for the purpose.

"For a short trip carry with you a vacuum bottle full of cold boiled milk or milk mixture. Clean, scald, and cool the vacuum bottle before putting the milk into it. Boil the milk or milk mixture, chill it thoroughly and fill the vacuum bottle. Do not put warm milk into the vacuum bottle, as it may sour. Do not use milk from a vacuum bottle after 24 hours.

"When milk is carried in a vacuum bottle, it must be warmed for the baby. At each feeding time, fill a nursing bottle and warm it in a pitcher of hot water.

"To avoid filling bottles on a short trip, carry a large vacuum bottle holding small feeding bottle filled, stoppered, and wrapped in cotton. Chill the whole thing thoroughly before closing the vacuum bottle. If traveling in a day coach or automobile carry also a vacuum bottle filled with hot water for heating the feeding bottles."

For people who can afford it, we might add a few brief suggestions to those of the Children's Bureau. Some of the important diary companies have milk laboratories which can supply specially prepared modified milk ice packed for traveling.

Another suggestion for a very short trip is to prepare your modified milk, pasteurize it and pack it yourself in ice. You can watch the ice and get a fresh supply when it melts. It is always a good plan to see the baby's doctor if there is a possibility of needing to change the baby's food for the journey—a very important matter in baby care.

Chicagoan Buys Books Arnold Bennett Owned

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, July 27.—What was described as the "personal library" of the late novelist, Arnold Bennett, 9,000 volumes, realized a total of $7,580 at Sothebys today, the bidders including some of the author's friends, while many lots fell to Mrs. Bennett personally.

A decided drop in book values in the last year is indicated by the fact that the highest price of $145 was paid by Walter Hill of Chicago for a presentation copy of Joseph Conrad's "Chance," with an inscription by the author to Bennett. A year or two ago such a volume would have sold for at least three times that amount.

FLOWER OF THORNS

By Marie Conway Oemler

SYNOPSIS.

Sally Rutherford, the last of a proud old southern family, following the ruin and death of her grandfather, determines to keep the heavily mortgaged Oakleigh plantation for her grandmother. She opens a hot dog stand on the Dixie highway. The estate of Greenoaks, of carpetbagging stock, adjoins Oakleigh. Henry Winstead holds the Oakleigh mortgage. His only son, Sam, is a great help to Sally, although she doesn't know his real identity until the stand is successfully started. Sally falls in love with Lowndes Greenoak and believes herself to be his promised wife. Sam forces Lowndes to admit, in front of Sally, that he is engaged to the wealthy Gertrude Reinert. Sam asks Sally to marry him, although he knows she doesn't love him.

INSTALLMENT XX.

A PROMISE TO MARRY.

"Mr. Sam Winstead? Miss Rutherford speaking."

"Yes, Miss Rutherford?" It wasn't a business voice now.

"You might stop by the Shack—if you're passing that way."

"Thank you," said he. "I'll be over at once."

Within ten minutes she saw him standing in her door—the tall young man in khaki, like a uniform.

"You said I was to consider . . . what you said to me last night . . . very carefully," Sally said presently. "You yourself have had a whole night to consider it. Before I say anything, will you please tell me if—if you are still of the same mind?"

"You may believe I meant exactly what I said, that I was, and am, in deadly earnest. I was never more in earnest in my life. I don't need a night . . . or a year . . . or a lifetime . . . to make me sure. I am so sure of myself that I repeat the offer. And again I ask you to consider it carefully."

"You are quite sure that you mean it now as you meant it last night, when you offered to give me your name?"

"I am asking you to be my wife."

"I accept," said she, gallantly. "But you understand that I do not love you as I should? I—I can't."

"Yes! I understand, Sally," said he directly. "But I shall be between you and the world. You will no longer be subject to . . . the things that befall defenseless girls."

"You mean that if I'd still been a wealthy girl I shouldn't have been . . . safe? No, I don't think I should. But perhaps I might have married a man capable of such behavior, a man unworthy of respect. At least I've been spared that! But I beg you to believe that my decision isn't made solely on account of Lowndes. It is because of Grandmamma, because of Oakleigh." And she told him what had happened last night.

He listened without interruption. "I could not, I would not have asked

"I accept," said she, gallantly.

you if you didn't happen to—to matter to me personally," he said after a pause. "But you do. You outweigh all other considerations." He thought briefly for a moment. "I care enough for you, Sally, to point out yet another way. A probable way, for the time being."

"Another way?" she stared at him.

"Rent Oakleigh, if you wish, during your grandmother's lifetime. That, at least, will leave you free," he suggested.

"It would have to go, sooner or later."

"The interest could be—ah—reduced," he said after a pause. "The place might have to be sold eventually."

But she shook her head positively: "No."

"You love the place so much, Sally?"

"Grandpapa brought Grandmamma there a bride. He was born there. His father was born there. My father was born there, in the same room Grandmamma is in today. I, too, was born there. I spent my childhood there. It is—it is home. The Rutherfords. All of us. If it goes—we all go with it. I lose them all. I would not want to live." She spread out her hands. He looked at her for a long time without speaking. Then he said, in a queer, hoarse voice:

"Are you willing to—to sacrifice yourself for Oakleigh?"

"Am I worth that much?" said she, with a faint smile.

Without waiting for an answer, she asked a more pertinent question:

"Did you know I was at that house last night?"

"No. But I was not surprised when I saw you there. Only angry."

"Why did you come?"

"I had a few things to say to him."

"But you didn't have a chance to say anything."

He smiled. "I didn't have to. He let you see what he was. He had been engaged to Gertrude Reinert for some time."

"You really came on my account?" she asked surprisedly.

"I might have gone on her's. But I hardly think I should have found it necessary," he said grimly.

"You meant to expose him?"

"But not to Miss Reinert," he told her. "I rather like the Reinerts, myself, and the girl is a fine girl, but she can take care of herself. And of her jealous fiancé, too. She wants him: why shouldn't she have him?"

"I thought I wanted him," said Sally, in a low voice. "And you really want to marry me, after all? When you know about . . . Lowndes . . . Grandmamma . . . Oakleigh . . . ?"

"We have disposed of Mr. Jennings, I think. I expect Mrs. Rutherford of Oakleigh to become my peculiarly welcome care, since they lie so close to your heart. Yes, Sally, I still desire you to marry me."

"Very well, Mr. Winstead. I will marry you," she heard herself saying. "I do not think you will regret it, Sally. I will try to make you happy. Count on it. You will never regret trusting yourself—and your grandmother—and Oakleigh—into my hands."

"I—I feel that. Honestly, Mr. Winstead, I feel that," said she sincerely. "I know you are generous, I believe you are kind. Would you—would you like the announcement made at once, please?"

"I think it would be better. By the way, you'd better begin to call me Sam."

"If you like, Sam, then," said she submissively. Well, why not? Wasn't she going to marry him? "Could you come this afternoon and meet Grandmamma? The announcement will have to come from her, you see."

"Will 5 o'clock do?"

"Come at 5, then. And Mr. Winstead—Sam—I—I will try to—to play fair. To keep my part of the bargain," she told him.

Sally had her lunch in the shop as usual, and afterward she walked home through the mile long oak avenue.

She went upstairs to her own room and made the necessary changes in her toilette, for Grandmamma's benefit. This afternoon she put on one of last year's frocks, yellow crêpe de chine. It lent her pale skin a pearly tinge. Her appearance did not betray her inward conflict; she appeared composed, as conscious of her emotions; and she felt satisfied that her composure would not desert her. Braced thus, she went in to break her astonishing news to her grandmother.

"Dear Grandmamma, I've got a piece of news for you," she said hesitatingly. "I'm engaged, Grandmamma, to Mr. Winstead."

"Engaged! To Mr. Winstead!" Grandmamma turned an astounded face. "Yes, dear. Mr. Sam Winstead. And he wants it to be soon."

"But, Sally—My dear—Why Sally, I don't know the young man! You—you've never mentioned him to me—and now you tell me you're engaged!"

"It is rather sudden," admitted Sally. "But . . . I've promised to marry Mr. Winstead, darling. And he wants it to be soon. And he's coming to see you about it this afternoon."

"Tell me all about it, Sally!" cried the old lady, excitedly.

"There isn't much to tell, really, darling. I have known . . . Sam . . . ever since I came home from school, dear. And I've promised to marry him. He is . . . I mean, everybody likes him and speaks well of him, Grandmamma. He is coming to see you this afternoon, and you can judge for yourself. I feel sure you'll like him."

"Is he good looking?"

"I think so, darling."

"Naturally you do!" Do you love him very much, dear Sally?"

"I have promised to marry him, Grandmamma," said Sally.

"And I have no doubt he is very much in love with you, my darling. How could he fail to be?"

Mrs. Rutherford regarded her granddaughter with serene, mild eyes.

"I'm sure I shall like the young man," she said confidently. "Now make the most of your best, Sally. I must make a particularly fine appearance for your young man! To think of my little Sally an engaged young lady!" So Sally made her look her best," and flung the lacy shawl around the frail shoulders. The colonel's old wife among her pillows resembled a rare and fragile bit of old Dresden.

That's exactly what Sam Winstead thought when presently he was shown in and presented to her. The most beautiful old lady he had ever seen looked up at him with a pair of tender, innocent, candid hazel eyes, and he found himself clasping a tiny fragile hand on which the wedding ring hung loose. The kind blue eyes met her searching gaze reassuringly. She said unexpectedly, with a glad smile:

"Your eyes are as clear as Rupert's—and if you've ever seen Colonel Rutherford, you'll know he's got the clearest eyes in the world." She gave his hand a gentle pressure. The old lady had taken an instant liking to him, and her heart felt at peace.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Talkie Interrupted Slumber.

I am one of those old fashioned people who go to the silent movies to take a nap. As there are no silent movies left in our neighborhood I had gone to a talkie, and had fallen asleep. My slumber was interrupted by loud music. Annoyed, I shouted, "Turn that radio off."

Imagine my embarrassment when my hurried exit from the theater was accompanied by laughter and ridicule from those who had heard me. M. H.

Emily Otis Sets Wedding Date, Sept. 5

BY THALIA——.

No wonder Miss Emily Otis, the Joseph R. Otises' daughter, has been making frequent trips lately down from the Otises' Birchwood farm at Harbor Springs, Mich. She and Nathaniel A. Owings, to whom her engagement was announced the early part of this month, have set Sept. 5 as the date for their marriage, and so there have been all sorts of things, such as fittings, house-hunting, and all the other prewedding details to be attended to.

The wedding is to take place at Harbor Springs, Mich., and will, I should imagine, be an outdoor one. The wedding party is to be small, including only Mrs. Alfred McCormack of New York [the former Winnie Smith in whose wedding Miss Otis was maid of honor a year or so ago] and Miss Marie Smith as the bride's attendants, and Louis Skidmore and Harold Wade for Mr. Owings. There are many Chicagoans at Harbor Springs. There the Otis family has spent its summers for many years, and also at the nearby summer places, Harbor Point and Charlevoix, so the guest list probably will be almost as sizeable as it would be were the wedding in Chicago.

During her quick trips the bride-to-be has found time to look for her future domicile, and she and Mr. Owings have decided on an apartment at 113 East Delaware place.

Lake Foresters to Watch Golfing at Onwentsia.

The qualifying round of trials (for this district) for the national amateur golf championship is to be played off today at Onwentsia, with 131 contestants entered for the play. There will probably be a lot of Lake Foresters in the gallery, as Dexter Cummings, "Rudy" Knepper, and Robert A. Gardner are among the players entered. The national amateur is to begin on Aug. 31 at the Beverly Hills Country club.

Several Ways of Meeting Current Economic Conditions.

The way people can get along without things if they have to! Many and varied are the economies being practiced by rich poor people this season. There's no simulation to it, either. Anybody will tell you practically his exact financial status or lack of it, and everybody moans about how hard up they are.

One man told me that he was taking his whole family to Europe, because it was cheaper to live over there than to open and run his estate in California, and a prominent matron took her children to Europe in "student third" on one of the big liners. Standing on the platform at Lake Forest, waiting for the 5 o'clock train, you see any number of big business men being chauffeured to the train in shiny new flivvers, whereas a couple of years ago there were only grand and impressive big motors. The young stock and bond salesmen who were occupying swanky bachelor apartments are finding lowlier quarters and are accepting summer invitations only to nearby places.

Imogene Edna Bucklin's Debut Is Set for October 31.

Mr. and Mrs. Vail Rhodes Bucklin of 1415 Astor street are to "bring out" [funny expression that, isn't it?] their daughter, Imogene Edna, this winter. They and the aunt and uncle of the bud-to-be, Dr. and Mrs. George F. Fiske, are to present Miss Imogene at a tea at the Bucklin residence on Oct. 31. There will be a dinner-dance for the debutante during the holidays, but the date for that is as yet uncertain.

What's and Whereabouts—The De Forest Hulburds and their youngsters are up at Trout Lake in Wisconsin for the rest of the summer, and Mrs. Hulburd's parents, the Gustav Heserts, are occupying their Lake Forest residence during their absence . . . Mr. and Mrs. John F. Downing of Kansas City are going to pay their son-in-law and daughter, the George Leonidovitch Artamanoffs, a visit here this week-end on their way (by motor) to their summer place on Long Island . . . Miss Frances Richardson, the Ralph R. Richardsons' daughter, hasn't yet completed the list of bridesmaids for her marriage on August 31 to Mick Crawford. (The wedding is to be a small one, and is to take place at the Trinity Episcopal church in Wheaton, with a reception following at the Richardsons' Wheaton place, but there are to be 6 or 7 bridesmaids and a like number of ushers) . . . Mrs. Graham Aldis had a tea one day last week for the students enrolled in the Foundation of Landscape Architecture at Lake Forest . . . Mr. Edward I. Cudahy is listed among the passengers on the S. S. Majestic which is to land in New York today.

And more—the Albert Deweys Jr. and the "Flip" Mahers are to sail on the Vulcania on Thursday for an enchanting sounding European trip. (They plan to go to the Riviera and will motor to Vienna) . . . Ex-Governor Frank O. Lowden and his daughter, Miss Florence Lowden, have opened the Lowden place at Castle Rest in the Thousand Islands.

Patterns by Clotilde

(Registered U. S. Patent Office.)

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

Plaided novelty linen in yellow and brown was used in the model shown here, with plain yellow for the vestee. The bodice is cut in a deep V shape at the front, which is a generally becoming detail, and the downward pointed skirt seaming narrows the hips and is length giving.

The pattern, 3178, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years, and 36, 38, 40, 42, and 44 inches bust measure. Size 38 requires 3¼ yards of 39 inch material with ¼ yard of 35 inch contrasting.

Movie Gossip from Hollywood

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., July 27.—"The Age of Love," which is Howard Hughes' gesture for Billie Dove, the girl whom he was going to marry [but not now], supplies her a lavish return after her year away from the sets.

Not only is Hughes surrounding Miss Dove with a supporting cast of present and past headliners, giving her Frank Lloyd to direct, but he opened the bankroll for settings and costumes, saying he didn't want anything stinted. Two songs, the choice of more than thirty offerings, are introduced. One of the survivors is "Blushing," by Rogg Bound and Ferdinand Blessler, to be sung by Edna Heard, colored. The other is "Bubbling Over with Love," by Alfred Newman, and is to be played by full orchestra with Newman conducting.

To get a background for a penthouse sequence, Hughes expended $5,000 to $10,000 to build a miniature skyline of New York. The skyscrapers are reduced to scale and lighted up, with miniature people walking about. Elevators seem to ascend and descend, by a mechanical device. It's effective, but so costly that only Hughes, who gets his financial backing from oil fields he inherited in Oklahoma and Texas, could afford to toy with such ideas.

Miss Dove who was permitting her hair to gray naturally [and gray hair on Billie Dove merely added to her striking attractiveness] has now redone it a glossy deep brown.

Three feature length films and thirteen two reelers in color will be made for the American market by Orient-Pacific Pictures corporation, under contracts just signed. The films will be made in Shanghai by mixed Chinese and European casts and released here by RKO.

Anna May Wong's full name is Wong Lu Tsong. In Chinese it means "frosted yellow willows."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, July 27.—Cardinal Laurenti presented Miss Ramona Hayes of Chicago a special medal commemorative of the 1931 Little Flower pilgrimage to Rome, following a special audience granted by Pope Pius to twenty-eight Chicago pilgrims, headed by her. Medals of St. Theresa were also given each pilgrim. The pontiff made a short address to the Chicagoans, welcoming them to Rome and saying he was always glad to see Americans, whose visits he especially appreciated because they came so far.

Later the Chicagoans were received by Cardinal Laurenti, who showed them over his palace. They were also received at the international college of St. Albert and by the Carmelite fathers here.

In France they visited the shrine of St. Theresa, of Infant Jesus and Lourdes. They will return by way of Ireland.

More News About Sally's Movie Party Set for August 6

BY SALLY JOY-BROWN.

Here's more news about our party at the Oriental theater on Thursday, Aug. 6, boys and girls. In addition to the picture, "Newly Rich," with Mitzie Green and Jackie Searl, there will be a marvelous stage show headed by Al Kvale and his orchestra and we will see Alice White, the famous movie star, in person. Yes, she's to be at the Oriental that week, too, in a singing and dancing number and there's an excellent chance that we may actually meet her. Wouldn't that be thrilling?

The picture sounds like a riotously funny one, too, and it's just the kind that you'll all enjoy. In it, we will follow the adventures and activities of two families who have advanced from the lowly stage of poverty to that of fabulous wealth because the young son and daughter, played by Mitzie and Jackie, have become famous on the screen.

There's much rivalry between these families and they get into all kinds of scrapes trying to outdo each other. They travel to London to meet the boy king of Slovario which is the beginning of a series of exciting adventures of Mitzie and Jackie, not the least of which is a kidnaping. You'll be in a constant state of hilarity watching these movie families in their climb to fame and, as usual, Mitzie and Jackie Searl are just superb.

Doesn't all this sound like material for a rollicking good party? Indeed it does and if you'd like to be invited to it, you had better begin composing a winning letter—one that will make me know you are anxious to attend. Every boy and girl who likes a good time is an eligible guest to this celebration at the Oriental theater on Aug. 6 and the only requirement is that he or she write a winning letter. I shall send invitations to the hundred writers who sound most anxious to attend.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., July 27.—[Special.]—The Italian ambassador, Nolle Giacomo de Martino, gave a dinner tonight in honor of Prof. Villari of Italy, who is in this country to lecture on the economic conditions of Italy, at the Institute of Politics at Williamstown, Mass.

All of society remaining in town were to be found in the beautiful Aztec gardens of the Pan-American Union building this evening when Dr. Lee S. Rowe, director general of the union, had a large company for an al fresco concert of Latin-American music. The United States army band played, assisted by Señorita Consuelo Garcia Garza, lyric soprano of Mexico, and Señor Leopoldo Gutierrez, Chilean baritone.

Miss Laura Harlan and her sister, Miss Ruth Harlan, daughters of the late Justice John M. Harlan, have gone to Murray Bay, Canada, where their father was among the first Washingtonians to build a summer home.

MRS. GLEN O. BURGER.

[Russell Photo.]

Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Ward of 953 North Springfield avenue announce the recent marriage of their daughter, Margaret Mary, to Glen O. Burger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Max F. Burger of 5920 West Huron street. Mr. and Mrs. Burger are to reside at 5920 West Huron street for the present.

Flyers Attend Wedding in Washington After Meeting

Washington, D. C., July 27.—(AP)—The National Aeronautic association today furnished the background and half of the principals for a wedding.

Porter H. Adams, its former president, was the groom. Miss Sue Shorter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Shorter of this city, was the bride.

Amelia Earhart was matron of honor. Senator Bingham of Connecticut was best man.

Many aviation notables who last week attended the annual convention of the organization remained for the wedding.

Following a wedding motor trip, Mr. and Mrs. Adams will go to their summer home, Aero Acres, near Thetford, Vt.

French Fight Style Piracy by Forming Group in New York

PARIS, July 27.—(AP)—A project for the formation of a "French Artistic Creators' association" with New York headquarters, to prevent piracy of exclusive dress and hat models in the United States, featured the second week of the fall fashion shows beginning today before throngs of American buyers.

The organization, whose formation was announced by F. G. Montabert, New York manufacturer, will be composed of leading members of the Paris Association for Protection of the Applied Arts in France, including the most prominent dressmakers.

Formation of the association was prompted by the sale in America of false models and labels bearing the names of the greatest Parisian couturiers for "ridiculous prices."

Dresses from all French dressmakers with membership in the association will bear original labels stamped "Reproduction authorized by French Artistic Creators' association."

A small tax will be paid for each label.

New, shimmering artificial fabrics were outstanding in the winter showings of the medium important dressmakers today. The big fashion houses have not yet begun their showings.

Gleaming artificial satins in mother of pearl tints and soft, pliable artificial velvet in jewel tints were displayed for evening gowns and wraps.

KLEENEX TISSUES

to blot up perspiration

WHAT? . . . mop your face over and over with your handkerchief? It's not good for your face, and it's not good for your handkerchief.

Use Kleenex instead. A nice, fresh, clean, cool tissue. Then destroy it. Next time, another new, clean tissue.

Kleenex is not only cleaner. It is much more absorbent. Nearly twice as absorbent as a linen handkerchief! Blots up perspiration better.

Costs less than laundering

And think of the laundering you save. You can use quite a number of Kleenex Tissues for the cost of merely laundering one handkerchief. The uses of Kleenex are legion. Use it for handkerchiefs. These soft, dry, gentle tissues will bring especial comfort during colds and hay fever. They prevent self-infection from handkerchiefs, as you destroy Kleenex immediately after a single use.

Carry a package of Kleenex in the car this summer. It is a great convenience to motorists.

To remove face cream

At home, use Kleenex for wiping razor blades, spectacles. Many families keep a package in bathroom, kitchen, bedroom, nursery. It is the standard tissue for removing face creams, because of its greater absorbency and softness.

Kleenex is sold at all drug, dry goods and department stores. It comes to you clean and fresh in a Cellophane-wrapped package that permits removal of the tissues with one hand.

Food Talk.

"How should one care for left over melon? My family is so small that both watermelon and muskmelon are always left over. I keep them in a cold refrigerator always, but they leave an order that is absorbed by other foods. Can you tell me how to prevent this?" Mrs. D. asks.

Cut melons may be cared for in such a way that the aroma will not be transferred to other foods and the melon will retain its original fresh qualities for at least a reasonable length of time, which is only a few hours, at most. If the refrigerator is a mechanical one, the problem is easy. All that is necessary is to fit a clean piece of heavy paraffin paper snugly over the cut surface of the melon, patting the paper down flat so as to excludes any air. The paper prevents evaporation and oxidation and it also keeps in the aroma of the melon.

Place the papered melon in the hydrator if there is such an accessory in the refrigerator. If there is no hydrator or if the storage place is an ordinary ice box, then the melon should be put into a vessel equipped with a tight fitting lid. This is for muskmelon. The vessel containing the melon may be placed in the ice box with the other food or, if there is room, stand the container along side the ice in the ice compartment.

I have seen housewives first cover melon with paraffin paper, then wrap it in a newspaper and place it in the ice compartment. But this is an expensive, inefficient practice because the paper hinders the free circulation of air in the ice compartment to such an extent that the temperature is increased to the point where the ice melts rapidly.

Watermelon that is in one large piece cannot be put into a vessel so all that can be done is to place the piece of paraffin paper over the cut surface and then place the melon directly in the ice compartment on top of the ice. To anchor the melon on the ice, first lay a fold of dry clean cloth on top of the ice and on this place the melon. The cloth prevents the melon from slipping and the ice melts around the melon to hold it more securely in place.

Of course, no kind of melon should be held for a longer time than between two or three meals because melon is one of the most perishable of foods and deteriorates even under the best of refrigeration conditions. It is also too bulky to be kept long in the space available in the average sized refrigerator.

When melon has been used as a dessert for one meal the left over melon may be used the next meal to make a cocktail or a salad. If it is to be served as a dessert, slice off a thin layer from the outside to freshen the appearance of the cut surface.

SHRIMP SALAD IN CUCUMBER BOATS.
2 good sized cucumbers
2 No. 1 cans shrimp or
1 pint boiled fresh shrimps
French dressing
Mayonnaise
Lettuce leaves.

Peel the cucumbers and cut in halves lengthwise. If cucumbers are too long, cut in half crosswise. Scoop out the seedy portion in such a way as to form a boat shape. Steam the pieces of cucumber or simmer them slowly in boiling salted water only until tender. Boiling is the quickest method, requiring only 5 or 6 minutes. If cooked too long, the boats will not retain an attractive shape. Drain off all water and chill thoroughly.

In the meantime prepare shrimps by removing dark vein and breaking large shrimps into two or three pieces. Marinate in French dressing. When ready to serve, drain off any excess oil. Add a little mayonnaise and mix lightly so as not to break shrimp. Arrange half of a cucumber on lettuce leaf and pile shrimp salad lightly into the boats. Decorate with a spoonful of mayonnaise and a whole shrimp.

Yield: 4 servings.

S. P. ARNOT SEES GRAIN TRADE IN FARMERS' HANDS

Former President Quits Board of Trade.

Samuel P. Arnot, former president of the Chicago Board of Trade, and the man who developed its cotton and stock trading activities, sold out his membership yesterday and issued a statement declaring his belief that recent actions of the grain exchange indicate that farmers, through their federal farm board connections, were gradually assuming control of the grain trade.

Arnot's comments on the developments in the struggle between farmers and the grain trade, however, were not to be taken as a reflection on the system of trading on the Board of Trade, he said.

"The system of trading on the Chicago Board of Trade is the best that has ever been developed and after the farm board is through I may reënter business again," he asserted.

Opposed to Methods.

He stated further that he was convinced the exchange "should assert itself and not sit still and see the grain trade slowly throttled." "I have no fault to find," he said "with the federal farm board act in itself, but am opposed to the way in which it has been administered."

Failure of the board of trade to adopt a recently defeated amendment which would have prevented the Farmers' National Grain corporation from retaining control of a clearing house member, the Updike Grain company, was cited by Arnot as proof of his contentions.

Arnot was the man who disclosed a month ago that the farmers' agency which handled the farm board stabilization purchases had been in control of the Updike concern for several months. His disclosure had later been affirmed by George S. Milnor, in charge of the stabilization activities.

Decline in Trading Seen.

The retiring exchange member also pointed to failure of directors of the board of trade to "call a showdown and investigation" into the operations on the exchange of the Farmers' national concern. He indicated his belief that this firm "is gradually assuming control of the grain trade" and unless it is checked he predicts a decline in grain trading.

Arnot was president of the exchange in 1928 and 1929, the only president ever paid a salary. He received $35,000 for his work in arranging for trading in stocks. His membership was bought by S. K. Winton. Arnot said he would give his attention to handling the Wagner Assets Realization corporation, which took over the affairs of the late E. W. Wagner.

At the same time an announcement was made by the Farmers' National Grain corporation that in spite of the large holdings of wheat on hand, held for the Grain Stabilization corporation, and the heavy movement of new wheat from the southwest, its terminal elevator program for 1931 had been "practically completed."

Milnor, the corporation's manager, said space totaling 55,000,000 bushels capacity had been bought or leased, and that, although the wheat carry over of June 30 was "probably the largest on record" and the new crop a large one, there had been no acute congestion in any market.

THOUSANDS PRAY FOR RELIGIOUS PEACE IN MEXICO

Beseech Patron Saint to End Vera Cruz Row.

MEXICO CITY, July 27.—(AP)—Thousands of persons went to Guadalupe yesterday to pray before the Virgin of Guadalupe, patron saint of Mexico, for cessation of religious disturbances in the state of Vera Cruz. There was no organized pilgrimage to the village, which is about five miles outside Mexico City.

Bishop Guisar Y Valencia of Vera Cruz tonight announced he had just been informed that seven additional priests had been expelled from the state. He said he was without details of how the seven had been sent from the state. He has received no reply, he said, to his protest to Gov. Tejeda, sent late Saturday night.

New Vera Cruz Victim.

Vera Cruz dispatches reported the death of a youth, who was wounded in the shooting Saturday in Asuncion church. Father Alberto Landa, who was wounded when Father Acosta was killed, still was in a serious condition.

La Prensa today said it was reliably informed by a high official of the central government that Gov. Tejeda had been called to Mexico City. There was no further verification of this.

Troops Patrol Streets.

Reports from Vera Cruz said the city was flooded with posters signed by the governor, in which he said he was resolved to enforce the laws and asked the people's help, respect, and obedience.

Federal troops were reported patrolling streets in the vicinity of churches at Vera Cruz and elsewhere to preserve order.

THREE ARE HELD ON CHARGES OF WOMAN AND GIRL

The Cragin police last night held three men on complaint of Mrs. Antonette Koenig, 40 years old, operator of a restaurant at 2172 North Austin boulevard, and Hazel Griffiths, 17 years old, a girl from Wisconsin, whom she had been sheltering.

The prisoners are Paul Torroco, 914 North 22d street, Melrose Park; Peter [Bananas] Santore, 906 24th avenue, Melrose Park, and Thomas King, 662 North Parkside avenue, who says he is chief engineer for a radio manufacturing company. King and Santore are charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor. Torroco is accused of kidnaping. Two other men are sought on rape charges. They are John Sakolowski, an ex-convict, and Peter Brunge, both of Melrose Park.

On July 24, according to Mrs. Koenig, Sakolowski, Brunge, and Torroco forced her and Hazel into their car, with Torroco driving, and took her to Santore's beer flat in Melrose Park where, she says, Sakalowski and Brunge raped her. Capt. John Stege of the Cragin station was notified.

FATHER'S PLEA LIFTS INJUNCTION FROM CHILDREN

Morris Isenberg, wealthy custom tailor at 106 West Lake street, yesterday appeared in the court of Superior Judge Ross C. Hall, asking that an injunction which restrained his son, Harry, and daughter, Esther, from carrying out alleged threats against him, be dissolved. Isenberg's attorney, Patrick Harrington, had appeared for him on July 21 to ask the injunction.

"I'll be happy to dissolve that order," Judge Hall said. "I'd not have granted it if I had known about the reference to the threats to kill that were in it.

"I thought that the injunction merely restrained the son and daughter from molesting this man."

In asking the rescinding of the order, Isenberg, who is 60 years old and lives at 3847 West Jackson boulevard with his children, declared that the bill had been filed after an argument. Isenberg had said his children had demanded that he divide his $150,000 estate and had threatened him when he refused.

Pick the WINNER on his RECORD

Tire dealers who have to sell against the outstanding popularity of Goodyear Tires are up against a pretty stiff problem.

They have to justify the purchase of a second-choice tire, which isn't the easiest job in the world.

That's why you hear so much talk from such dealers about technical comparisons — measuring one tire against another by differences so small that it almost takes a magnifying glass to see them.

All this is beside the point to the Goodyear buyer, because he buys not a set of technical claims but a tire—the best tire and the best value the market affords.

The fact that a race horse comes in first is more important than the length of his legs or the depth of his chest.

The fact that a boxer has won a long list of decisions means more than the size of his biceps or the length of his reach.

Many a world-beater "on paper" has been a flop on the road or in the ring.

It's much the same way with tires.

PHILS WHIP CUBS, 7-6; HOMERS ROUT BUSH

LIGHT WAY FOR GOLFERS ON NEW 9 HOLE COURSE

Distances from 75 to 165 Yards.

BY HARVEY WOODRUFF.

Night golf, not the Tom Thumb or three variety but real honest to goodness golf with cleek, midiron, mashie, niblick and putter—everything but the golden clubs—will be inaugurated in Wilmetteland Saturday night.

The scene is an 18 acre tract just east of Wilmette Golf club, known as West Wilmette, where nine holes have been laid out lighted by nine steel towers, each 75 feet high with a total of 124,800 watts.

While the course is not yet open to the public, this reporter in driving saw the unusual lighting and was invited in among a few guests invited for the first test of the lights. Once we were extended the courtesy of the course and invited to play nine holes for which the fee will be 75 cents in daytime and $1.00 at night with an extra charge of 50 cents for the rented nine play.

Distances 75 to 165 Yards.

With this economy of free entry established, we felt free to lose a ball, if necessary, to test the scheme which its sponsors feel, will revolutionize golf play at all regular courses. Distances on this nine hole course are from 75 to 165 yards. To our surprise, even our sturdiest drives, no matter how high, were visible at all times. In fact, flight of the ball was clearer than in the day time. Possibly once out of three times, one did not see the ball land, but it was easy to find. We did not lose a single ball, which, considering our usual form, is a world's record. If the plan fails it will not be because of lack of visibility.

Sponsors of this night golf, R. D. Cunningham and Joe Roseman, while confident of the success of night golf, admit it is a financial experiment. Previous ventures at Detroit, Kansas City, and San Francisco failed because of inadequate lighting. That there has been assured by lighting engineers of the Public Service company, working in conjunction with General Electric engineers from the east and projector engineers from Chicago.

Course Costs $43,000.

The finances, however, will remain to be proved.

The cost of the lighting system is $32,000 and other expenses of equipping the course are $11,000 or a total of $43,000 without considering the land. Electrical current is estimated at $20 per night. Capacity of the nine hole course is 36 persons at one time. It takes about 45 minutes to play nine holes.

There are the favorable points. This is not toy golf. While wooden clubs are forbidden lest some clouter hit hard enough to encroach on the following hole, distances are proper for developing one's approaching and putting. Experts tell us all important strokes are won or lost on iron shots.

Mosquitoes a Nuisance.

What, then are the disadvantages? The only serious one we found were the eagles which bit us as we tried to putt. Others called them mosquitoes, but if they weren't eagles we never saw an eagle. Perhaps the lack of breeze contributed partly to the result. We were told it had not been tested before.

At any rate, night golf will be inaugurated Saturday night. If it proves a success its sponsors anticipate, will be a tribute to the financial engineering of these West Wilmette promoters.

KNIGHT'S CALL ROMPS HOME TO TRACK RECORD

Timed in 1:22 4-5 for 7 Furlongs at Arlington.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Knight's Call, which had won only three races in 25 starts in 2 years but was always knocking on the door of greatness, finally came into his own when he thundered home the winner of the Seminole purse for 3 year olds at Arlington Park yesterday.

As Knight's Call conquered the heavily backed Voltagreen by nearly four lengths, he shattered the Arlington Park track record for seven furlongs and hung up a mark of his own that is likely to stand for many years. He ran the seven furlongs in 1:22 4-5, which was two-fifths of a second faster than the track record made by Ned O a year ago.

The fastest seven furlongs ever run in America was turned in by famous old Roseben way back in 1906 at Belmont. His American record is 1:22, just four-fifths of a second faster than Knight's Call ran the distance yesterday.

Leafs in Stretch.

An easy winner from mid stretch and allowed to loaf in the final drive by Jockey Schutte, Knight's Call might have neared Roseben's mark if he had been asked to put on some speed as the field neared the line of finish. Instead he was only galloping near the end and pulled up all chance of becoming an American record holder because he won his race so easily.

The word got out that Knight's Call was going to leave the sucker ranks and finally turn in a remarkable bit of running, for he was backed heavily and in the betting paid $4.46 to win, $2.94 to place, and $2.46 to show. Voltagreen was at $2.85 to place and $2.48 to show, and Rockbelle paid $3.20 to show.

With Knight's Call under early restraint, Voltagreen went out to make the pace and she stepped a half in :46 3-5. When Knight's Call headed her at the end of six furlongs he had traveled that distance in 1:10 1-5, which equals the Arlington track record. Knight's Call ran his last eighth in 12 3-5 seconds.

Sun Dot Wins Second Half.

The Seminole purse was split into two divisions and in the second division Sun Dot, owned by Norman Church's Northway stable of California, scored a victory which appeared brilliant. He won by three-quarters of a length from Hillsborough, with Rusty third. Yet Sun Dot's time for the seven furlongs was 1:24 1-5, nearly two seconds slower than Knight's Call's race.

Last year as a 2 year old Knight's Call was always hooking up with the topnotchers. He was expected to beat them on many occasions, but he seldom did it. He tried for all the western 2 year old stakes, yet in 16 starts he was able to win but two races, one of them a stake affair in the fall at Latonia.

Then he traveled to California where it was expected the Agua Caliente Derby would be at his mercy and possibly the $100,000 Caliente handicap. He came up to the far western Derby in fine condition but in a final workout was injured and missed the engagement. He also missed the Agua Caliente handicap.

Eighth in American Derby.

Then he began training for the Kentucky Derby, but wasn't ready on May 17 when the race was run. Finally he got to the post in the American Derby. He finished eighth back of Mate, Pittsburgher, and others. Then he went to the Latonia Derby and finished ninth back of Spanish Play, St. Brideaux, Scuttle, and five other 3 year olds.

Earlier in the afternoon Volta Maid, owned by L. M. Severson of Chicago and making the first start of her career, ran five furlongs in 59 seconds, breaking the track record and winning her race by a margin of half a dozen lengths. She was a "field" horse in the betting but never left the result in doubt. Jockey Glanelloni rushed her to the front as the start was made, and she was always far in the lead of Chatter Queen and White Flier, which took down second and third money.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Those long range hits in which the Phillies specialize on certain occasions bobbed up yesterday and made a wreck of the Cubs. Drives behind which the ponderous Buzz Arlett and Pinky Whitney put their full power vanished over the barriers, each with a man on, and the four runs accruing therefrom gave the Phillies a margin that the north siders weren't able to melt down despite their late inning persistency. The score was 7 to 6, making the Phils' first triumph here in six starts this season.

As an added annoyance for the Cubs their companion of eight seasons had a hand in the whipping. Fred [Sheriff] Blake, turned out last week for the waiver price, made his first start in his new flannels. The Cubs finally rode him out of the picture in the sixth, but the term of service was long enough to entitle him to official credit for the outcome. Prior to his removal he had given up only one run, this happening in the first inning on a scratch hit by Riggs Stephenson, who, in crossing the bag, sprained his ankle and had to be carried from the field.

Guy Bush Ineffective.

The gentleman who absorbed the shock of the aforementioned home run bangs was Guy Bush, who pitches effectively against the Giants, but not so well against others. The Mississippian was satisfactory for three innings and then went into a decline. His mates gave the Phillies two runs in the fourth. Then the homers did that four run damage in the fifth. Just about this time the Cubs began to busy themselves in a run getting way and they might have gone places if Jakie May hadn't surrendered a run in the seventh and Gabby Hartnett had not indulged in a costly bit of slumber.

Charley Root will go after victory No. 12 today and Fidgety Phil Collins will try to keep him from getting it.

Blake's wildness made the Cubs a present of one run in the first inning. Two were gone when Cuyler drew a pass and Barton was hit in the ribs. Stephenson bounced to Hurst, who was so far from the bag that he had no chance to make the play himself. Blake raced over, took the throw and then tried to beat the runner, but lost by an eyelash. Blake couldn't stop quickly enough to turn and make a throw in time to stop Cuyler from scoring from second on

135 PLAY TODAY AT ONWENTSIA IN NATIONAL TRIALS

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Somewhere on the fairways and greens of the Onwentsia club in Lake Forest are Chicago's 34 berths in the national amateur golf tournament, and today 135 central states players, the majority of them from the immediate neighborhood, will engage in 36 holes of medal play to find them. Meanwhile, more than 450 other players throughout the country will be doing likewise in 19 other district centers. It will be the first year this method, hitherto employed only in the national open, will be used to determine the field for the tournament proper, which will be played at the Beverly Country club, from Aug. 31 to Sept. 5, inclusive.

Chicago leads the country both in the number of entries and the number of qualifying places allotted, as it did in the trials for the national open. The 34 low scorers today will be enrolled automatically in the army of 150 which will battle for Bobby Jones' title at Beverly.

Here's the Par.

The local field was originally announced as 131, but late entries raised this figure to 135, and this may be increased before the tournament finally gets under way. Among the post time entrants are Hank Bowbeer of Edgewood Valley, Oliver Schmidt of Medinah, Winnie Rodormer of Park Ridge, and Glen Clarke of Crystal Lake.

The Onwentsia course will afford plenty of competition for the field, and if the breezes should decide to become frisky today it may prove to be more than difficult. Par for the scene of today's sectional battle follows:

Par out	535	434	444	—36

Chicago's leadership in the sectional trials is not only a matter of quantity, for there will be more than enough quality on display at Onwentsia today. For one thing, two former national champions will be present in Robert A. Gardner of Onwentsia, winner in 1909 and 1915, and Charles Evans Jr. of Edgewater, who brought the amateur title home in 1916 and 1920. The home club will send forth another able trio in Dexter Cummings, Rudy Knepper, and James H. Douglas Jr.

Tee Off at 8 A. M.

Others expected to lead the qualifiers for the Beverly show are Jack Westland and Rial Rolfe of Sunset Ridge, Gus Novotny of Edgewood Valley, C. M. Fish Jr. of Rockford, James C. Ward of Kansas City, Mo.; Art Bartlett of Des Moines, Ia.; George Dawson of Glen Oak, Lew Levinson of Ravisloe, Alden B. Swift of Glen View, Ben Stevenson of Beverly, and Frank Justin of Edgewood Valley.

The first threesome, composed of Win Day, Art Bartlett, and H. W. Bishop of Glen View, will leave the starter's tee at 8 o'clock this morning.

Mr. Fan Usually Takes a Back Seat at Fight Shows

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 27.—It was very wrong of James J. Johnston, the prize fight promoter, to place Mayor Cermak of Chicago and his party of 99 other deserving Democrats behind the eight ball, so to speak, when they came on from Chicago to see the Walker-Sharkey prize fight in Brooklyn last week. But, in a way, this faux pas was a beautiful stroke of retribution, because that is the sort of treatment which the common customers long ago learned to expect from the promotors of prize fights and theatrical entertainment, who customarily see to the pleasure of the politicians first.

Mr. Cermak wired to New York for 100 tickets for this prize fight the day the match was announced and before the tickets were printed, so it is reasonable to assume that his application, backed by appropriate remittance, was, if not the very first, then one of the first orders received. He and the deserving Democrats with him were entitled to the best 100 seats available at the time his order arrived and, on that basis, the least deserving Democrat in the Chicago party should have been given a seat no farther away than the second row.

Denied Rights of Customer.

Yet, when Mr. Cermak went to the ball yard that night he was shown to a place a long way from the ring and well outside that reservation which custom allots to those whom the reporters scan for familiar names to be used under the heading "among those present were——"

As a politician, Mr. Cermak was affronted and as a customer he was denied his rights.

The consternation of the Tammany hall Democrats as they fluttered around the indignant Mr. Cermak, explaining that a deplorable mistake had been made and trying to tug him out into the aisle by main strength to mend the error, has never been lavished on a common customer similarly mistreated. The common customer, by the experience of years, has learned that although he pays the same price for his tickets as the politicians and so called best people, and although his order may antedate theirs by whole weeks, the seats in the first ten or fifteen rows at a big prize fight are not for him.

Tex Rickard Frank About It.

Tex Rickard, though cynical, was at least frank about all this, insisting, one time when the seats for the Tunney-Dempsey fight in Chicago were being allotted, that a shipping clerk with $40 of his savings was not entitled to a seat in the first row, though his application was number one on the list. A governor, a national committeeman, an influential publisher, or a prominent vice-president-in-charge-of-social drinking, representing some national corporation, was considered more desirable, though his application for tickets did not arrive until the day of the prize fight. So the forward rows of seats were held out and allotted contrary to priority.

Mr. Rickard denounced as socialistic and wrongminded the idea that a common customer's $40 was as good as a railroad president's $40, and that the physical presence of the shipping clerk was not necessarily any

Let's Get Up a Dempsey-Walker Bout—Mr. Kearns

JACK KEARNS.

Kearns thinks it would be nice to match the man whom he managed as heavyweight champion with Mickey Walker, former middleweight titleholder, who recently fought a draw with Jack Sharkey. And he would like to hold the bout at Soldiers' field or in one of the Chicago ball parks.

A "syndicate of Chicago business men" is willing to promote the fight, when and if it takes place, Kearns said, but neither Kearns nor his press agent would reveal the identity of the business men, or even one of them.

The modest business men went so far as to offer Dempsey $250,000, according to the press agent, who expects an answer from Reno today.

Sox Whip Yanks, 8-7 in 10 Innings; Lose Second, 12-3

BY EDWARDS BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 27.—These White Sox are a right sprightly ball club when they have good pitching, as witness the fact that this afternoon for the second successive time they whipped the Yankees in the opening game of a double header. Then, again shorn of pitching talent, they were humiliated in the sundown number almost as completely as they were yesterday, even though the tabulation wasn't so large.

The score of the triumph was 8 to 7 in 10 innings and the score of the debacle was 12 to 3. The first game was a thriller in which a man named Babe Ruth hit something like his 550th homer and a youth named Billy Sullivan was a hero with his first professional circuit drive. If it hadn't been for Billy's homer with two on in the first half of the sixth, Babe's in the last of the sixth, also with two on, would have busted up the ball game.

Case of Cruelty.

The second game, in view of the 22 to 5 embarrassment of Pat Caraway yesterday, was a most disgraceful commentary on the conduct of White Sox affairs, for when McKain failed after trying to start against the orders of his physician, Caraway again had to go in and be tortured. And they arrest people for overworking horses and poking canaries with hairpins.

There has been no indication here, however, that the Sox front office will consent to pick up at least a few sandlotters to relieve what now has become a matter of glaringly inconsiderate treatment of baseball employés.

The first game started out as a comeback affair by another Sox invalid, who would not be in the lineup at any time except for the desperate predicament brought about by Mr. Comiskey's attempt to operate with a staff of three pitchers. Ted Lyons pitched three innings, but when he felt himself slipping withdrew, and Frasier, slated for the second game, took over the situation with a 3 to 1 lead.

Frasier Scores Winning Run.

The Sox lead became 7 to 1 at the end of the Sox sixth, but Frasier got into a jam and the Yanks tied the score in their half of the inning with six runs, the last three of which were the result of Ruth's homer. But instead of going to pieces, Frasier bore down in the remaining four innings and didn't allow a hit.

In the tenth Frasier singled with one out and Blue got his fourth successive walk. Ruth made a nice catch of Sullivan's drive and Reynolds popped a fly back of first which Lazzeri dropped. By that time Frasier was home with the winning run.

The teams will get back on a one game schedule tomorrow and Thomas will go against Pennock.

Lyons on Shelf

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NEW YORK, July 27. — Ted Lyons probably will be out of the lineup for the remainder of the season, it was said on his return to the White Sox hotel after this afternoon's comeback try. Ted said he had again injured his ailing arm in pitching a curve ball in the third inning of the first game of today's double header. There also is probability of a prolonged layoff for Hal McKain, who made a heroic but pitiable attempt to pitch the second game.

Bush Must Make Best of What He Has—Comiskey

Eagle River, Wis., July 27.—(AP)—Charles A. Comiskey has not given any thought to a change in the management of the Chicago White Sox. He is concerned only with trying to obtain players to strengthen the club.

Harry Grabiner, secretary of the club, who is spending his vacation at Land o'Lakes, Wis., near the old Roman's camp, tonight said there had been no discussion of a successor for Donie Bush.

Grabiner quoted Comiskey as saying that Bush would have to "do the best he can with what he has, until we can get more players, especially pitchers."

Comiskey said his scouts had turned up no players of major league caliber and that it was impossible to purchase star players from other major league clubs at any price.

FATOR STARTS ON WAY TO 2,000 TURF VICTORIES

Boots Home 3 Winners at Empire City.

New York, July 27.—[Special.]—Laverne Fator now is working on his second thousand winners, having passed the 1,000 mark earlier in the season, and if he keeps on as he did today at Empire City the goal of 2,000 winners may not be so many years in the future. Fator got three horses down in front today, including Oncora, the Black and White stable's colorbearer, in the race which had the place of honor on a program given over mainly to claiming events.

Fator's triple was consecutive, starting with Frederick Pruyn's Tommy Lad in the second, continued with I. B. Humphreys' Chief's Challenger in the third, and ended with Oncora. In the first race Fator got third with the Newtondale stable's Whisking. He had only four mounts.

Oncora Held at 11-5.

Oncora's price was driven down from 3 to 1 to 11 to 5, while the price against Bud Fisher's Begorra, the favorite, went up from 7 to 10 to 9 to 10. Begorra, which won by ten lengths his previous time out, never was a threat and finished 12th in a field of thirteen.

It was P. B. Codd's Lew Black, a 60 to 1 shot, that finished second and very nearly got the winner's share of the purse. The winner finished in 1:39 4-5 for the six furlongs.

Leads from Start.

With Chief's Challenger, Fator was up on the 2 to 1 favorite and he led from start to finish. The field again was large and the veteran jockey doubtless won the race at the start when he broke so alertly as to be in front swinging around the clubhouse turn. Once on top he coasted a little to give the son of Little Chief a bit of a rest after his quick getaway. Thereafter Fator turned in a steady ride to win easily by a length and a half more obnoxious than that of a social celebrity, though the latter might be swelling around on his wife's money exclusively and might not smell any too fresh after a dozen or more cocktails inhaled under the awning of a big yacht.

Likely to Go Democratic.

It is Mr. Cermak's intention to sponsor a heavyweight championship fight in Chicago next summer between Max Schmeling and, I suppose, Mickey Walker, and there is just a chance that, having seen how the submerged nine-tenths fare at prize fights, he will go as a democratic act to impose a rule of first come first served. This would be a serious blow to the American royalty of the big cities, which has been becoming increasingly royal since the war.

Another telling stroke which might genuinely endear Mr. Cermak to the common customer would be the denial of police escorts and special traffic privileges to the American royal class on the night of his fight. The custom of assigning motorcycle patrolmen as outriders to escort members of the royal class through traffic jams and past red lights while the common customers sit and wait and the taximeters run up standing charges, is inconsistent with Mr. Cermak's avowed political faith.

Personally, I am not indignant about this, having been convinced long ago that the common customer has no rights and that any time he does not get the worst of it he has cause to congratulate himself. But, on the way to the Brooklyn ball yard the other night, as my own hack stood frozen in the traffic and the big cars went roaring by behind the whining sirens of motor cops who might have been more usefully employed, it occurred to me that the precious passengers in those other machines need not have been in such a hell of a rush if they had not tarried for a few more beers or a few more highballs at dinner.

Or, having tarried, they probably were too oblivious to care whether they slept the night away in ringside seats or stalled in the traffic in Flatbush.

Privileges Still Remain.

This custom began during the war when, to show off to the members of European missions coming over to borrow money which they now don't want to pay back, the New York royalty obtained waivers of the traffic laws that ordinary men are subject to. The war over, the privilege was not withdrawn and nowadays a member of the royal set feels that lower classes are getting out of hand if a cook out airing his family in the flivver doesn't hop the curb and clear the way as he tools along behind a cop to be on time at a show for which he should have left an hour sooner.

I would like some day to see a police commissioner send a motorcycle escort over to the home of Common Customer Joseph Doakes, the laundry sorter, at 323-B North Elm street, to guide him past the lights and deliver him to his seat in the bleachers on time for a fight, but I don't think that will happen. Yet he seems as much entitled to an escort and complete suspension of the traffic laws as the members of the royal set whom I have seen tearing by these many times, all fairly well plastered, and, to the naked eye, no better gents and ladies than Mr. and Mrs. Doakes.

Sun Beau Gets Top Weight in Arlington

The weights for the Arlington handicap, to be renewed on Saturday, were announced by Joe McLennan, racing secretary of the Arlington Jockey club, yesterday, and if Sun Beau is to become the world's greatest money winning thoroughbred before next Saturday night he will have to step a mile and a quarter in very fast time under a weight package of 123 pounds.

He will carry top weight of the big party, and as the racegoers studied the weight assignments they came to the conclusion that old Mike Hall of Chicago got a little the better of it. He is asked to carry only 116 pounds.

In the Arlington cup last Saturday, when both were carrying 126 pounds, Sun Beau beat Mike Hall by 2¼ lengths. At the same time Mike Hall beat Gallant Knight by 2½ lengths, yet in the handicap Gallant Knight was assigned 120 pounds. This indicates that Handicapper McLennan believes Gallant Knight the better horse, despite the beating Mike Hall gave him last Saturday.

Plucky Play, which won the Stars and Stripes handicap, gets in at 109 pounds. So many horsemen were so well pleased with the weights that it begins to appear as if 15 or more may line up at the barrier for the handicap, which will be worth more than $40,000.

In the nine stake races run during the rich Arlington season, western owned horses have scored five victories to the east's four. Three more stakes are to be run this week and the east seems to have a decided advantage in two of them, if not in all three. The east must make a sweep of the remaining three stakes to show its supremacy at a meeting in which all the best horses in training in America have joined.

Triumphs have been scored by western owned horses in the Inaugural handicap, won by Silvardale, owned by Johnny Schorr; in the Hyde Park stakes by Pair by Pair, owned by Mrs. John Hertz, and in the Stars and Stripes handicap by Plucky Play, owned by Norman W. Church. The west also scored in the Arlington Oaks when Canfil, from W. T. Waggoner's stable, was the winner, and another western victory came in the Matron handicap when Risque romped home in the silks of Mrs. John Hertz.

Eastern stake victories were rolled up in the Lassie stakes, won by Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney's Top Flight; in the North Shore steeplechase, when Luckite was the victor; in the Classic, won by Mate, and in the Arlington cup, captured so handily by Sun Beau.

The east is almost certain to take the Lake Forest steeplechase to be run tomorrow and it is doubtful if any of the lightly weighted westerners can whip Sun Beau in the Arlington handicap on Saturday. So it looks like the Post and Paddock stakes, in which all the best eastern and western 2 year olds will clash, will be the race that will either throw the east and west into a 6-6 tie for Arlington stake honors or will be the contest in which the east will drive to the front and win out with seven stake victories to the west's five.

Some of the steeplechase jockeys are on their bad behavior. The stewards announced yesterday that E. Ball, who rides as a free lance, and Fred Preece, under contract to James Simpson Jr., had been suspended for practices detrimental to the turf. Their cases have been referred to the stewards of the National Steeplechase association. It was one of those mysterious rulings in which the charges against the two steeplechase riders were not made public.

Bass in Michigan Like Gold Fish; Have No Privacy

BY BOB BECKER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Kalkaska, Mich., July 27.—The game fish in the 70 odd lakes in this county have no more privacy than the proverbial goldfish in the glass bowl since the Michigan division of the Walton league started the extraordinary lake farming program now getting under way up here in the wilderness.

In assembling an array of facts on each lake so a big yield of game fish may be produced for anglers, the finny tribes have seen a parade of all kinds scientific gadgets from thermometers to water samples and weed drags.

The result is that today the bureau of fisheries institute knows more about the private life of the bass and pickerel than the poor fish know themselves. All of which is leading to the greatest fish production schedule this county ever has seen.

The idea is that you can put a lake in order with proper cover and food conditions and produce an abundance of game fish without heavy stocking with fry. When there isn't enough plant food in a lake this new program calls for fertiliz

LISMORE, LAST TO FINISH, ENDS ATLANTIC RACE

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

PLYMOUTH, England, July 27.—[Special.]—Crippled in mid-Atlantic, William Roo's ketch Lismore sailed into Plymouth harbor early today, the last of ten yachts to finish the transatlantic race from Newport, R. I. Tonight all pilots who participated in the race celebrated the achievement with a dinner in their honor, given by the Royal Western Yacht club here.

The Lismore, which finished at 5:49 this morning, had her topmost carried away when battling headwinds 1,200 miles out and was forced to sail the rest of the voyage under a jury rig.

The only woman in the race, the owner's wife, remained aboard until the end, although two of the crew were transferred to a liner because of the possibility of food and water giving out.

YOUNG STRIBLING ON LONG FLIGHT WITH AIR CORPS

Dayton, O., July 27.—(AP)—Second Lieut. W. L. Stribling, heavyweight boxer, landed at Fairfield army air depot tonight with seven fellow officers after a flight from Atlanta, Ga. Stribling entered two weeks of training as an officer of the air reserve corps at his home town and was assigned to one of four Douglas observation planes for an instructional maneuver, which included a flight from Atlanta to Dayton.

They will spend tomorrow morning inspecting the Fairfield airport. In the afternoon they will move over to Wright field for further perusal of the army's facilities here. Then they will return to Atlanta.

Eugenie Sampson Wins Michigan Tennis Title

Fire Destroys Stadium of Yellow Jackets Pro Team

Philadelphia, Pa., July 27.—(AP)—Fire, believed of incendiary origin today destroyed the stadium of the Yellow Jackets professional football team. Fire marshals said the stands had been soaked with an inflammable fluid.

the hit. Then they picked up Stevie and carried him away to have his injured ankle examined.

Present Phils with Runs.

Arlett singled to center to open the fourth and the Cubs immediately indulged in some antics which the Phils used to the extent of two runs. Hurst bunted to Bell, whose throw was so high that Blair had to leap to knock it down. Arlett tore for third on the error and would have been out by yards if Hartnett, who ran down to that point to make the play, hadn't dropped the ball. Hurst went to second on this blunder. A long fly to left by McCurdy scored Arlett and moved Hurst to third. Whitney walked and with Hurst worked a double steal on which the latter scored.

The four run cannonading in the Phils' fifth began as soon as Bush had tossed out Bartell. Klein pushed a single past English. Arlett looked at one pitch before taking the swing that sent the ball into the hands of a left field bleacher customer. Hurst scratched a hit over Bush's head and dashed to second on McCurdy's roller to Blair. Whitney ran his string to 3 and 1 and then drove the ball over the left field wall. Bell threw out Mallon to close the unhappy incident.

Blake Fades in Sixth.

After the first inning the Cubs spent a lot of time before doing any hitting of consequence against their former mate. In the third Barton doubled off the wall in left and Wilson walked, but a double play ruined the possibilities of a rally. The fifth started with promise when Jurges singled, but he was doubled up on a grounder by English. Then Cuyler walked and Barton was hit for the second time. In this spot Wilson died swinging at a low curve over the outside corner.

Blake's fadeout in the sixth began with Bell's single to center. He was forced by Blair. Hartnett also singled to center and Hemsley, batting for Bush, filled the bags by beating out a bunt. Jurges fanned, but English singled through short to score Blair and Hartnett. The bags became clogged again when Cuyler walked to complete Blake's work for the day. Then Barton lifted one high to right, but it didn't travel quite far enough to be of value. Arlett backed against the fence and caught it.

Bargain Run for Phils.

The Phils encountered a bargain in the seventh and made it good for a run off May. It proved the winning tally. Jakie threw out Arlett and then walked Hurst. After McCurdy had been retired, Whitney walked. Mallon also strolled, filling the bases. Then Watt lined to right, and Hurst scored but Whitney, who tried to follow him across the plate was nailed on Barton's throw to Hartnett.

Watt handed a pass to Wilson in the home seventh and that's what started the Cubs on their three run rally which might have brought on a tie if Hartnett hadn't napped at an inopportune time. Bell fanned and Blair doubled past first base. Hack stopping at third. The two men scored on Hartnett's double to left. Taylor batted for May and walked, but a moment later Gabby was picked off second base on Watt's throw to Mallon. Then Jurges tripled to left center, Taylor scoring, and making the count 7 to 6. Jumbo Elliott stepped in and fanned English to close the inning.

The Cubs still were trying in the eighth and ninth. In the former Cuyler was hit and stole second, but died there. In the ninth Blair led off with a single and Hartnett walked. Sweetland tried to sacrifice, but his bunt was caught on the fly. Hornsby batted for Jurges and popped out and Arlett gobbled up English's fly to end it.

HOW completely Arlington Park dominates the American racing situation during the period of its meeting may be proved by comparison of the cards here and at eastern tracks racing at this time. Promise of its sponsors that Chicago would have the best racing in the country already has been in part realized. Unless unforeseen circumstances arise, that promise will be even more fully justified in the future.

Arlington attendance, despite the depression, has been good. Mutuel play is off slightly, although not as much as elsewhere, according to reports. Increased stake prizes and other added expenses probably will reduce the net for the season, but there should be a substantial sum remaining to go back into improvements, according to the Arlington policy.

Professional tennis "on its merits" will receive a Chicago trial at Onwentsia Aug. 14 and 15. Big Bill Tilden and his troupe will make their first outdoor appearance in this vicinity. Since no titles are involved, the play will be of the exhibition variety. Public attendance, therefore, will be confined largely to those desiring an exposition of tennis skill as such.

Meantime the Cubs continue the uneven tenor of their way, not far enough back to be mathematically out of it, yet not showing enough consistency to leave hope with any but the most optimistic that they may catch the pace making Cardinals. First in team batting, only a point off the lead in team fielding, pitching would seem to figure as the cause. Yet analysis of losing games shows lack of a timely bingle ever and anon has been a potent factor in the situation.

Six Hits—No Runs.

Wake: I know how six hits can be made in an inning without a run scoring or a forceout at the plate:

First three batters beat out infield singles. Catcher snaps ball to third and catches runner there. One out. Next batter hits Texas leaguer and bases loaded again. Third baseman works "hidden ball" trick and catches man at third. Two out. Another single. Bases loaded again. Next batter drives one between second and third, hitting base runner. Base runner out but batsman gets credit for hit.

Just the Name of Mary.

Mary is a memory ever dear and sweet to me;
Just the name and then I see soft blue eyes that smile at me:
Loving hands that clasp my own, her sweet presence in my home;
Words that soothe sad thoughts away —my friend, dear friend of yesterday.
Mary is a memory, yet she ever lives for me,
Years of friendship softly twine round this sad old heart of mine;
Miss her as the years go by, O, such pals as she and I,
But however it may be, still she lives in memory.

ROMAN PORTER WINS CADDIES' GOLF WITH 83

Roman Porter, 17 year old caddy from Big Oaks, won the first annual daily fee caddies' golf championship yesterday at Pickwick. His score of 83 was two strokes better than that of Bill Herbster, also 17, of Mid-City. Bill's brother, Bert, also had to be content with a runner up prize, finishing second to A. J. Klein of Oak Hills in the caddy masters' tournament. Klein shot an 80, Herbster 81.

Mid-City captured the caddies' team championship with a gross score of 353. The winning quartet comprised Bill Herbster, 85; Joe Blanton, 86; Chuck Boywid, 87, and Ches Jonas, 95. The other teams finished in the following order: St. Andrews, 356; Evergreen, 361; Big Oaks, 383; Golfmoor, 383; Cog Hill, 386; Oak Hills, 387; Crystal Lawn, 396, and Techny fields, 430.

MICHIGAN GRID CAPTAIN X-RAYED FOR APPENDICITIS

Ann Arbor, Mich., July 27.—[Special.]—Capt. Roy Hudson of the 1931 Michigan football squad underwent X-ray examination at University hospital today to determine whether he will have to submit to an operation for appendicitis. He previously was examined by physicians who said his case was chronic and that he would not require an operation. Counted on for full back duty again this fall, Hudson has been employed on the university golf course this summer.

Blue pushed off the fifth with the first of four successive walks and scored on Sullivan's double. Reynolds walked and the runners moved up on Fonseca's sacrifice. Watwood was given an intentional pass, filling the bases. Dinneen, on the next play, ruled that Kerr had hit into a double play to retire the side as Sullivan crossed the plate. Dinneen missed the play by at least two feet and even the partisan New York fans gave the portly umpire the needles for his lazy work.

In the first of the sixth it appeared that Sullivan's bat had made the contest just a breeze for Frasier. Young Bill knocked his homer into the right field stands, driving in Cissell, who had singled, and Blue, who had walked. Reynolds singled but Fonseca was thrown out.

Babe Hits 27th Home Run.

Then came the blast that tested the heart of the White Sox. Chapman fanned to start the Yank sixth but Lary singled to right and went to second while Kerr was getting Dickey for the second out.

Combs batted for Rhodes and doubled to left, scoring Lary and Lazseri. This made the score: Sox, 7; Yanks, 3, and the situation still seemed well in hand. Then Byrd singled to left, scoring Combs, after which Sewell walked. This put Mr. Ruth at the plate with the tying run, and Babe smacked his No. 27, scoring Byrd and Sewell ahead of him and tying the count, 7 to 7.

The Yanks never suspected at the time that Babe's homer would be the last hit off Frasier, but it was, and you've been told how Frasier singled in the tenth and eventually got home with what proved to be the winning run.

SECOND GAME

The Yanks made three runs off McKain in the first inning. Sewell doubled, Ruth walked and Chapman singled him to third, while Sewell scored. Ruth scored on a double steal with Chapman and Lary's double sent Chapman home.

Two more were made in the second off Caraway. Jorgens singled and Sullivan made a wild throw of Wells' sacrifice, sending men to third and second. Byrd beat out a hit to short. Sewell singled to score Jorgens. Caraway fanned Ruth and Gehrig, who failed to swing, but passed Chapman to let Wells score.

The bombardment continued in the third, Lazzeri walked and singles by Jorgens, Wells and a sacrifice by Byrd, together with a fielder's choice and a wild pitch, netted the home team three more.

Continues Pounding Caraway.

A triple by Jorgens, Byrd's double and steal, and a single by Sewell helped New York to another pair in the fifth. Lary tripled in the sixth and scored when Caraway messed Lazzeri's grounder. The last scoring was done in the seventh. Sewell singled and took second on Ruth's single. Both moved up on an out and Sewell tallied when Caraway let loose a wild pitch.

Fothergill made the first two hits off Wells, and in the seventh Fonseca made the third Chicago hit, a triple to right center, after which he scored on Fothergill's infield out.

The Sox scored a run in the eighth on Grube's single, Blue's seventh pass of the day, and Reynolds' single. A run was added in the ninth on Kerr's single and Jeffries' double.

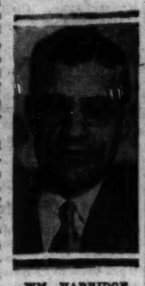
HARRIDGE SAYS MACKS' LEAD WILL HURT GATE

Philadelphia, Pa., July 27.—(AP)—William Harridge, president of the American Baseball league, said here today he feared financial returns for the remainder of the season would slump because of the long lead the Philadelphia Athletics possess.



WM. HARRIDGE.

He witnessed the Philadelphia-St. Louis game with Tom Connolly, chief of umpires. He asserted that conditions in the league were satisfactory and that, although he foresaw a slump in box office receipts, club owners and the league would realise a profit for the season.

TOM PATRICK TO MEET RAINS ON CONGRESS CARD

Patrick recently came from the Pacific coast, where he hung up a record of 25 consecutive victories, including a verdict over George Courtney. In his first appearance at the Congress bowl he stopped the veteran Canadian, Harry Dillon, in four rounds.

The semi-windup will bring together Mickey Patrick of Chicago and Jud Judkins of Benton Harbor, Mich., in a six round bout.

THREE STATIONS APPEAL CHICAGO RADIO RULINGS

Carry License Decisions to Appeals Court.

Washington, D. C., July 27.—[Special.]—Three of Chicago's leading broadcasting stations today appealed to the Court of Appeals here from decisions of the federal radio commission granting them temporary licenses, as a direct outgrowth of the high power broadcasting controversy which has dangled before the commission for nearly a year.

Seeking reversal of the commission's action, station W-G-N of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, WLS of the Agricultural Broadcasting company, and WENR of the National Broadcasting company filed separate petitions. The temporary licenses were issued on July 7, and the appeals were noted on the last day allowed under the terms of the law.

Recommended by Examiner.

In its decisions, the commission said the temporary licenses, dated from Aug. 1, were issued because of pending applications before it for the facilities occupied by the three stations. W-G-N is assigned to the 720 kilocycle channel exclusively with 25,000 watts power, and was the only Chicago station among four contestants to receive a favorable recommendation from the commission's chief examiner for the right to use the maximum power of 50,000 watts. Applying for the W-G-N channel is station WCFL of the Chicago Federation of Labor, now operating limited time with restricted power.

Stations WENR and WLS share time on the 870 kilocycle channel, each with 50,000 watts. Their facilities are applied for by station WTMJ of the Milwaukee Journal.

Argument of Attorney.

In his petition, Louis G. Caldwell, counsel for W-G-N and former general counsel of the commission, contended that the commission has no power under the radio act of 1927 to attach any condition on a license without a prior hearing, and unless there are "good and sufficient reasons." The action, moreover, he said, is in violation of the fifth amendment of the constitution, since it "deprived appellant of its property without due process of law."

The same legal points were raised by Louis Titus, counsel for WENR and WLS in their appeals, which were identical. He held that the decision granting temporary licenses to these stations was contrary to a decision rendered on June 24, at which time a majority of the commission decided in favor of renewal of the licenses of the stations.

INFIRMARY FIRE DEATHS MOUNT TO 42; TWO MISSING

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 27.—(AP)—The death toll reached 42 tonight, with two persons still unaccounted for, in the disastrous fire at the Home for the Aged of the Little Sisters of the Poor on Friday night. Six bodies were unidentified.

A further check of the ruins was made today by Coroner W. J. McGregor, who announced there were no more bodies among the debris and ashes. Police and fire department officials and attaches of the home were at a loss to account for the two missing persons.

Ransack Lawyer's Home; $2,500 in Jewelry Stolen

Jewelry valued at $2,500 was stolen last night by burglars who broke into the home of Attorney Harry R. Chapman at 7629 Kingston avenue. In addition, $67 was taken from a purse. Chapman was at work in his offices at 105 West Adams street and his wife and their two children were at a nearby beach at the time of the burglary.

BRITAIN FREES 3 FUGITIVES FROM DEVIL'S ISLAND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 27.—Three men who risked death to escape from the French penal colony on Devil's island were freed today by a decision of the privy council, highest court in Great Britain, and will not be handed over to French authorities.

The refugees were members of a party which escaped and set out for British territory in a small boat. Before reaching shore the boat capsized and several were drowned. The others finally landed at Chatham, Trinidad, in August, 1930, where they were arrested when the French requested that they be surrendered.

The escaped convicts, Gregoire Koasechatko, Cirille Caullier, and Pierre Retenger, were ordered detained by the Chatham magistrate pending extradition proceedings. Appeal to the Trinidad Supreme court followed and appeals for writs of habeas corpus were refused. The men were remanded to custody until the government decided whether to extradite them. This order was set aside by the privy council's action.

Woman Rescues Six When Boat Overturns in Lake

Sturgis, Mich., July 27.—[Special.]—Mrs. W. A. Grove, vacationist at Klinger lake, rescued six persons from drowning Sunday. Those rescued were Mrs. Harvey G. Avry and children, Russell, 2, and Donald, 4, Sturgis; Mr. and Mrs. William Barber and Mrs. A. Stegeman, South Bend. The six persons were in a small motor boat which capsized. Mrs. Grove, standing on the shore, secured a row boat and effected the rescue.

E. G. Purtell, North Side Undertaker, Succumbs

Edward G. Purtell, 40 years old, an undertaker at 4516 North Kedzie avenue, died in St. Mary's hospital last evening of pleurisy, despite a blood transfusion operation made in the hope of saving his life. Purtell had been ill for a week, but his condition was not considered serious until he was taken to the hospital.

ROMANCES RUSH TO COURTS OF RENO TO FIND THE WAY OUT

Reno, Nev., July 27.—(AP)—Ninety-four divorce decrees were signed by two district judges today.

Baron Steven von Clumberg Steg, "western representative of the Austrian monarchistic party," got a divorce from the woman he married in Vienna in 1922.

Lucile Hellman Meyberg, daughter of Maurice S. Hellman, Los Angeles banker, obtained a divorce from Leonard J. Meyberg on grounds of cruelty.

John R. Buchanan of Washington, D. C., charged cruelty in divorcing Ruth L. Buchanan. They were married Jan. 15, 1916, and have three children. Mrs. Buchanan is at Warrenton, Va.

The former Elizabeth Stackhouse got a divorce from George B. Moffat by charging cruelty. They are prominent socially in New York, married at Cambridge, Mass., in 1920, and have two children.

Conviction of a felony in New York cost Harold Russell Ryder, former head of a New York financial concern, his wife. The former Rhoma Woody said that Ryder, whom she married at Patchogue, N. Y., in 1916, is serving three years for grand larceny.

Beatrice N. Townsend was granted a decree against Edward N. Townsend of Garden City, L. I. She charged cruelty. The Townsends, who have three children, married at Babylon, L. I., Oct. 8, 1912.

AND HOLLYWOOD

Los Angeles, Cal., July 27.—(AP)—W. Armstrong, motion picture actor, was divorced from Jeanne Kent Armstrong, actress. He charged mental cruelty. Armstrong said Mrs. Armstrong did not care for home life. They married in London in June, 1926.

Two suits, one asking $100,000 for alleged breach of promise and the other $8,000 for alleged breach of contract, were filed by Sally Winters, also known as Sally McGowan, scenario writer, against John P. McGowan, motion picture director. The plaintiff charged the director promised to marry her May 31, 1926, and said she was induced to live with him on promises of marriage within "a reasonable time."

Miriam Hopkins, stage and screen actress, confirmed reports that she and her husband, Austin Parker, playwright, have definitely separated. "We've been separated on and off for the last year. We remain friends, and we plan no divorce."

2 ARMY CADETS KILLED AS BOMB PLANE CRASHES

San Antonio, Tex., July 27.—(AP)—The sudden plunge of a large bombing plane as it approached a landing today at Fort Clark, near Brackettsville, instantly killed two advanced students of the army air corps, Cadet Robert P. Burke, 26, of Dyersburg, Tenn., and Cadet George M. O'Rear, 23, of Jasper, La.

Both had been graduated recently from the primary flying school at Brooks field and were sent to Kelly field in June for advanced training.

The two students, along with a number of fellow cadets in other ships, had been sent on a cross country training flight to Fort Clark. As they approached a landing at Fort Clark, the big plane suddenly dropped to the ground from a height of 200 feet.

Student Pilot Injured.

Kankakee, Ill., July 27.—(AP)—Ludwig Birsa, student pilot of Joliet, was in St. Mary's hospital today suffering from a broken leg, broken arm and possibly a fractured skull, received in a 200 foot fall while attempting to land a plane at the local airport. He flew an experimental plane and was not a licensed pilot. Walter Franklin, government test pilot, had taken the plane up a short time before and pronounced it mechanically perfect.

Negro Crowd Dispersed by Police and Firemen

Six detective squads, more than 100 uniformed policemen, and several pieces of fire apparatus were called yesterday to disperse 3,000 Negroes who gathered at 3638 South Wabash avenue when deputy sheriffs started moving out the furniture of William Jones, a Negro living there. The deputies were acting under a court eviction order obtained by Jones' landlord for nonpayment of rent. The crowd left after police leaders had pointed out that nothing could be gained by aiding Jones in defiance of the law.

O'Brien Is Granted Stay in Income Tax Conviction

Presiding Judge Samuel Alschuler of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday granted a stay of execution of the mandate for the incarceration of State Representative Lawrence C. O'Brien, whose conviction of income tax evasion was affirmed last week. The order was issued with the understanding that Defense Attorney James A. O'Callaghan would move promptly in seeking a writ of certiorari from the Supreme court. O'Brien is under sentence of eighteen months in the penitentiary and he was fined $6,000.

"Prince of Beggars," Lord Knutsford, Dies in London

LONDON, July 27.—(AP)—Sidney Holland, Lord Knutsford, known throughout England as the "prince of beggars" on account of his efforts to raise money for the London hospital of which he was chairman, died today of a heart attack. Lord Knutsford, who was 76 years old, had recently undergone an operation. Through his campaigns, extending over the last thirty years, Lord Knutsford is believed to have raised a total of about $30,000,000 for the hospital.

St. Louis Woman Loses 20 Pounds of Fat in 4 Weeks

Also Gained in Energy—So Happy Can't Help But Write Letter of Thanks—Read It

A half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast not only quickly gives you the trim, slender figure you've eagerly craved but also brings back a degree of health and beauty you haven't had since the first pounds of excess fat made their appearance—strength and energy you forgot existed refill your body—skin clears—you feel years younger and look it, too!

And here in a nutshell is the "why" of the amazing reducing and health-giving power of Kruschen:

Kruschen is a superb combination of SIX separate mineral salts which act on glands, nerves and body organs as do the salts at the famous and expensive Spas of Europe.

It keeps the body free from harmful acids and poisons and strikes at the usual CAUSE of fat—thousands of women are amazed at the simplicity and common sense behind the Kruschen treatment and are more than overjoyed by the results. You can hasten the reducing action by going lighter on potatoes, pastry and fatty meats.

Mrs. Mae West of St. Louis, Mo., writes: "I just can't help but let you know what Kruschen has done for me. I'm only 28 years old and weighed 170 lbs. until taking one box of your Kruschen Salts just 4 weeks ago. I now weigh 150 lbs. I also have more energy and furthermore I've never had a hungry moment. It certainly is a great relief not to be fat and bulky."

Buy Kruschen TODAY. An 85c bottle lasts 4 weeks. Any leading druggist throughout the world can supply you—money back if not satisfied. E. Griffith Hughes, Inc., Rochester, N. Y.

MANY RAILWAYS REPORT JUNE OPERATING NET

Milwaukee Has 1st Gain Since 1929.

Several of the large western railroads issued reports on June earnings yesterday together with the statements of operations covering the first six months of the year. As in the previous months this year the June revenues of the carriers were simply below the corresponding month of 1930, but the decline in some cases was not as severe as in May.

The Chicago and North Western reported June net operating revenues of $791,022 which compares with $1,761,- of in the same month last year, a decline of $791,022. Gross operating revenues for the month totaled $9,- 0,585, as compared with $11,633,149 a June, 1930, which was a drop of $2,042,961. For the six months ended June 30, the road reported net operating revenue of $2,093,872, which was $2,091,312 below the operating income reported in the same period last year.

Net Is $650,311.

The Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad reported the first gain in net operating revenues for any month since August, 1929. The gain in net revenue was made despite the fact that the gross operating revenues showed a decrease from the comparable month in 1930. The June net operating revenue was $650,311, against $542,689 in June last year, or an increase of $66,622. Gross operating revenue for the month amounted to $10,107,715, which was a decrease of $1,683,983 from the $11,791,698 reported in June, 1930. Six months' net operating income was $2,255,974, compared with $4,959,407 last year.

Gross revenues of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railway in June showed the smallest decrease in dollars for any month this year, amounting to $4,354,325, as against $10,540,- 97 in the same month of 1930. The net operating income was $1,450,036 on $1,652,908, respectively, while the income after taxes and charges aggregated $365,207, in comparison with $90,158 a year ago.

Gross for First Half.

Gross revenues for the first half of 1931 amounted to $50,836,615, which compares with $62,124,087 a year ago, while the net operating income was $6,272,611 and $7,613,247, respectively.

A continued heavy decline in revenue was reflected in the report of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railway for June. Gross earnings for the month aggregated $14,851,424, which compares with $18,251,166 in June, 1930. This was partly overcome by lower operating expenses, the net income being $1,503,593 and $3,023,534, respectively.

For the first half of 1931 the gross revenues amounted to $85,972,267, which compares with $107,144,778 a year ago. The net operating income of $7,553,195 is in contrast with $10,- 19,971 last year.

New York Central Reports.

The New York Central Railroad company announced the net operating income for June for the entire system was $2,751,554, a decrease of $2,555,281 from June, 1930. The net operating income for the first six months of 1931 was $16,773,217, a decrease of $5,367,000 from the first half of 1930.

Other railroads reporting June net operating revenues, with comparisons with last year, included:

F. H. Rawson Recommends Branch Banking System

Declaring that mismanagement has been an important factor in the bank failures during the last two years, Frederick H. Rawson, chairman of the board of the First National Bank of Chicago, recommends that the existing laws be revised to permit branch banking in metropolitan districts. He also advocates the setting up of facilities to provide more adequate governmental supervision and a curb on the granting of bank charters. The Chicago banker's views are set forth in the current issue of the Review of Reviews.

F. H. RAWSON. [Dobbie Photo.]

Analyzing the conditions which caused the string of failures in Chicago, Mr. Rawson points to the muddled tax situation and the drastic slump in real estate values. Inexperienced management which proved unable to cope with these conditions played an important part in causing the closings, he believes.

"It is to be sincerely hoped that the experience the public has had in the last two years with bank failures, growing out of irresponsible management, will lead to branch banking in certain restricted metropolitan areas," he says. "Then instead of a city like Chicago having some two hundred independent banks, a number far in excess of what the population can properly support, and instead of ruinous competition resulting in a lack of sufficient profits to pay dividends, build proper reserves, and make necessary chargeoffs of losses, there will be a restricted number of branch banks, all efficiently managed, located at strategic points and operated by the leading banks in the financial district.

Field for Outlying Banks.

"There are a number of good outlying banks in Chicago still in existence, and there is a definite field for them," he adds. "By an exchange of stock with large downtown banks, sound outlying banks could become branches of these institutions. This course would not be compulsory, and if any outlying banks chose to do so, they could remain as independent units. By means of neighborhood branch banks, the convenience of the public could be served, the depositors and stockholders both would have greater security, and the unprofitable competition that has existed would be eliminated."

Many of the banks organized in Chicago in recent years have been the outgrowth of real estate loan, offices and commercial banking has played a very minor rôle in their activities, Mr. Rawson says.

"Those who managed them were familiar perhaps with the real estate loan business, but were wholly unacquainted with the fundamentals of sound commercial banking. With few exceptions, the outlying banks that failed were banks of this character."

NOEL STATE RECEIVER

State Auditor Oscar Nelson yesterday appointed Henry S. Savage receiver for the Noel State bank, 1601 Milwaukee avenue, which closed June 18 with resources of $6,410,000 and deposits of $4,763,000. Mr. Savage is president of the Logan Square State and Savings bank and he at one time was on the staff of the state auditor. He will be paid on a salary basis. Noble B. Judah was named attorney for the receiver.

Mr. Nelson also announced that following unsuccessful efforts to reorganize the Waukegan State bank, which closed on June 18, he will name a receiver for that institution.

Withdraws from Receivership.

As a result of the merger of the Central Trust Company of Illinois and the National Bank of the Republic, the Chicago Trust company yesterday requested the state auditor to be relieved of its duty as receiver for the Lake View State bank, the Citizens Trust and Savings bank and the Roosevelt Bankers State bank, all which closed last summer.

The Chicago Trust company was merged with the Central Trust company some time ago and the directors of the new Central Republic Bank and Trust company have adopted a policy of not assuming receiverships.

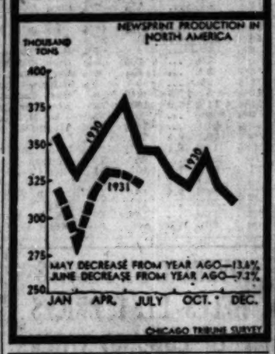
"I shall grant the request and appoint a new receiver," Mr. Nelson said. "I don't know who the receiver will be yet. The trust company will make a report on the work done so far."

Salaries of Receivers.

The controller of the treasury at Washington, who has charge of the six national banks closed in Cook county since the first of the year, yesterday disclosed the salaries being paid the receivers. The receivers and their salaries follow:

R. B. McCandless, receiver for the Washington Park National bank, 6306 Cottage Grove avenue, $9,000 a year; R. C. Sullivan, Inland-Irving National bank, 4717 Irving Park boulevard, $6,500; Gordon Ramsey, Albany Park National Bank and Trust company, 3422 Lawrence avenue, $6,000; M. J. Pufahl, Austin National bank, 5634 West Chicago avenue, $6,000; James C. White, Lawrence Avenue National bank, 3222 Lawrence avenue, $5,000; and James B. Beret, First National bank of Oak Park, $3,600.

JUNE NEWSPRINT PRODUCTION COMES CLOSER TO 1930 RATE



CREDIT CHADBOURNE PLAN FOR UPTURN IN PRICES OF SUGAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 27.—The Chadbourne plan for aiding the sugar industry, developed for Thomas L. Chadbourne of New York, has worked successfully so far and is largely responsible for the recent rise in the prices of both raw and refined sugars, James H. Post, president of the National Sugar Refining Company of New Jersey, said today.

THOMAS L. CHADBOURNE [Acme Photo.]

Besides heading the National Sugar Refining company, Mr. Post is directly interested in the raw sugar industry as chairman of the board of the Cuban American Sugar company and director of other companies engaged in the production end of the business.

"Sugar prices have advanced approximately ½c a pound because of withdrawal of raw sugar from the market and adoption of a policy of leaving sugar cane standing in the fields instead of cutting and grinding it and thereby increasing the supply," said Mr. Post.

"Had not the Chadbourne plan gone into effect you would see raw sugar still selling around a cent a pound and refined at its recent low level. Refined sugar was selling at 4.35 cents a pound in May. Now the market is 4.75c a pound."

Tells of Rail Difficulties Due to Flight of Capital

BY SCRUTATOR.

Likening the flight of capital from the railroads to the flight of capital from Germany, Fairman R. Dick, who represents railroad security holders in the rate hearings before the interstate commerce commission, declares that "the difficulty with the railroad securities today is that investors are fleeing from them and going into investments which have turned out more satisfactorily."

He points out that from the high point in 1930 to June 1, 1931, the average decline in the value of the refunding and overlying bonds of those railroads with annual revenues in excess of $10,000,000 was 17.6 points. In the same period German government bonds declined 17 points.

This flight of capital from railway securities is perhaps the most serious aspect of the carriers' present troubles. Class I roads have outstanding more than ten billions of funded obligations. A decline in the market prices means increased difficulty in future financing.

Statement Is Significant.

One statement made in the carriers' original petition for a general fifteen per cent boost in freight rates is significant.

The theory of the law," it reads, "is that railway property is private property affected with a public use; that in being devoted to such use it foregoes exceptional opportunity for the assurance of fair return.

"If the sacrifice already made under conditions of prosperity is to be greatly enlarged because of conditions of adversity, the result is that railway property has become public property affected with a private obligation to maintain it.

"It can not be expected that investors in railway securities will assume and perform such an obligation."

The railroads have told the commission of their urgent need for additional revenues. Their explanation of the dangers of the credit situation has been convincing. They have shown that maintenance expenditures have been cut to the bone, a condition which for reasons of service and safety cannot be indefinitely continued.

Their need for more money has been translated into a demand for higher freight rates because that seems to them the only way to get relief in time. An emergency confronts them and to meet it an emergency plan has been devised, not necessarily one which would be best in the long run.

The present predicament is not an indictment of private operation of the railroads, for the simple reason that many of the policies and practices which have eaten into earnings are not their own but those forced upon them by regulatory bodies.

Activities Are Curbed.

They have not been allowed to adjust rates to meet water competition. They have not been permitted freedom to adapt the type of service to the demand for it. They have not been allowed to abandon losing branch lines and substitute more economical service in the form of bus and truck lines.

Their very demand for a higher rate level to which they may make exceptions to meet competitive conditions is an indirect request for a return of some of the flexibility that they have lost.

Whether or not the requested increase is granted it will not solve some of the deeper problems. If increasing competition means decreasing revenues the time will come, if it is not here now, when it will be impossible to make the traffic that remains pay higher rates to compensate for the traffic lost.

MEXICAN BANKS ASK RIGHT TO PAY OUT MORE GOLD

MEXICO CITY, July 27.—(AP)—The leading banks today asked the treasury department for authority to pay gold deposits in a larger percentage of gold than that fixed under the Calles monetary reform law approved Saturday.

The reform authorized the banks to pay depositors of gold 30 per cent in gold and the rest in silver, but the Bank of Mexico announced that it would pay such deposits entirely in gold. The other banks have not stated whether they would follow suit if permission were obtained.

The banking situation appeared somewhat confused this morning on the first day of application of the new Calles monetary plan. Half an hour after the banks opened financiers were still conferring with bankers in New York by telephone before announcing the rate of exchange.

CANADA'S 5 CENT WHEAT BONUS PASSES HOUSE

Ottawa, Ont., July 27.—(AP)—A bill providing for a five cent bonus on wheat grown in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta passed the house of commons today.

The bill said the bonus would be paid on every bushel of wheat grown in 1931 and "delivered to any licensed elevator in the western inspection division, commission merchant, track buyer or grain dealer, as defined by the Canada grain act."

Cluett, Peabody & Co. Six Months' Net, $336,456

New York, July 27.—(AP)—Cluett, Peabody & Co., Inc., of Troy, N. Y., today reported net income of $336,456 for the first half year, equal to $1.01 a common share. This compares with $418,040, or $1.33 on the common a year ago. On June 30, last, the company had current assets of $9,215,521, against current liabilities of $399,751.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 27.—Today's share market makeshift just about approximated the cube root of nothing. Business fell off to a mere 572,000 shares, the smallest total since September, 1926, when the aggregate was recorded at 591,000 shares.

Prices drifted about helplessly, with a barely discernible drift toward lower levels in the forenoon and a slant upward again toward the last. Closing figures were irregular with a majority of stocks showing small gains.

There was a disposition in some quarters to set down the day's extreme dullness as due in part to the time marking inclinations of the trading community pending the outcome of tomorrow's dividend meeting of the United States Steel corporation. But the street has been primed for days by statements from quarters considered rather authoritative to look for a cut in the rate to $5 and the probabilities are that any cut that may be made has been pretty thoroughly discounted by now. No action along the lines of wage cutting is now looked for. Some evidence of this fact might be gathered from the advance of about 2 points registered by the old line leader today. However, those who might be in a position to trade in the shares of the corporation are evidently afraid to put out any very large short lines on the possibility that the directors might put over a fast one by authorizing payment of the usual $7 rate.

Taking In of Lines.

Today's advance probably represented in a measure at any rate the precautionary taking in of lines put out last week when it began to be accepted as a certainty that the rate would be reduced.

Bethlehem's rate is also understood to be slated for a pruning. So much attention has been devoted to the industry leader, however, that Bethlehem has not come in for such heavy selling as the other. It had considerable difficulty for that reason in holding its own today. Hints that negotiations looking to the merger of Bethlehem with Youngstown Sheet and Tube are not being pressed very hard also

OKLAHOMA CITY OIL OUTPUT AT NEW LOW LEVEL

Oklahoma City, Okla., July 27.—(AP)—Production of the Oklahoma City field, where most producers have closed in wells until crude oil brings a higher price, sank to a new low level of 17,630 barrels today from 23 wells. Sunday's gauge was 52,500 barrels from 26 wells and Saturday's 52,260 from 42 wells.

Meets Humble Advance.

Houston, Tex., July 27.—(AP)—The Sinclair Oil and Gas company today announced it had met the 9-cent advance in Gulf Coast crude oil, initiated by the Humble company July 24. The Sinclair posting is retroactive to the foregoing dates: The new price is 31 cents for below 25 gravity with an upward 1 cent differential for each degree of gravity up to and including 35 gravity and above, which carries the top price of 51 cents.

Posts Flat 50c Price.

Tulsa, Okla., July 27.—(AP)—The Sinclair Refining company hiked the ante on the other crude oil purchasers today by posting a flat price of 50 cents a barrel for the oil it buys in Oklahoma and Kansas.

Monroe Street looking west....

....from Clark, fifty years ago. On the left and a few steps down the street, today, is the 21-story building which houses the Harris Trust and Savings Bank. At about the time of this picture, the business (founded in 1882 as N. W. Harris & Co.) was conducted in two small rooms in a building near the site of the present one.

In the early days, N. W. Harris wrote down the following sentence for the guidance of his associates:

"Bear in mind always that it is not the amount of business, but the kind of business we do that counts, and if what is done, is done right, the amount will take care of itself."

The Harris Trust and Savings Bank combines an atmosphere of friendly cooperation with the conservative policies which N. W. Harris initiated in the early days.

VALUE OUTPUT OF U.S. FACTORIES AT 70 BILLION IN '29

Work of 200,000 Firms Analyzed by Board.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 27.—Seventy billion dollars, in round numbers, was the total value of manufactured products of the nation in 1929, according to figures of the bureau of the census. This inconceivable sum of money has been analyzed and interpreted by the national industrial conference board in a bulletin under the title of "Manufacturing and Its Elements."

The seventy billion dollar total summarizes the operations of more than 200,000 enterprises; it records the activities of more than 10,000,000 workers, managers, clerks, and wage earners; it embodies the purchase of $36,000,000,000 worth of materials and the outlay of nearly $2,000,000,000 for fuel and power. It is, in short, says the conference board, "a concrete expression of man's technical and material progress."

According to the statistical methods of the census bureau the value of a manufactured product represents its selling value at the factory. In an analysis of this value the only elements that are known positively seem to be materials, fuel and power, and wages and salaries. All other elements, such as administration and selling expenses, taxes, rent, interest, depreciation and other overhead expense, and finally the profit, are lumped together and, along with wages and salaries, are recorded as the "value added by manufacture."

Cost of Materials.

The cost of materials that enter into a manufactured product is a much more complex element in its relation to the total of manufacturing enterprises than would appear on first thought. The total value of the manufactured product reported by the census depends not only on the physical substances that enter into it but also upon the organization of industry and how often these physical substances are counted—in other words, how often the product of one factory becomes the material of another.

Analyzing efforts made by previous census reports to estimate the extent of this duplication, by ascertaining the value of manufactured products that serve as materials for other factories, the conference board finds that the proportion of the value of such products to the total value was about one-third. On this basis the net product of manufacturing industry in 1929 was 46.7 billion dollars. This computed net product is divided into three elements, namely: raw materials that had not previously been subjected to manufacturing processes, 12.9 billion dollars; fuel and power, about 2 billion dollars, and value added by manufacture, 31.8 billion dollars.

Fuel and Power.

The cost of fuel and power is so expressed in order to distinguish between fuel, used primarily in the production of power, and electric power purchased, as it were, ready-made from the public utility companies. In recent years the latter has come to be a substantial part of the power used in manufacturing industry.

The value added by manufacture, computed by subtracting from the total value of the product the sum of the cost of materials and that of fuel and power, is subject to little further analysis. Somewhat less than one-half is attributed to wages and salaries, and the remainder to miscellaneous expenses and profits, which are not separated. Of the total pay roll a little over 75 per cent goes to wages and a little less than 25 per cent to salaries. The share attributed to salaries is larger in 1929 than it was in earlier enumerations; in 1923 it was 20 per cent. This increased proportion of salaried workers in 1929 over that in 1923 seems to reflect the modernization of factory administration, with its emphasis upon control and supervision.

MONEY AND EXCHANGE

Money rates are quoted by Chicago banks as follows: Customers' commercial loans, 4@6 per cent; collateral loans, 4¼@5 per cent; brokers' loans, 4 per cent; commercial papers, 3½@3¾ per cent; bankers' acceptances, 3@3½ per cent for thirty to ninety day maturities. Chicago clearings yesterday were $44,800,000, compared with $49,100,000 a week ago and $75,700,000 a year ago.

LOUIS BERMAN LEASES SPACE IN 333 BUILDING

Furrier Takes 3 Shops for Several Years.

BY AL CHASE.

Louis Berman & Co., furriers, now at an upper floor at 320 North Michigan avenue, have leased the three stores at 335, 337 and 339 North Michigan avenue, in the 333 North Michigan Avenue building, for seven years and seven months beginning Oct. 1. The annual rental was not disclosed by William O. Trainer, renting manager of the building, who negotiated the lease. The lessor is the Three Thirty Three North Michigan Avenue building corporation. In addition to space on the first floor the lessees will occupy 4,000 square feet of mezzanine floor area.

Upon completion of extensive alterations under the supervision of Philip B. Maher and Holabird & Root, architects, Berman & Co. will occupy the premises for the sale, manufacture and storage of fur garments. Two fire storage vaults will be included in the remodeling plans. Taylor, Miller, Busch & Boyden and Sonnenschein, Berkson, Lautmann, Levinson & Howe were attorneys.

Village Plans Its First Park.

Ten acres of land south of and adjoining the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific R. R. station at Golf, Ill., have been acquired by the Glen Park district, which operates in and Golf and Glen View. The seller is the Chicago Title and Trust company, trustee. This will be Golf's first park.

The Christian Science Benevolent association of Massachusetts yesterday sold the three apartment building at 5635 Calumet avenue, lot 31x160, to Clarence N. Holland for a reported $75,000. This property was bequeathed to the association by the late Mrs. Carrie L. Bogle, who lived in the building. A. A. Sherrard was attorney for Mr. Holland, and Rangs, Crane & Baker for the association. Bert Nicols was broker.

The Chicago Specialties corporation, a new organization for the manufacture of glass novelties, has purchased of A. Charlotte Guldon of Westchester, N. J., the property at 6th avenue and the Pennsylvania railroad in Hobart, Ind., through Louis B. Bardalee & Co. The land consists of five acres and is improved with a one story building containing approximately 30,000 square feet of floor space.

Buys Factory Building.

J. J. Lynch has purchased the industrial property on West 45th place 200 feet west of Campbell avenue, containing 24,000 square feet, improved with a three story and one story building, and served by the Indiana Harbor Belt railway, for a reported $35,000 cash. The seller was by order of Robert Glendinning.

J. Lynch has leased the property to the Gardiner Metal company, whose plant adjoins this property, for a ten year term at a reported term rental of $5,000. They will use this for expansion as required. Louis B. Beardsley & Co. and Hart & Whetston were brokers.

Receiver for Loop Building.

Judge William J. Lindsay of the superior court has appointed John R. Magill receiver of the City State Bank building at the southwest corner of Randolph and Wells streets, and John R. Magill & Co. will manage the property for the receiver.

The building is in two sections, the corner section—17 stories in height, which was erected in 1915, and the south section, 23 stories in height, which was completed in the spring of 1931. Mr. Magill was also appointed receiver for the property at 1519 and 1521 South Wabash avenue by Judge Lindsay.

NEW DIRECTORS OF CONSOLIDATED BANK NAMED

The Central Republic Bank and Trust company, Chicago's third largest banking house, was officially opened yesterday at 208 South La Salle street, following the physical merger of the Central Trust Company of Illinois and the National Bank of the Republic, which took place over the week-end. During the day many important visitors called to felicitate the officials of the new bank, while there was the customary number of congratulatory telegrams and floral offerings.

Members of the new board of directors, most of whom have served on the boards of the two banks, were announced yesterday. They follow: Harrell S. Boyd, Joseph H. Briggs, George T. Buckingham, Daniel H. Burnham, George R. Carr, Charles S. Castle, Harley L. Clarke, Philip R. Clarke, Henry M. Dawes, Rufus C. Dawes, William R. Dawes, George W. Dixon, George B. Dryden, George A. WALL ST. TRADE MOVES AT WALK; PRICES EASE UP

After a period of relatively tame performance, Auburn Automobile broke out into prominence again today, going into a sharp decline which carried it off some 12 or 14 points at the low. Selling which forced the issue back was quite persistent, and there was a noticeable absence of the aggressive support which the street had become accustomed to look for. There was little to explain the selling, making the action of the stock not a little perplexing.

Auburn reported net equal to $12.09 a share for the stock for the first six months of its fiscal year, compared with $4.79 a share reported in the same period last year, and bookkeeping this year is reported to have been quite conservative. Sponsors for the stock, evidently not liking the general market, showed a disposition to back away from offerings. The closing sale was at 146, which left it with a net loss of 19¼ points on the day.

Rail Shares Drop.

Railroad shares resumed their downward drift as the run of June operating statements continued to show up in a manner hardly to be regarded as satisfactory. Atchison lost a point on the day's leadings, New Haven settled down 2, Norfolk and Western 5, and Baltimore and Ohio about 2 points.

Motor shares were a shade firmer on the whole and so were the oils.

WALL STREET EYES EVENTS IN CHILE; U. S. STAKE IS $700,000,000

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 27.—Wall street watched with keen interest today the developments incident to the change of government in Chile, as American capital has played a leading part in the development of Chilean industry. United States investments in Chile are estimated in excess of $700,000,000, larger than in any other South American country save Argentina.

Direct investments by American corporations in Chilean mining enterprises account for about half our total stake in that country. In addition to copper, Chile is a leading producer of nitrate.

Chile has some of the richest deposits of copper in the world. The slump in the price of that staple from 16 cents a pound in the United States to 5 cents and less has seriously crippled that republic. The Chile Copper company, controlling some of Chile's best copper deposits, was once dominated by the Guggenheim interests. In 1923 they sold controlling interest to the Anaconda Copper Mining company.

Anaconda also holds most of the outstanding stock of the Andes Copper company, which also has valuable properties in Chile. The Kennecott Copper corporation also owns valuable copper deposits in Chile through its subsidiary, the Braden Copper company.

The Guggenheim interests have also taken a leading part in the development of Chile's rich nitrate deposits. The Guggenheim company, the Anglo-Chilean Consolidated Nitrate corporation, recently became a part of the 375 million dollar Chilean nitrate monopoly sponsored by the Chilean government. A new company, known as the Chile Nitrate company, was formed to consolidate the various producers. The Chilean government holds one-half interest in the new company.

WHEAT SUPPLY AT HIGH LEVEL, PRICES DECLINE

Corn Advances as Shorts Turn Buyers.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

New low prices were made in September and December wheat yesterday, with July down to the previous low, 51¾c. Trade was light and spasmodic, with the day's range inside of 1c.

The market derived a large part of what strength it had from corn and at times was affected by buying and selling credited to the Farm Board trading house, the Updike Grain Co.

Statistics were mixed, but in all had little influence. The visible supply in the United States increased 4,930,000 bu as compared with 7,192,000 bu the previous week and 14,908,000 bu last year. The total supply is the largest known, 206,311,000 bu, or 66,617,000 bu in excess of last year.

World shipments of 12,283,000 bu were below import requirements and there was a decrease of 2,315,000 bu on ocean passage, bringing the total down to only 4,000,000 bu in excess of last year. There was nothing positive in the export news and Gulf premiums were slightly easier, with it expected that loadings until Aug. 1 will be light, but after that period a considerable increase in farmers marketing is expected as a result of the rate reduction. At Chicago receipts were 1,337 cars, including grain from the southwest.

The Winnipeg market, which broke 3c at the close on Saturday, developed more strength on short covering and lighter offerings, also on unfavorable crop reports. A representative of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, who is investigating crop reports in western Canada, says the size of the Canadian crop will depend upon the price in Winnipeg during the next 30 days. In other words, unless there is an advance, the wheat in many sections is so poor that it will not pay to cut and thresh. At the close Winnipeg July was 53¾c and October 55¾c and December 56¾c, showing net gains of ⅝@⅞c.

Hedging pressure was not heavy at any time, neither was there conspicuous buying on the part of milling interests to remove hedges against flour sales. Corn markets did not present anything strikingly new.

July Corn Over 60c.

Shorts were good buyers of July corn, finding it difficult to get in without advancing prices. As a result they were moved up to an advance of 3c over Saturday's close to 60¾c, which brought out fair offerings and a recession to 60¾c at the close, a net gain of 2½c. Cash markets were weaker, No. 2 yellow being 1@1¼c discount under July, due to receipts of 496 cars. There were sales to go to store of 400,000 bu, to be delivered on July contracts. Crop reports from parts of South Dakota and Nebraska were bullish and made shorts nervous, with an advance in September of nearly 3c and a reaction of 1c, the close being 59¾@59¾c, the reaction being due to profit taking.

Oats were under pressure early, with a new low on July, 23¾c, and a close at 24c, lowering only ¼c for the day. Other months were off only ¾c. Liquidation was on early and the market developed support in the later trade. It was a quiet day in rye, with fluctuations small and the close unchanged to ¼c lower.

PIT NOTES

Wheat traders are not expecting that their market will do much in either direction for the time being. The price range is so close to the 50c level that only a few professionals are disposed to press the selling side on breaks, while the bears take profits on all bulges. Statistics are more two-sided and afford ample room for a wide variety of opinions, but the general belief is that until there is a better demand for wheat from abroad and export clearances increase the market is not expected to show a material sustained advance.

Corn is attracting more attention, owing to the strength in July, the open interest in which is around 7,000,000 bu, with only four more trading days of this month. Scarcity of storage room, it is feared, will make an unpleasant situation in case there should be liberal deliveries of cash corn in cars on track. To hold corn on track at this season is hazardous, but it is understood every effort will be made to furnish storage room for all corn that is delivered this month.

The wheat trade is watching reports of charters from the Black sea for loading Russian wheat for export. They have been heavy so far this season and tend to encourage those who are bearish to expect lower prices.

AUTOMOBILES FOR SALE.

STUDEBAKER SALES CO.
Offers Repossessed Cars
AT SACRIFICE PRICES.

SCHOOL SCRIP ACCEPTED AT FULL FACE VALUE!

During the past few months our finance company foreclosed a number of good used cars, and now we decided that every repossessed car must be liquidated at once. To assure the immediate sale of the entire stock, prices have been slashed to a fraction of their values. Five days' free driving trial goes with each sale.

WILLYS-KNIGHT, 7 pass. Many valuable extras, including bumpers, spotlight, spare tire, etc. The motor was recently relined by expert mechanics and the mohair upholstery appears brand new. The finish has not a mar on it. Will not remain 24 hours at our price of $195.

ESSEX SEDAN. Late model that was oiled and greased every 500 miles by the original owner, so now it's topnotch in every respect. Equipped with every essential extra. Considering the condition of this car, it's a sensational value at our reduced price of $295.

'28 STUDEBAKER SEDAN. This Commander must be seen to be appreciated. The finish is bright and shiny and the upholstery appears unworn. Also shock absorbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. $395.

CHRYSLER SEDAN. 1929 model 65 that looks and runs as though it had never been driven a mile. This Chrysler will satisfy the most exacting buyer and will not remain long at our reduced price of $495.

BUICK SEDAN. This 1928 Mast. Six was owned by a prominent manufacturer. The finish, upholstery, and tires are in the original new condition and the motor runs very smoothly. Equipped with bumpers, spare tires, shubbers, etc. $345. Also a 1930 Buick Coupe, like new, for $645.

NASH SEDAN. '29 Adv. 6. The finish has not a mar on it, and the upholstery is luxurious. Has a wealth of extras. This Nash was traded in at a very favorable price, so we'll pass on the saving to you. Now $395.

PACKARD 6 SEDAN. 1928 model that is equipped with many extras. The finish sparkles like a new dollar, and the interior is very distinguished. Motor could not be improved. Will not remain long at our price of $645.

STUDEBAKER SEDAN. 1930 Dictator. Here is a car that will satisfy the most exacting buyer. The inside appointments are beautiful and the finish glistens like a new dollar. Motor is smooth and powerful; 6 wire wheels. Reduced to $695.

STUDEBAKER COMMANDER 8 CABRIOLET. 1929 model. We defy anybody to tell this from a brand new car. It has an unusually smart paint job, wire wheels, side mounts, trunk, driving light, shock absorbers, and other extras. Rodney rumble seat. This car is a beauty and it's a real bargain at our price of $795.
